Willkie Tells Aim for More Jobs

SAYS REFORMS ARE VALUELESS WITHOUT THEM

Warns Against Road to Bankruptcy.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 23 [Special].—Wendell Willkie, in an address at the Seattle stadium tonight, set aside all the New Deal panaceas for labor and social security as worthless unless this country takes the road away from bankruptcy and toward the great business revival which he has promised under a Republican administration.

In campaigning thru the northwest today, both in politically friendly and unfriendly territory, Willkie made clear his attitude toward labor and social gains, and also defined his views on the power problem, a subject of great interest in this section because of the building of the Bonneville and Grand Coulee dams on the Columbia river.

Big Crowds Turn Out.

Willkie was received everywhere by great crowds. He paraded thru Portland, Tacoma, and Seattle, visiting the workers' neighborhoods and factory districts and carrying his arguments directly to thousands who could not get into his packed meeting halls.

In Tacoma's planing mill section he came into contact with the greatest number of laborers. He presented his arguments and asked them to think hard before they voted in this election, which he said was the most important in the history of America.

"Don't let the Hagues and Kellys count you like sheep and say this state is in the bag," he exhorted them.

Willkie was working against prevailing sentiment in these Washington cities, for they are predominately Democratic. He attacked the situation, however, with vigor and earnestness. His personality evidently attracted the people, and he undoubtedly is winning votes here, as everywhere that he appears.

Remedy: More Jobs.

Willkie gave his remedy for the economic situation in this country—a simple one—the making of more jobs.

"In 1932," Willkie asserted, "Candidate Roosevelt said that our number one problem was jobs. He was right that time. In 1936, when Mr. Roosevelt was again a candidate, our number one problem was still jobs.

"And now, in 1940, Mr. Roosevelt is still a candidate—and our number one domestic problem is still jobs.

"The only difference is that today Candidate Roosevelt is no longer talking about that subject. Some time back, the New Dealers gave up talking about jobs and just talked about unemployment.

A Reference to Hopkins.

"According to no less an authority than Harry Hopkins, a large number of our people will always be out of work.

"That proposition I totally reject."

There are two ways for people to find work, the nominee went on. One, he said, is for them to work for themselves; the other, to find an employer.

"Now, there are two kinds of employer systems in the world, and only two.

"Under one system, almost all of the people work for private employers. That is the system we have in democratic countries.

"Under the other system, almost all of the people work for one employer, the state. That is the case in Russia, and in effect, in Germany and the other dictator countries.

The Price: Freedom.

"Under a dictatorship there need never be any unemployment. The state tells you what you must do, where you must do it, and how you must do it. You have a job, but for that job you have paid an intolerable price. You have bought that job with your freedom.

"We in America have made our decision with regard to that issue. We want to work for and with private employers to find new ways of creating jobs. And we believe in the freedom of the workers to take whatever jobs they want—whatever jobs

Holt Charges Shakedown in Defense Drive

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23 (AP).—Senator Rush D. Holt [D., W. Va.] charged in the senate today that concerns which have obtained national defense contracts are being "blackjacked" into making campaign contributions to the Democratic national committee.

He also asserted that Washington hotels are crowded with "contract vultures" who "are waving the American flag with one hand and stuffing nice juicy contracts into pockets with the other."

Many of the contributions, Holt said, are being "made under the subterfuge of advertisments in campaign books."

Charges Corrupt Practice.

"This idea of blackjacking corporations that have defense contracts is a corrupt practice, but you and I know that it will not be prosecuted," Holt shouted.

At one point in his speech Senator A. Styles Bridges [R., N. H.] interrupted to remark that contracts recently had been awarded to the engineering firm of Lawrence W. [Chip] Robert Jr., secretary of the Democratic national committee.

"Yes," said Holt. "If I had been in Mr. Robert's place I would have resigned before accepting any contracts. He did his party a disservice by not resigning."

[These remarks were made a short time before word came from New York that Robert had resigned his party post. Details on Robert's resignation will be found on page 11.]

Gives Specific Example.

Holt opened his speech by reading newspaper accounts of the appointment of Forry Laucks, York, Pa., industrialist, as president of the Pennsylvania Roosevelt - Wallace clubs. Laucks was described as an official of the York Safe and Lock company.

"On the same day that papers reported Mr. Laucks' appointment as president of the clubs they carried a story that the York Safe and Lock company had been awarded $3,046,000 in war department contracts," the senator asserted.

He added that this company had inserted advertising in the Democratic convention book of 1940 which cost "at least $4,000."

BRITAIN HELD FRESH AS FIGHTER IN FIRST ROUND AS NAZIS TIRE

LONDON, Sept. 23 (AP).—John Maynard Keynes, noted economist, tonight said Britain has "the freshness of a fighter in the first round of combat," whereas "Germany has already suffered the nervous tension and muscular exhaustion of five years of prodigious effort."

Keynes urged the British not to be uneasy about problems of personal or national finance.

"We have parted with some of our more liquid assets in the shape of gold, mainly to the United States," he said. "A million and a half tons of shipping have been sunk by enemy action. Buildings have been destroyed from the air. On the other hand . . . our stocks of commodities, far from being diminished, are probably increased."

HOW TO QUALIFY FOR DRAFT: GET READY FOR HIKE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23 (AP).—Selective service officials, working out the final details of the physical qualifications draftees will have to meet, laid down this general policy today:

"Every man must be able to walk 15 to 20 miles, after due conditioning, with 50 pounds on his back."

"And emphasize that phrase, 'after due conditioning,'" Lieut. Col. Charles B. Spruit, medical officer of the selective service committee, said at a press conference.

Spruit added that physical qualifications for the conscripts would be roughly the same as present army standards with a few minor changes. Conscripts 5 feet tall will be accepted, for example, whereas the army requires regular recruits to be 5 feet 4 inches. Men who wear glasses will have to meet certain minimum standards of vision without them or be rejected.

320 Censors at Bermuda Set 3 Hotels to Humming

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Sept. 23.—Three of Bermuda's best known hotels, closed since the war began, now hum with activity under the British government's plans to censor trans-Atlantic mail here. With arrival of 200 more censors from England, a staff of more than 320 now is employed in examining mail to and from Europe.

Navy Prepares Ships for War, Says Admiral

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—Official testimony on a supplemental appropriation bill, made public today, disclosed that the navy is getting ready for war and has instructed the coast guard to put its vessels and facilities on a wartime basis.

The testimony disclosed that both the navy and the coast guard are equipping their vessels with the British belt device for neutralizing magnetic mines.

"It would be foolish for any nation to send a vessel into a war zone where mines might be located without this equipment," Rear Admiral Russell R. Waesche, commandant of the coast guard, told the house deficiency appropriations subcommittee last Friday.

Admiral Waesche testified in support of various items for the coast guard in a $267,000,000 supplemental appropriation bill for national defense and miscellaneous government agencies. The house passed the bill today.

Get Ships "Ready for War."

Admiral Waesche first told the subcommittee about the navy's urgent preparations for war at a hearing on Aug. 6, when he explained an item of $2,300,000 for the coast guard depot at South Baltimore, Md.

Representative Louis Ludlow [D., Ind.] asked Admiral Waesche whether the item of $2,300,000 could not be postponed until January.

"The difficulty is that we are faced now with the process of getting the ships ready for the emergency," said Admiral Waesche. "The navy says that we cannot use the navy yards. At the same time the navy is pushing us to get ready for war."

Prepare in Lakes Area.

Admiral Waesche also described as "a preparation for war" a proposed new coast guard radio station for the Chicago district at Wilmette, for which $200,000 was contained in the bill. Representative John Taber [R., N. Y.] wanted to know if the Chicago item was a "war proposition."

"Not strictly, but it is a preparation for war," Admiral Waesche replied. He said the federal power commission had asked the coast guard to protect the wharves of power plants located on the Great Lakes from sabotage and that the radio stations were essential in this work.

LINK HUGE NAZI ARMY ACTIVITY WITH AXIS PLAN

Hitler Gets Report on Rome Meeting.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 23.—Joachim von Ribbentrop, German foreign minister, arrived in Berlin tonight from his conversations with Premier Mussolini in Rome and immediately went to the chancellery to report to Adolf Hitler.

Count Werner von Schulenberg, German ambassador to Moscow, also reached the German capital. Ramon Serrano Suner, Spanish minister of the interior, is on deck in Berlin, too. He is to be called into conference in the German foreign office.

Germans Stirred.

The atmosphere in Berlin tonight is distinctly reminiscent of that on the eve of Germany's western offensive, when everybody knew that Germany's war machine was ready to strike, but the direction in which it would strike was surrounded in mystery.

Troop movements of such magnitude are taking place that the average German speaks feverishly about them and conjectures on what the next developments might be. Diplomats linked the army's activities with the next move of the Rome-Berlin axis.

They pointed out that when Serrano Suner first came to Berlin he planned to return to Spain after a tour of Germany. There was no talk of his returning to Berlin. The fact that he did come back to meet Von Ribbentrop after the latter's visit to Rome convinces many that the rôle to be assigned to Spain in this war was one of the main subjects under discussion between Von Ribbentrop and Mussolini.

[According to a dispatch from Rome reports are current there that Von Ribbentrop and Mussolini discussed a new disposition of French territory which would involve the disappearance of the government of Marshal Henri Petain.]

Refer to Spain's Position.

Members of the Spanish official's retinue, in conversations with Americans, stressed the precarious position of Spain which "has by no means recovered from the effects of the civil war."

"Each day new internal problems confront her," they said. A Falangist [Spanish Fascist] who is known for his friendship with Germany explained "Spain cannot risk entering the war until 80 per cent of England and the English fleet are destroyed."

Nazis suggest that Spain should allow Italian and German forces to use important bases in Spain which might enable that nation to keep out of active warfare, while axis forces lay siege to Gibraltar. Members of Serrano Suner's staff have complained to their friends that "the Italians want too much," but declined to talk when pressed for more information.

Believe Soviets Are Worried.

Von Schulenburg returned to Berlin from Moscow at a time when the Russians still are clamoring for a voice in the fate of the Danube and southeastern Europe and apparently are worried over what will happen to the Dardanelles—straits that link the Black sea with the Mediterranean—if the authoritarian powers decide to move into Greece.

The Greek government has denied Italian and German allegations that the Greeks had allowed an English armed merchantman to seek refuge in one of their ports and undergo repairs.

Turkey Fears War Spread.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Sept. 23 (AP).—The Turkish ambassador to Rome, Huseyin Raghip, arrived for a conference with government leaders today amidst Turkish concern that war may spread to Syria and the near east in the wake of Rome-Berlin axis parleys. No official reason was given, however, for the ambassador's return.

Turkey's anxiety over possible spread of war to the near east was reflected in press comment, with the newspaper Tan charging that German and Italian agents sought to "create trouble in Syria."

[Syria is the gateway to the British oil fields in Iraq and it has been intimated that the Germans intend to strike in the middle east in an effort to secure possession of the oil fields.]

NAZI PILOT SHOT DOWN INTO SEA; SAVED BY BRITISH

BY STANLEY JOHNSTONE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

IN THE FOLKESTONE AREA, England, Sept. 23.—I saw a German Messerschmitt pilot, Underofficer Frederick Clithey, 34 years old, rescued from the sea off Folkestone today after his plane had been shot down in a desperate duel with a British Spitfire at 1,000 feet altitude.

The Messerschmitt, riddled with bullet holes and its motor silent, descended into the sea 300 yards from the end of the Folkestone pier. British Military Lieutenant M. E. Jacobs stripped off his uniform and swam to the sinking plane to aid the pilot, who was calling for help. Jacobs succeeded in freeing Clithey before the plane went down and both were brought ashore in a rowboat.

Compliments a Crack Shot.

Clithey, who was born in Rheydt, Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels' home town, was suffering great pain from wounds in his right hip, and a broken right arm and ankle. While his clothes were being cut off to permit first aid to his wounds before his removal to a hospital, Clithey, who does not speak English, volunteered the remark "Sie haben sehr gut geschossen," [Your marksmanship is very good.]

I noted that his blood group mark was stamped on his identification disc to facilitate an immediate blood transfusion if required and without wasting time taking blood samples. The pockets of his flying suit also contained a sizable roll of French francs.

Clithey's Messerschmitt was one of a squadron escorting bombers in a raid this morning.

Turns to Shooting Position.

I saw Clithey's Messerschmitt dive toward the earth, followed by a Spitfire. At about 1,000 feet the German did an Immelman turn and loosed a burst of machine gun and motor cannon fire, but the British pilot slipped away, half-rolled, swung around and fired a burst into the side of the Messerschmitt which hit the motor. The German plane lost speed and passed almost directly overhead, above the edge of a cliff.

From my vantage point I could see the pilot trying to look backwards at the Spitfire, which again was closing in on the German. The British plane opened fire again with its eight machine guns and the side of the Messerschmitt's fuselage was perforated with black dots as the bullets struck home. The Messerschmitt's motor stopped. The pilot banked and gently glided toward the channel. His rescue followed.

QUARTER MILLION ON VOTE LISTS IN COUNTRY TOWNS

County Clerk Michael J. Flynn reported yesterday that registration in the country towns for the November Presidential election was approaching a record total, with 250,000 names already registered and 1,000 a day more coming in. Registration in the same areas last April in the primary was 231,000. Village clerks will continue to receive registrations thru Oct. 7 at 122 registration places under the supervision of the county clerk. This is the first Presidential election at which permanent registration has been effective.

CUBA'S PRESIDENT ORDERS 38% CUT IN GOVERNMENT WAGES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 23.—President Federico Laredo Bru, faced with a $15,000,000 treasury deficit, today announced a 38 per cent slash in all government salaries exceeding $30 a month. The cut affects congress, the army, and provincial and municipal offices. It was made retroactive to Sept. 1.

At the same time the president also ordered the indefinite postponement of all payments due on office materials and supplies, primary and high school equipment and rents on a score or more buildings used by the government.

The president already has signed a bill authorizing him to borrow $50,000,000 from the United States Export-Import bank, but Secretary of the Treasury Montelieu explained this money would not be available before Sept. 30, the government's next payday. Up to today Cuba's internal debt amounted to $75,000,000.

Many of the government's 35,000 employés, it was said, will protest the pay cut by not going to work tomorrow.

BRITISH SHELL DAKAR; ATTEMPT TO LAND TROOPS

Expedition Led by 'Free France' Chief.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, Sept. 23.—A powerful British naval armada today shelled Dakar, capital of French West Africa in an attempt to land an expeditionary force of British soldiers and troops of "Free France." Heavy casualties were reported to have been inflicted during the bombardment of the port.

Gen. Charles de Gaulle

At a late hour tonight the battle was still in progress with the attacking forces shelling Dakar furiously as they sought to gain a foothold on the coast of the French colony in an offensive designed to gain possession of West Africa.

[Other dispatches said France's most modern battleship, the 35,000 ton Richelieu, joined other warships in replying to the British bombardment. The Richelieu was damaged by British naval action at Dakar in July and still is undergoing repairs. Dispatches also said the British attack took a toll of at least 60 dead and many injured and caused severe damage to the harbor and city.]

De Gaulle Leads Attack.

The British-French forces were led by Charles de Gaulle, the French general who has been recognized by Winston Churchill's government as leader of "free Frenchmen" continuing the war against Germany. De Gaulle has been branded as traitor by the Vichy government and already has been sentenced to death.

Advices received by the French government said the British squadron consisted of two large battleships, four cruisers, "several" destroyers, and four transports packed with troops.

Trapped in Dakar's harbor—the only one in West Africa which can receive large ships — were three French cruisers and three destroyers —which had a brush with the British at sea Sunday.

Refuses to Surrender.

This sensational turn in the hostilities, which means that for all practical purposes France is at war with England, its former ally, was announced in Vichy by Foreign Minister Paul Baudouin.

From the description of what took place at Dakar as given by Baudouin, a British naval squadron carrying De Gaulle, arrived off Dakar early this morning. De Gaulle sent an ultimatum to High Commissioner Pierre Boisson in Dakar, demanding the port's surrender and the right to disembark troops. Boisson refused, whereupon the British fleet opened fire.

Baudouin said nothing could justify the British attack, which he branded as "ignoble and inexcusable."

"We are not so dead or out of action that we will not respond and the British will now get as good as they give," the foreign minister said.

France to Fight Back.

Asked if this meant that France was at war with Britain, Baudouin said: "War means nothing. We will use all force at our disposition."

[The British said "a considerable element" of the West African population "opposed the Vichy government's policy of subservience to Berlin and had declared in favor of a free France," so De Gaulle went to Dakar with a "free French force," accompanied by a British force, to assist his supporters.]

Immediately upon receipt of the news of the attack on Dakar, where Gen. Maxime Weygand is scheduled to establish headquarters soon, the war council was summoned by Marshal Henri Philippe Petain. The council is composed of Baudouin, Admiral Jean Darlan, naval minister; Gen. Charles Huntziger, war minister, and Jean Berthelot, communications minister.

Orders immediately were given to the French armed forces to reply to the attack.

"We have decided to defend ourselves with all our force," it was said.

It was learned that the French air force was standing by and that other preparations to resist the British-French troops were under way.

Vichy Assails De Gaulle.

A communique later said that De Gaulle supposedly had been hired by the British to fight the Germans indirectly, according to first indications. Now he had shown that he was traitorously attacking and killing his own countrymen," the communique said.

[The German radio, in a broadcast heard in New York, described the shelling of Dakar as a "massacre." The radio said French cruisers, destroyers, submarines, and ammunition dumps and stores were covered by "a rain of shells." The broadcast predicted that reprisals would be taken against Englishmen still in France.]

On Sept. 2 De Gaulle claimed that all of West Africa favored his cause, but this was denied by the Vichy government and in a statement by Boisson.

Yesterday, however, a Vichy government spokesman acknowledged that all Africa was "boiling," and that De Gaulle "propaganda" was intense in Morocco, Dahomey, and Togoland.

It also was acknowledged yesterday that the British had turned back the six French warships bound from Dakar with products for France.

The British let these ships pass Gibraltar from Toulon last week, and tonight mentioned them as an indication that Germany wanted Dakar, else they never would have been allowed to leave the Mediterranean port of Toulon.

Dakar itself is no mean prize. Best port on the West African coast, it is at Cape Verde, most westerly point of Africa, and commands the sea route from Europe to Brazil.

A city of 34,000, with 3,000 whites, it is linked to interior African points by rail and to France by cable.

Believe Washington Pleased.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23 [Special].—Because of the strategic position of Dakar, capital of French West Africa, in relation to the security of the western hemisphere, official Washington today was said to be unofficially pleased to learn of the British attack on that port and the intention of Britain to establish a friendly French régime there under Gen. Charles De Gaulle.

Dakar has been regarded in Washington, ever since the German victory over France, as the most likely point from which a German attack against Latin America could be launched, lying as it does on the westernmost point of the African bulge toward South America and only about 1,700 miles from Natal, Brazil.

Reports that German technicians and experts had actually landed at this relatively inaccessible French African jumping-off place led the state department recently to order a consular observer there. Thus far, officials said, no reports have been received from him.

With the British or those French elements acting as their allies in possession of Dakar, the danger of Nazi attacks on the Americas would be greatly diminished, officials privately believe.

CLAIM URUGUAY TO OUST ACCUSED GERMAN OFFICIAL

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Sept. 23 (AP).—Uruguay will be obliged to expel Julio Dalldorf, press attaché of the German legation, as the result of an investigation allegedly revealing him as the director of subversive Nazi activities here, authorized sources said today.

These sources said Germany would be asked to disavow Dalldorf's activities and punish him. They added that the position of Otto Langmann, German minister to Uruguay, had been made "most difficult" by the report of the attorney general, which reportedly showed that German groups were receiving their instructions from the German legation.

Eight accused Nazi leaders are under arrest here. They face penitentiary terms of 3 to 10 years if convicted of acts against Uruguay.

Confiscate Bridge Pictures Taken by Japanese in N. Y.

Catskill, N. Y., Sept. 23 (AP).—Sheriff Milton O. Bailey of Green county announced today confiscation from four Japanese natives of photographs of the strategically important Rip Van Winkle bridge over the Hudson river. Bailey said the four, all giving New York City addresses, explained they took the pictures as souvenirs of a Catskill mountain trip. FBI officials questioned and released the men.

44 Turkish Army, Navy Officers to Study in U. S.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Sept. 23 (AP).—Forty-four Turkish army and naval officers left Saturday for the United States to study technical subjects at various universities. Most Turkish officers studied in Germany before the war.

BRITAIN'S TRIALS TO BRING VICTORY, KING DECLARES

'Much to Encourage Us' in Coming Battle.

LONDON, Sept. 23 (AP).—"There is much to encourage us," King George VI. told his people today in a reassuring message to the empire while Nazi raiders droned over London.

King George VI.

Speaking before a microphone in an underground shelter in his bomb-scarred Buckingham palace during an air raid alarm, the monarch declared that England, with Hitler's armies of invasion massed near her doorstep, stands "in the front line, to champion those liberties and traditions that are our heritage.

"As we brace ourselves for the battle, there is much to encourage us," he said. ". . . brave contingents from the forces of our allies . . . the good will of all who love freedom . . . men and material are coming in increasing flow and there is an eagerness to share in the sacrifices which will bring us victory."

Tells of Americas' Aid.

After pointing out that armies of invasion are massed across the channel only 20 miles from Britain and declaring that the Americas have shown their good will, "not least by their gifts for the relief of suffering," the king added:

"Nearer home, in the British commonwealth of nations itself, the struggle of the mother country has been made the struggle of the whole family. From every part of it, men and material are coming in increasing flow and there is an eagerness to share in the sacrifices which will bring us victory.

"In this battle for Britain, London, the mighty capital of the empire, occupies the forefront. Others of our cities are being subjected to the barbarous attacks of the enemy. Our sympathy goes out to them all. But it is London that is for the time being bearing the brunt of the enemy's spites.

"The queen and I have seen many of the places here which have been most heavily bombed and many of the people who have suffered and are suffering most. Our hearts are with them tonight. Their courage and cheerfulness, their faith in their country's cause and final victory are an inspiration to the rest of us to persevere."

Tribute to Civilians.

"Tonight, indeed, we are a nation on guard and in the line. Each task, each bit of duty done, however simple and domestic it may be, is part of our war work. It takes rank with the sailor's duty, the soldier's and the airman's duty.

"The men and women in the factories or on the railways who work on regardless of danger, tho the sirens have sounded, maintaining all the services and necessities of our common life and keeping the fighting line well supplied with weapons, earn their place among the heroes of this war.

New Medals Created.

King George announced that he was creating the George cross, ranking next to the Victoria cross, to honor the valor of civilians, and a George medal, which will have wider distribution. He went on:

"As we look around us we see on every side that in the hour of her trial the mother city of the British commonwealth is proving herself to be built as a city that is at unity with itself. The spirit of the Londoner stands resolute and undismayed.

"As in London. so thruout Great Britain, buildings rich in beauty and historic interest may be wantonly attacked. Humbler houses, no less dear and familiar, may be destroyed. But 'there'll always be an England' to stand before the world as the symbol and citadel of freedom, and to be our dear home."

The torpedoing of a ship with the loss of child refugees, the king said, was a "foul deed" and clear proof of the "wickedness against which we fight." He closed:

"We live in grim times, and it may be that the future will be grimmer yet. Winter lies before us, cold and dark. But let us be of good cheer. After winter comes spring, and after our present trials will assuredly come victory and a release from these evil things."

CENTRAL BERLIN BOMBED; AIR RAID LONGEST OF WAR

Foe's Planes Over City 3 Hours 20 Minutes.

BERLIN, Sept. 24, Tuesday (AP).—The longest air raid alarm of the war kept Berlin awake and excited early today as planes were heard circling overhead for more than 3 hours and 20 minutes, and bombs fell in the central district.

At least three bombs were heard. The heaviest and longest antiaircraft cannonading of the war marked the raid. All calibers of guns kept up a concentrated fire. For many minutes the long roar of the guns was audible down in the air raid shelters thruout the city.

Air Battles Over England.

A number of civilians were reported killed and apartment houses were reported damaged both in the city and its suburbs.

Berlin had a 2 hour and 22 minute alarm yesterday.

Deadly air battles over England cost the British 21 planes to Germany's five in the unceasing continuation yesterday and last night of "full strength" raids on bomb battered London, authorized Nazi sources declared.

Already, the Germans said, they have set in the heart of the British capital "tremendous fires" visible from the French coast 90 miles away.

Famed Piccadilly Circus and the Regent park district in the heart of London, and broad wharves along the Thames were listed among the targets raided thruout Sunday night.

50 Million Pounds of Bombs.

Since July 10, the Germans asserted, 50,600,000 pounds of bombs have been hurled on British targets; 6,000 factories have been damaged, 1,400 of them in the London area; one-fifth of Britain's electric power and gas plants have been destroyed or badly damaged; $600,000,000 in damage done to food and other storehouses, and hundreds of miles of railroads hit.

On British ports alone, they said, 17,000,000 pounds of bombs have fallen in 200 attacks, and there have been 700 raids on British airdromes.

Not overlooking the war at sea, the German command announced that one submarine had sunk 29,000 tons of British merchant shipping, while a small speedboat sank a 3,000 ton freighter and "incapacitated" a patrol boat off the English coast.

ATLANTIC FLEET TO BE INCREASED, HONOLULU HEARS

HONOLULU, T. H., Sept. 23 (AP).—The navy is planning to strengthen the fleet in the Atlantic, it was learned unofficially today, by gradual withdrawal of units from Hawaiian waters, where the fleet has been concentrated since maneuvers early this year.

Indications of this policy were seen when the cruisers Northampton and Portland, units of the scouting force, were scheduled to depart within the next 10 days. It was reported that other naval units already have left for assignments in the Atlantic.

Use of a robot controled airplane during antiaircraft gunnery practice off Lahaina roads was another development discussed unofficially. It was reported that the plane, radio controled from another plane, took off on its pilotless flight from an airport and flew over cruiser units at sea.

CANADA ADMITS PUTZI HANFSTAENGL IS IN INTERNMENT CAMP

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 23 (AP).—Internment officials said today Ernst [Putzi] Hanfstaengl, former Nazi foreign press chief, is confined in a Canadian internment camp. He is one of the enemy alien civilians rounded up in England and sent to Canada for safekeeping.

Ernst Hanfstaengl.

A former confidant of Adolf Hitler, Hanfstaengl once described himself as "a voluntary exile" from Germany. He went to England several years ago after an unexplained break with the Nazi Fuehrer.

First word of Hanfstaengl's internment in Canada was made public when his son, studying at Harvard university, told of receiving a letter to that effect from his father.

CANADIAN LABOR BACKS MEASURES TO BEAT NAZIS

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 23 (AP).—The executive council of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada reported today that it had given full backing to "such government measures as are designed to bring about defeat of the enemies of liberty and freedom and maintain the internal security of this dominion."

The report, made to the 56th annual convention of the congress, declared labor must continue to make every effort to assure British victory against Germany and at the same time be prepared to "play its full part in the establishment of a just and permanent peace."

Altho it warned that there could be no forecast of the length of the war or the sacrifices that might be demanded, the council declared every precaution was being taken to preserve "that measure of protection to which workers are entitled, either in times of war or peace."

MARRIED 69 YEARS.

LeMars, Ia., Sept. 23 [Special].—Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Crouch, 91 and 90, celebrated their 69th wedding anniversary today. Mr. Crouch is the only civil war veteran now living in Plymouth county. He enlisted with 1st Wisconsin cavalry when 15 years old.

LONDON HURLS UP 'HOTTER' DEFENSE AGAINST RAIDERS

Hurricane of Steel from Guns Meets Nazis.

LONDON, Sept. 24, Tuesday (AP).—Defenders of London gave German raiders a hotter than usual overnight reception as the city rocked with the explosions of antiaircraft shells and Nazi bombs for the 17th consecutive night. The hurricane of exploding steel from ground batteries seemed to outdo anything heard heretofore.

Both explosive and incendiary bombs were dropped freely and there were a number of fires. Bombs exploded in central London and the northwest, east and south districts as well. Towns in southeast England, the northwest and Wales also were bombed.

To Londoners who trooped into air raid shelters like actors playing a grimly well rehearsed part, it was another night of discomfort and little or no sleep. Subway stations were so crowded with those seeking shelter that it seemed all London was trying to get into them. Sleeping room particularly was scarce in central stations along Piccadilly.

Thwart 3 Daylight Raids.

Soon after sunset warning sirens heralded the approach of the raiders following three thwarted daylight attacks on the capital. The third alarm sounded at twilight when German planes roared over the heart of the city only to be scattered by British fighters. Bombs fell in western London during the second attack of the day, just after noon. The Nazis, crossing the coast from three directions, failed to reach the city in their first foray soon after dawn.

One Nazi plane in the first raid was described as a new, gigantic, four engined bomber which crossed the Kent coast. A police officer said "accompanying Messerschmitts were dots by comparison."

Later in the morning it was said enemy aircraft made deliberate attacks upon the civilian population of several seaside towns on the Sussex coast, in particular, Eastbourne.

Even on Planes Shot Down.

An official announcement said British and German airmen finished off the daylight battles all even, each losing 11 planes, altho the pilots of seven British craft were reported safe.

Two bombs fell recently on the British museum, home of the empire's most celebrated collections, it was learned yesterday, but the extent of damage was not disclosed. It was believed most of its most valuable works had been removed.

Army Opens Quiz in Crash of Plane Fatal to Captain

Bloomfield, Ky., Sept. 23 (AP).—The army began an investigation today into the crash of a pursuit plane last night which brought death to the pilot, Capt. Louis E. Massie of Wright field, Dayton, O. Witnesses who saw the plane plunge into a hillside eight miles from here said it appeared to be in a "power dive." Capt. Massie, a native of Missouri, was on his way from Memphis to Dayton.

New York, Sept. 23 [Special].—Countess Helene Chlapowska, who arrived here from Lisbon last week on the Atlantic Clipper of Pan American Airways, is undecided whether she will make her home here or in Washington. Her daughter, Countess Maria Therese Lasocka, is the wife of the secretary of the Polish embassy. The countess was freed in February after having been held a prisoner in a civil prison outside Posen since the German invasion of Poland. She said that she was released at the intercession of the Vatican ten days after her husband had died of pneumonia.

Speaking nervously in limited English, the countess described the imprisonment of Count Chlapowska and herself since Sept. 29, 1939, as filled with horror and privation. All her property in Poland she said, had been lost.

PLAN 1,000,000 BUNKS IN LONDON BOMB SHELTERS

Ear Plugs to Be Provided as Aid to Sleep.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 23.—The government plans to extend construction of air raid shelters in London and provide bunks for more than 1,000,000 persons nightly, William Mabane, parliamentary secretary for the ministry of home security, announced tonight as it appeared the capital faces a winter of German air siege.

Free sets of ear plugs also are being issued. They will protect ear drums from shattering bomb blasts and also aid sleep by shutting out the din of bombing and antiaircraft guns.

The nightly migration from outlying districts to subway platforms and other deep shelters in central London has reached such proportions, Mabane disclosed, that the government is considering special bus services to transport the users of the shelters.

Build Bunks for Shelters.

Double and triple deck bunks will be provided in shelters as fast as they can be built and fitted, Mabane said. They will be installed in the present basement, trench and street shelters, and in the new ones to be built. Bunks and hammocks also will be installed on some subway platforms.

The public has been demanding more deep shelters, but Mabane said no change is contemplated in the present construction of brick and concrete surface shelters, which he said had proved their efficacy. They will be improved with lighting, heating and sanitary arrangements.

The construction of more brick and concrete shelters will be speeded up. This had been delayed by the more urgent need for the use of labor in war materials production, but the ministry of labor will be asked to provide more building laborers.

The government also will commandeer shelters belonging to factories and business houses for public use at night. When the basements of apartment blocks and empty houses are unused or insufficiently used, they will be taken over for public shelters.

Hints at Punishment.

Mabane said householders must make greater use of the backyard "Anderson" shelters—steel shelters covered with earth. He hinted at punishment of owners who fail to cover the shelters adequately with earth or leave the entrances unprotected. Thousands of the shelters became flooded and useless last winter, but this will be remedied by raising them higher above the ground or providing waterproof floors.

The removal of women and children from London areas where the lack of shelter is most acute has started and a campaign is under way to speed the removal of aged, infirm, and bedridden persons to institutions in the country.

Rumania Bars Commoner Wife of Carol's Brother

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Sept. 23 (AP).—Representatives of Prince Nicholas, former King Carol's exiled brother, today asked permission for Nicholas to return to Rumania. Premier Ion Antonescu said it would be impossible unless he came back without his commoner wife.

ADMIT COLLISION OF U.S. SUB AND PLANE CARRIER

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 23 [Special].—Navy authorities today officially confirmed reports of a collision at sea between the United States submarine Shark and the aircraft carrier Yorktown during recent Pacific maneuvers.

A brief announcement by Admiral James O. Richardson, commander in chief of the United States fleet, stated that a naval board of inquiry has been named to determine the circumstances surrounding the accident, which presumably occurred Sept. 9 in Hawaiian waters.

The Shark, flagship of Submarine division 13 and commanded by Lieut. P. D. Compton, "suffered minor damage." It was not stated whether any damage occurred to the Yorktown, flagship of the aircraft battle force and commanded by Capt. E. L. Gunther. No casualties were announced.

BOMBER RUINS AID TO ALLIES' LONDON OFFICES

LONDON, Sept. 23 (AP).—A circular letter from the London office of the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies says:

"We regret to inform you that we have been bombed out of office. A German bomber crashed across the street, so we cannot collect our files."

The letter says offices have been opened at a new address with "business as usual."

EGYPT DECLARES MARTIAL LAW AS BRITISH RAKE FOE

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 23 (AP).—Italian armed penetration of her territory roused neutral Egypt to a declaration of martial law today while British units, acting under a military alliance, hammered at Fascist invasion bases.

The British fleet and the royal air force, fighting Italian columns heading eastward toward the vital Suez canal, declared they had bombarded "successfully" newly established positions along the invasion route.

Tho martial law was invoked by a cabinet head pledged against immediate war, the Saadist party, a nationalistic minority, was reported attempting to arrange a special session of parliament to settle the issue of war or peace.

Egyptian authorities pushed a roundup of all Italians as a precautionary measure. Cairo officials alone were reported to have detained 7,000.

Call for War.

Four members of the party have resigned over the failure of Premier Hassan Sabry Pasha to consider a declaration of war, now that the Italian spearhead is 60 miles inside the Egyptian frontier.

The British declared their Mediterranean fleet had followed up last week's attacks by again pounding newly established positions at Sidi Barrani, 240 miles west of Alexandria.

The Italians apparently were caught by surprise, the British declared, and now Marshal Rodolfo Graziani must reorganize his positions before the advance can be attempted again.

Italians Raid Malta.

ROME, Sept. 23 (AP).—Military reports today emphasized a heavy Italian air bombardment of the British naval base at Malta yesterday.

Amplifying a high command communique, which said merely that a large fire resulted from a hit on a supply dump at Malta's Micabba air base, the newspaper La Tribuna said two underground gasoline tanks were destroyed in the attack.

The high command acknowledged that "one empty steamer of ours" was sunk by a British submarine off the Italian west coast, and declared that a British cruiser, previously reported torpedoed, now is known to have been sunk.

[A despatch from Valetta, Malta, said one civilian was killed and many houses razed when Italian bombers, escorted by fighting planes, raided the city.]

REPORT LAMONT KIN PROBABLY KILLED IN FRANCE

New York, Sept. 23 (AP).—Word of the "almost certain" death in action of one of the first Americans to fight as an officer in the British army—Rogers S. Lamont, 41 years old, a cousin of Thomas W. Lamont, socially prominent New York banker—was received here tonight.

The law firm of Sullivan and Cromwell, from which Rogers Lamont retired a year ago to become a captain in the 10th field regiment, Royal Artillery, said they had been informed by a regimental commander that an eyewitness reported Lamont was killed in the fighting preceding the evacuation at Dunkirk when Lamont's armored car was shattered by a German tank gun.

Lamont graduated from Princeton university in 1921 and from Columbia law school three years later. His parents were the late William S. Lamont and Laura D. S. Lamont of Newark, N. J.

WRITER FINDS A LAND OF PEACE OUTSIDE LONDON

Trip South Bares Few Hints of War.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RYDE, Isle of Wight, England, Sept. 23.—The beauty of this island and the complete absence of war fear here are impressive.

Arrow Locates Isle of Wight.

A traveler in search of accurate war news charters an automobile in London to visit the country along England's southern coast. London's damage and the tension in the city are quickly forgotten when the drive into the countryside is begun.

In traversing the 75 miles from London to Portsmouth and seeing the beautiful countryside, it is difficult to visualize that a war is on. Food is plentiful and gasoline is available. Restaurant and garage attendants eagerly ask for news from London, but have no war news to give. In all the little towns along the route air raid shelter signs are prominent but there is no other evidence of war.

Portsmouth Damage Negligible.

Bomb damage in Portsmouth is negligible. People seem to be a bit proud of the fact that they know how to direct a sightseer to places that have suffered from attacks.

There are many military objectives in Portsmouth but no damage to strategic points was observed as I traveled at will about the city. Actual damage that I saw had been done to a bank, a church and two small apartment buildings. Trains were running and boats sailing with what seemed to be routine calm.

Boats go frequently from Portsmouth to Ryde. It is an enjoyable ride of 30 minutes across the water. Air alarms sounded as the passengers went aboard the ferry. There was no sign of an airplane overhead but the boat officer insisted that all passengers proceed to the second deck.

Hour's Drive Bares Sights.

A taxicab was hired at the dock and the driver instructed to drive to places that had suffered war damage. In an hour's drive a chickenhouse and two big craters in a vacant field were observed.

The Isle of Wight probably is the prettiest country in England. The terrain is gently rolling and there is a high state of cultivation in the countryside.

Norway to Be Power House of Reich Under German Plan

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 23.—In Germany's plans to "reorganize the whole of Europe," Norway is to become the power station for the Nazi reich. It was revealed today that plans are being perfected to harness the waterpower of Norway for German use.

"Norway is in a position to provide all the electrical current needed by Germany," it was said. "And there is no doubt that in the course of the next year Norway will deliver this current. Its usefulness is tremendous. German coal, which has become one of the most valuable raw materials, will be available for other than heating purposes."

[There was no suggestion in this dispatch how such power would be transmitted to Germany, but in electrical circles here it was said that underwater cable across the Skaggerak or a combination of land and underwater cable along the Swedish coast and across Danish islands to Germany might be used.]

War Is Rude Awakening.

The Pommersche Zeitung said that for the Norwegians "the war provided an undesired awakening" and stated that they still retain their sympathy for England.

Formerly the Norwegians were described by German racial theorists as high class Nordics, but now German readers are told that one of the reasons they are failing to show the proper enthusiasm for German occupation is that they have led a lazy life and have not made use of the natural resources of their country.

The newspaper also asserted that the Norwegians mismanaged their forests and declared that it will be possible to double the timber output.

Build New Airfields.

"While in Germany every schoolboy has absorbed the thought of the new Europe," it said, "the average Norwegian cannot pull himself together to understand it. His only fear is that Germany—if she wins the war—will mete out punishment for Norway's attitude in the first six months of the war."

Day and night the Germans are building airfields thruout Norway and getting the quarters in readiness for their troops in the coming winter. "The Norwegians have no reason to complain," the newspaper said. "Naturally there may be a shortage of this or that in the coming winter and good living may be somewhat restricted. The Norwegians do not like that, but they will bear it."

JAPS IN HAWAII HELD READY FOR BIG SACRIFICES

TOKIO, Sept. 23 (AP).—Kiichi Gunji, until recently Japanese consul general at Honolulu, was quoted today by the newspaper Yomiuri as asserting that "the Japanese in Hawaii are all determined to undergo great sacrifices for Japan during the present uneasy condition of relations" between the United States and Japan. Gunji, recalled in a recent sweeping "purge" of the foreign service, was quoted as saying the United States was coercing second generation Japanese [born in Hawaii] to renounce their claims to Japanese citizenship "if they wish to find any work."

HONOLULU PARENTS PICKET SCHOOL AS IT BARS 'PIGDIN' TALKERS

HONOLULU, T. H., Sept. 23 (AP).—The Maemae school was picketed by more than a hundred irate parents today who protested ouster of their children because the school had been placed on the "English Standard" basis and the children, unable to pass tests, had been transferred to other institutions.

School authorities, in an effort to eliminate pidgin English from portions of the populace, have been trying to maintain schools where English must be spoken satisfactorily. Addition of the Maemae school to the "English standard" made four such institutions in Honolulu.

There are more than 30 schools that are not on the English standard basis, including the widely known McKinley High school.

FORT SHERIDAN TROOP TO BOOST MILITARY SHOW

A detachment of 2 officers and 74 men from Fort Sheridan will visit Chicago today to publicize the military show to be presented Friday, Saturday, and Sunday at the fort. The troops will drive to Michigan avenue and Congress street, where they will display some of the army's weapons, including two 75 mm. guns, four 37 mm. antitank guns, two scout cars, two reconnaissance cars, and a truck on which will be mounted a .50 caliber antiaircraft gun. The 14th cavalry band will give a concert at 11 a. m., and from noon until 12:30 the troops will have mess.

JAPAN WATCHES U. S. REACTION TO INDO-CHINA PUSH

Fears Armed Intervention or Embargo.

BULLETIN.

SHANGHAI, China, Sept. 24, Tuesday (AP).—A French broadcast from Saigon, Indo-China, today reported fighting between French and Japanese forces in northern French Indo-China still was in progress at 10 a. m. (10 p. m., Chicago time, Monday). It asserted two Japanese planes had been shot down. Orders for French women and children to be removed from the affected region were said to have been issued.

TOKIO, Japan, Sept. 24 [Tuesday] (AP).—Reaction of third powers, particularly of the United States, toward Japan's use of French Indo-China in South Asia as a stepping stone of encirclement of China, crowded out nearly all other considerations in Japanese speculation today.

The possibilities in this eagerly expressed interest in the United States attitude ranged all the way from embargo to outright military intervention.

Japan's Military "Ready."

Domei, Japanese news agency with close foreign office connections, declared the Japanese army and navy were prepared to counter any "uncalled for intervention" by third powers.

Yakichiro Suma, foreign office spokesman, said that, since the movement of army and naval forces into the colony was the result of an agreement reached in "peaceful talks," no foreign country could object.

Troops Clash Again.

HANOI, French Indo-China, Sept. 23 (AP).—Japanese troops, seeking to carry out a "peaceful" agreement advancing their domination in South Asia, fought two battles with French forces last night and again today.

The second attack, in midafternoon, was made on positions of French Legionnaires and colonial infantrymen near Langson, 12 miles inside the Indo-China northern frontier, after Japanese planes twice had bombed the airfield there. The outcome of the fighting was not known here late tonight, but one person was killed and two wounded in the bombing.

French Casualties Reported.

The French were reported to have suffered 60 casualties in fighting last night at Dongdang, 90 miles north of Hanoi, when the Japanese attacked a border blockhouse. Langson is about 80 miles north of Hanoi in the same general sector.

[Domei, Japanese news agency, reported that 131 Indo-Chinese were killed in fighting with Japanese at an undisclosed point. It said the Japanese captured 240 prisoners, including several French officers, and a quantity of arms and ammunition.]

Maj. Gen. Issaku Nishihara, head of a Japanese mission that negotiated an agreement on Sunday for a limited Japanese occupation of north Indo-China, sent emissaries to Dongdang and succeeded in getting the fighting stopped, but this afternoon the Japanese made the new attack.

French officials said the agreement did not provide for Japanese troops of the South China army to enter Indo-China, and declared the entry of these troops was subject to a supplementary agreement yet to be reached.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

French Tell of Terms.

VICHY, France, Sept. 23.—Foreign Secretary Paul Baudoin tonight disclosed terms of the accord reached by France and Japan over Indo-China.

The agreement provides for the Japanese to take over three air fields in Indo-China, occupy no towns, conduct themselves as if in a friendly country, and send several thousand troops to protect the air fields, to which they are granted rights of occupation.

Baudoin stated the Japanese occupation was limited to "the duration of the Japanese conflict with China."

Arrives from Japan

Miss Betty Betz as she reached Chicago yesterday.

Miss Betty Betz, winner of free style swimming titles in Tribune meets in 1935, '36, and '37, arrived in Chicago yesterday from Japan aboard an American Airlines plane, on her way to her home at 8 West Ruth street in Calumet City. Miss Betz toured the orient as a member of the Watt Experiment in International Living. She made her home with four Japanese families during a stay on that island and also visited Corea. Miss Betz, 20 years old, is a student at Sarah Lawrence college, Bronxville, N. Y.

BRITISH DEMAND JAPAN EXPLAIN SHELLING OF SHIP

SHANGHAI, China, Sept. 23 (AP).—The British embassy announced today it was asking Japan for a full explanation of the shelling Friday by a Japanese warship of the 593 ton British steamer Marie Moller as she rode at anchor in the Yangtze delta port of Haimen.

The embassy also disclosed that three other British merchantmen—the 530 ton Jessie Moller, the 645 ton Edith Moller and the 789 ton Kong So—were reported detained by the Japanese.

[A Reuters, British news agency, report to London said the Marie Moller started to leave Haimen after a shell hit her, but was detained by the Japanese outside the harbor.]

Hold 2 Japs in Singapore as Spies; Four Released

SINGAPORE, Sept. 23 (AP).—Four of six Japanese detained by police Saturday were released today, but Mamuro Shimozaki and Miss Atsuko Yamakawa, the other two, were charged before a magistrate with violation of the official secrets ordinance.

HULL SPURNS JAP EXPLANATION OF INDO-CHINA RAIDS

Charges 'Duress' Used in Upsetting Status Quo.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23 (AP).—The United States today accused Japan of upsetting the status quo in the Pacific as high administration officials studied measures to counter the far eastern empire's southward drive into French Indo-China.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull said in a formal statement that it was obvious "the status quo is being upset and this is being achieved under duress.

"The position of the United States in disapproval and in deprecation of such procedures have been stated repeatedly," he added.

Confers with Advisers.

He gave no indication of the government's plans, but other informed sources said it is likely that one step will be additional restrictions on exports of vital supplies to Japan.

Hull conferred most of the afternoon with far eastern advisers and other high officials of the state department. His remarks made it clear that he did not accept the Japanese statement that the military concessions in Indo-China were gained thru "friendly" negotiations with French authorities.

Japan's assurances that the territorial integrity of Indo-China and France's sovereign rights there would be respected also appeared to carry little weight with Hull.

Whether the United States will lodge a formal protest was not made known, but it was held likely that this was one of the questions considered at the afternoon conference. Both the United States and Great Britain made formal representations in Tokio about three weeks ago in connection with Japan's demands on Indo-China.

Coöperation Discussed.

At that time Hull publicly reminded Japan that "during recent months this government and several other governments, including the Japanese government, have given expression to their desire that the principle of the staus quo be preserved unimpaired in the Pacific, with special reference to the Netherlands East Indies and French Indo-China."

This was followed by conversations between Secretary Hull, Lord Lothian, the British ambassador, and Richard G. Casey, Australian minister. These talks were said to have dealt largely with measures of coöperation in the far east.

DUTCH E. INDIES SILENT AS JAPS ENTER INDO-CHINA

(Maps on back page.)

BATAVIA, Java, Dutch East Indies, Sept. 23 (AP).—Authorities of the Dutch East Indies showed deep interest today in dispatches reporting the movement of Japanese troops into French Indo-China, but refrained from official comment.

[With Holland under German occupation the position of the Dutch East Indies is similar to that of French Indo-China. Both have been named by Japanese officials as included in the "Greater East Asia" over which Japan proposes to establish at least economic domination.]

A Japanese mission has been in Batavia two weeks negotiating for a new commercial accord.

RAINBOW GARDEN OF TULIPS. $2

30 GIANT FLOWERING BULBS

Prepaid to 600 Miles

Thirty tall, giant late tulip, six each of five named varities separately bagged and labeled, embracing these colors:

RED, PINK, ORANGE, YELLOW, LAVENDER

With war shutting out bulbs from Holland, tulips are a rarity this fall. These bulbs were grown in our own fields in Oregon, where we have the largest American planting. In several years of tests they proved equal or superior to imported Dutch bulbs. They are tall, giant. Darwin, Cottage and Breeder varieties, without rivals in the spring garden. With tulip bulbs so scarce few gardens will enjoy their beauty next spring. Make yours one of these few!

25 Daffodils, prepaid, $1.50

Daffodils are the first major flowers to bloom in spring. They last for years and usually multiply. A purchase of bulbs should pay in bloom for a lifetime.

KEEPS WHITE HOUSES WHITER

Painters, home owners praise this new Du Pont House Paint

IT'S brilliantly white... tough... durable! Du Pont House Paint keeps houses beautiful because it stays cleaner! Here's why:—

Du Pont Prepared Paint forms a tough, durable film which protects the surface from rust, rot or decay. Like all paints, it collects dirt on exposure to the elements. As time goes on, however, a fine white powder forms on the surface of this new paint. This powder is washed away by heavy rains, carrying the dirt with it, and exposing a fresh white surface. This "self-cleaning" process starts after a few months of exposure under normal conditions of weather, but may be delayed under unusual climatic or dirt-collecting conditions. Because the "self-cleaning" process is gradual, the wearing qualities of the film are not abnormally affected.

Its economy lies in the fact that it stretches the time between paintings. Remember: Du Pont House Paint costs no more than other good paints. Ask your painting contractor to use it!

FALL IS THE TIME TO PAINT

QUIZ KIDNAPER ON UNSOLVED 1936 MATTSON CRIME

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 23 [Special].—While Marc de Tristan Jr., 3 year old son of Count and Countess Marc de Tristan, trotted happily about his Hillsborough mansion home, apparently unaffected by the 48 hours he spent as a kidnaper's captive, federal bureau of investigation agents today questioned his abductor in connection with the unsolved kidnap murder of Charles Mattson, 10 years old, at Tacoma, Wash., almost four years ago.

In Christmas week, 1936, a swarthy foreigner with a hump nose slipped into the Mattson house, snatched Charles and left a ransom note demanding $28,000. The family never saw Charles alive again. Fifteen days later his nude, beaten body was found in a snowbank. The ransom was not paid because the family could not contact the abductor.

Brother to View Suspect.

Believing that Wilhelm Jakob Muhlenbroich, the 40 year old German alien who seized the French count's son last Friday, may have been the murderer of the Mattson boy, the F. B. I. sent to Tacoma for the slain youngster's brother, William.

William, who witnessed the abduction of Charles, is being brought here by plane. He is expected to confront Muhlenbroich tonight.

Secrecy shrouded the moves of the federal agents, but it is believed they brought the kidnaper here from Sacramento early today. The former German sailor was kicked out of this country after illegally entering in 1925, but got back in again 10 years later under an immigration quota. In 1935 he worked in Vancouver, B. C., as a barber.

Faces Life in Prison.

Muhlenbroich, surly and secretive, faces life imprisonment for his crime under California's "Little Lindbergh Act." Had he harmed the child he could have been executed. If the German should be identified as the Mattson boy's slayer, he would face the death penalty under federal law.

G-men would not say whether Muhlenbroich had implicated any accomplices or why he had not contacted the count and countess in an effort to collect the $100,000 ransom he had demanded in a 600 word note dropped at the time of the kidnaping.

The parents of Marc are eager to meet and thank Cecil Wetzel, the lumberman who overpowered their baby's kidnaper, the Countess de Tristan said today.

"You can imagine how grateful we are to him," she added. "We have hardly had time to talk about it yet, but of course we would like to reward him for having brought little Marc back to us."

WILLKIE BACKS SAME FAR EAST POLICY, SAY JAPS

[Copyright: 1940: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Sept. 23.—Whoever wins the Presidential election, there will be no change in America's far eastern policy, the Japan Times concluded today after reviewing Republican nominee Wendell Willkie's speech in San Francisco. That speech, the paper said, shows Willkie is one of those who know China only at a distance.

"The progress of democracy has been dressed in various garbs, but calling China a democracy gives that term a new meaning," the paper commented.

"It would have been more honest if Willkie had said the American people favor the Chungking government for the simple reason they do not want to see Japan get the upper hand in China."

PRINTING WEEK DINNER PLANNED BY 1,500 IN CITY

Mayor Kelly yesterday proclaimed the week of Sept. 29-Oct. 5 as Printing week, commemorating the 500th anniversary of Johann Gutenberg's invention of movable type. The observance is sponsored by 92 organizations, including the Chicago Graphic Arts federation, the Old Time Printers' association, and the locals of the typographical union. Douglas C. McMurtrie, printing historian, will be general chairman of the celebration. There will be a dinner Oct. 1 in the Stevens hotel for 1,500 printers, their wives, and business associates. Mayor Kelly dedicated the week to the newspapers and other printing establishments of Chicago.

CHUTE JUMPER TESTS A FRIGID 200 MILE GALE

Tho the wind blew 200 miles an hour and it was 67 degrees below zero at Illinois Institute of Technology yesterday, Arthur H. Starnes, trying out his new stratosphere parachute suit, didn't mind.

Starnes was making a final test of equipment he will use in a six and a half mile leap from THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE airplane to find out what happens to people parachuting out of the stratosphere. The experts watching the test said everything worked perfectly. Starnes said he was in good condition and ready for the real drop, which will be made in two weeks.

Last of Series of Tests.

The test was the last of a series to prepare Starnes and his equipment for two jumps, one from 25,000 feet, and another from 35,000 feet. The experiment is designed to find out how far a flyer must fall thru the stratosphere before pulling his parachute rip cord to avoid asphyxiation in frigid rarified air, and how much strain he can stand in the fall without impairing his faculties.

The conditions of a stratosphere leap were simulated yesterday in a wind tunnel at the Armour Research Foundation of the Illinois institute. Starnes, who lives at 585 Freeland avenue, Calumet City, wore 103 pounds of scientific instruments. His face was covered with a wind-proof cloth and chamois skin mask, designed by Dr. Thomas C. Poulter, scientific director of the Armour Research foundation, to guard against the extreme cold.

Uses Oxygen Tank.

He breathed from a small oxygen tank. A throat microphone was fastened about his neck. He wore a pneumograph and electrodes to register his breathing and heart action, an altimeter, and two parachutes.

In the wind tunnel, two blowers, drawing air at zero temperature thru a revolving chamber soaked with liquid air, blew the cold blast at 67 degrees below zero directly into Starnes' face. He didn't flinch, and as his body twisted in the man-made storm, his reactions were registered by short wave radio.

Coöperating in the test were medical experts from Chicago and Northwestern universities who helped design the equipment.

OWNERS OF TNT PLANT SITE WILL HEAR ARMY MAN

Col. R. D. Valliant of the quartermaster general's department, Washington, D. C., will appear tonight in Wilmington, Will county, to explain to owners of 450 farms why the government has selected the 65 square miles covered by their farms between Joliet and Wilmington as the site for a $14,000,000 TNT plant.

The farmers are up in arms, not only because they feel that there is no reason for them to yield up some of the richest land in the state when there is land just south already made bare by strip coal mines, but also because of the terms offered. Raymond E. Herman, a real estate operator of 10 South La Salle street, who says he is acting for the war department, has been attempting to induce the farmers to sign options to their land which would give him 5 per cent of the gross sales price.

It was not known whether Col. Valliant would announce prices to be offered for acreage, but the farmers complained at a meeting Sunday that they did not feel that they were being offered fair prices. Two cemeteries, several churches, and 13 schools are on the land sought by the government.

ARMY PREPARES TO USE MORE BIG POWER MACHINES

Modern War Brings New Problems for Engineers.

BY HAROLD HUTCHINGS.

Is the American army prepared to utilize the vast amount of huge power machinery available in this country for the construction of defensive positions in the mechanized warfare of 1940?

A complete answer to this question is not available because of the army engineer corps' policy not to divulge details of its construction equipment. Unrestricted facts which are available show that the engineers make use of some power equipment.

The table of organization for a combat engineer battalion shows that this unit is supposed to be equipped with one bulldozer [an earth moving machine], six motorized air compressors for driving mechanical tools, one earth augur, a gasoline operated hammer, a 14 cubic foot concrete mixer, and a road grader. A combat engineer regiment is to be equipped with earth augur, 12 motorized air compressors, a road grader, two gasoline operated paving breaking hammers, a 14 cubic foot concrete mixer, two ⅝ yard gasoline shovels.

Building of Tank Traps.

A combat engineer battalion is attached to the new streamlined, triangular division, and under modern tactics has an increasing combat rôle. Each of the regimental combat teams into which such a division is organized for action has a company of engineers, part of whose function in this day of mechanized warfare is to build tank traps and tank obstacles which will force charging tanks to stop or slow down long enough to be put out of action by antitank weapons.

One combat regiment is the normal engineer component of a corps. Since it is larger than the engineer battalion, and is farther back in the theater of operations, its equipment is somewhat heavier. For instance, it is equipped with two ⅝ yard gasoline shovels instead of a bulldozer.

Farther back than the division and corps engineer units in combat are the army and G. H. Q. engineer units, and these in turn are more complete. The depots of these engineer troops are the real reservoir of engineer equipment in combat. It is presumed that they will provide whatever equipment is needed for any situation.

Machines to Build Airports.

Recent purchases for a battalion of an aviation engineer regiment indicated that some of the heaviest equipment will be used in airport construction. Here are some of the items: Two extra heavy crawler tractors for earth moving; one 12 cubic yard scraper, three 8 cubic yard scrapers, two extra heavy duty type motor graders.

Lieut. Col. Milo P. Fox, 6th corps area engineer, asserted that air corps organization is in a state of flux, and cited the fact that the engineer battalion was increased, as of Sept. 12, from 300 to 606 men.

An increase in the use of power machinery has been made, he said, and cited the fact that the engineer board in Washington has many items under test. Some of these items under study are a trench digger, power shovels, pile drivers, cranes, antitank mines, and rapid road cratering equipment.

SMALL REBEL BANDS CRUSHED IN 4 STATES, MEXICO CITY REPORTS

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 23 (AP).—Dispatches to newspapers here today said small bands of rebels, described as sympathizers with Gen. Juan Almazan, claimant to the presidency, had been crushed in four states.

Federal troops were reported in complete control as they pursued poorly equipped rebels. In one state troops captured six men armed with one rifle and five cartridges.

Three men were captured and six surrendered in Chihuahua. A small band surrendered without firing a shot in Michoacan state. Twenty rebels surrendered in Tamaulipas state. Scattered rebels were reported to be hiding in the hills in Puebla state.

AIR INSTRUCTOR AND 3 OTHERS DIE IN PLANE CRASH

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 23 (AP).—A plane crashed into a thicket in the northeast industrial district today killing Pilot Paul Howe of Kansas City and his three passengers, Miss Juanita Clanton, 17, and Miss Georgia Yankee, 19, both of Independence, Mo., secretaries for a flying school, and Ralph Irey Jr., 23, of Kansas City, a student pilot.

Illinois Flyer Killed.

San Clemente, Cal., Sept. 23 (AP).—A 26 year old naval flyer, W. T. Hulson of Colchester, Ill., was killed today as his plane plunged into the ocean during target practice. His body, to which was attached a partly opened parachute, was recovered as his plane sank. The flyer's father is H. K. Hulson, clerk of McDonough county.

LIFT BAN ON FILM, 'FIGHT FOR LIFE,' ALLMAN URGED

Lifting the ban in Chicago on "The Fight for Life," a film produced by the federal government, was asked yesterday by the Chicago Civil Liberties committee in a protest to Police Commissioner Allman. The movie, which deals with prenatal care and childbirth, was barred from public exhibition in Chicago last June by the police censor board, but was approved for educational audiences. Ira Latimer, executive secretary of the civil liberties group, said Commissioner Allman was being urged to lift this ban in view of his overruling last week of the police censor board's ban on "Pastor Hall," an anti-Nazi film.

PRESIDENT PUTS DRAFT IN ACTION; ORDER IS ISSUED

Defines Rules Covering Men and Boards.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 23.—President Roosevelt issued an executive order here today which set in motion the machinery which will cause 16,500,000 men to register Oct. 16 for military service under the selective service act of 1940.

Maj. Gen. Gullion.

The President left here tonight for Washington, where tomorrow it is expected he will appoint Maj. Gen. Allen Gullion, judge advocate general of the army, administrator of the act.

The President's order, in two volumes, defined the purpose of the selective service act, promulgated rules for the operation of draft and appeal boards, and gave detailed definition of rules covering men called for training. Four hundred thousand men will be drafted before the end of 1940.

VOLUME 2 OF DRAFT ORDER SETTLES SOME QUESTIONS IN ILLINOIS

Information from Washington, D. C., last night on the contents of volume 2 of President Roosevelt's executive order for carrying out the draft answered some of the questions which have bothered Illinois election officials who are charged with the registration of men of draft age.

Registration does not have to be by precincts, it was asserted, and governors of states are given a free hand in setting up areas to accommodate registrants and to utilize public buildings as registration places.

Volume 2 implies that wherever possible public buildings shall be used for the registration, tho where this is not possible, it was asserted, there is ample authority for paying for registration places.

Registrars will not be paid, nor will members of the 284 local draft boards or the government appeal agents or medical examiners. Only the personnel of the state and national draft headquarters will be paid.

Chicago and Cook county election officials had delayed completing plans for the registration pending instructions from Washington. Adjt. Gen. Lawrence V. Regan, who left for the national capital yesterday, was unable to advise them definitely until the President's executive order was issued.

The act limits the draft in any one year to 900,000 men.

Delinquent Is Defined.

One of the first definitions in the order is that of a delinquent. A delinquent is any man who fails to register on the prescribed day and who has no valid reason for not having done so, or any man who, prior to induction into service, fails to perform any duty imposed upon him by the draft board.

Another section of the order quotes the language of the conscription act as regards persons required to register and places of registration. Any male citizen or alien between the ages of 21 and 36, living in the United States, must present himself for registration at designated points.

Exceptions are men in the armed forces and reserves and diplomatic representatives.

Persons not within the United States on registration day must register within five days after their return.

Any person ill on registration day shall have a competent person apply to the chief registrar for authority to act in the case.

May Register Anywhere.

Any man who is absent from his home precinct on registration day shall be permitted to register at any place of registration.

Enrollees of the CCC are subject to registration under direction of the director of the CCC.

Registration in Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico will be directed by proclamation of the President.

The director of selective service will be responsible directly to the President. The director is clothed with authority to amend regulations as necessary, to issue public orders and instructions, to obligate funds, and to appoint whatever officers, employés, assistants, and deputies necessary at salaries of $5,000 a year or less.

Governors to Name Boards.

Local draft boards will be appointed by the governors of the several states, but appeal boards will be named by the President on the recommendation of the governors. The governors will divide the states into appeal areas, which will include local boards having a total of not more than 70,000 registrants.

The executive order declares that appeal boards of five men should be composite and include one member from labor, one from industry, a physician, an attorney, and, where applicable, one member from agriculture.

Appeal boards will have jurisdiction to review any decision concerning the classification of any registrant by any local board within its area. The appeal board may affirm, modify, or reverse the decision of the local board, and its decisions shall be final unless modified or reversed by the President.

HOUSE MEASURE DOOMS SAPOSS' DIVISION IN NLRB

Unit's Abolition Ordered in Passing Supply Bill.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—The house today received and quickly passed a $267,733,728 deficiency appropriation bill which includes instructions for the abolition of the radically run technical service division of the National Labor Relations board. Only one more appropriation bill remains for action in the present session, a measure to provide approximately 1½ billion dollars to finance the administration's conscription program.

David Saposs.

Meanwhile the bill passed today goes to the senate for final consideration. It is divided into $207,475,727 of cash and $60,258,001 contract authority, a total reduction of $9,444,144 from President Roosevelt's request.

Previous Move Thwarted.

The NLRB's technical service division, which will be abolished if the senate concurs with the house action, is run by Russian born David Saposs, identified before the Smith committee investigating the Wagner act's administration and the Dies committee on un-American activities as an outspoken advocate of communistic theories. The Smith committee charged Saposs with supplying the labor board with "so called expert testimony in any case the board feels needs bolstering."

Last June congress overwhelmingly refused to appropriate funds for Saposs' division, then known as the division of economic research. There were no specific instructions in that bill for the board's abolition, it being the view that refusal of the appropriation was plain enough.

However, when the time came for the appropriation bill to take effect, records show, the board merely changed the division's name and began paying for it out of other accounts. Saposs was retained as its head, along with the majority of his fellow "economists."

Board Accused of Trickery.

Members of congress accused the board of using trickery to circumvent their mandate. They got their first chance to act recently when the NLRB came before the house appropriation committee asking for more money.

The committee slashed to $75,000 the board's request for a $150,000 lump sum for printing expense which would have been in addition to the $125,000 for this purpose granted in the regular appropriation. To make up the $75,000, the committee allowed $40,000 in new funds and transferred $35,000 from the board's salary allowance.

In making the transfer, the committee noted the annual pay roll of the technical service division is $34,100. The committee, in its report, said the action of the board in changing the name of the division was "contrary to the intent of congress." Then, as a further safeguard against its continued existence, a provision was written into the bill forbidding payment of salaries for the division.

One of the largest items in today's bill was 30 million dollars in cash plus 50 million dollars in contract authority for expansion and improvement of civil airports, part of the national defense program. The committee reported that this program over a period of years probably will cost 500 million dollars. The army and navy plan to use about 90 civil airports as bases for tactical squadrons and training unts, the report said.

Joins Up as Captain

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Maj. Gen. H. H. Arnold (right), chief of army air corps, welcoming Elliott Roosevelt, son of the President, as the latter was made a captain in the air corps reserve.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23 (AP).—Elliott Roosevelt, second son of President Roosevelt, was sworn in today as a captain in the army air corps' specialists reserve and announced that he would immediately give up his private business interests to serve the army for a year.

Roosevelt was assigned by Maj. Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the air corps, to duty with the procurement division at Wright field, Ohio, where it was expected that he could make use of experience gained as former vice president of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce.

Roosevelt, 30 years old today, said that he had received permission from the sponsor of his tri-weekly radio commentary to cancel his contract, which has eight more months to run. The program is broadcast normally over 54 stations.

At Wright field, which is the technical center of all army air corps purchasing, Roosevelt will have a hand in purchasing all types of equipment, including planes.

MORALE OF U. S. BEST DEFENSE, LEGION IS TOLD

Knudsen Describes Task of Arms Program.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Sept. 23 [Special].—William S. Knudsen, chairman of the national defense advisory committee, told past commanders of the American Legion here tonight that trainees under the conscription act would not have enough airplanes, tanks, guns and other heavy equipment at the outset but that American morale could be counted on to prove the best defense any country can have.

Speaking at the commanders' dinner, Knudsen explained the complicated business of turning the nation's peacetime plant into a vast munitions factory. Knudsen paid tribute to the spirit shown by the American manufacturer.

"Every so often some statement comes out implying that manufacturers are not coöperating," he said. "In the four months I have been in Washington I have still to find a manufacturer who was not willing to do everything he could to help the program."

Favors Private Manufacture.

Knudsen observed that in Washington there were people who believe the government should go into the manufacturing business on a large scale.

"We are not in favor of this," he said. "The government has quite extensive peacetime operations in the arsenals and has all it can handle to advantage if this defense program is going to be done on time."

In one respect the armament program is a blessing, according to Knudsen. He said the demand for labor would "foster a desire of young people to work with their hands.

"Because of business conditions in the last seven years and the new thinking of security rather than opportunity, we haven't done a very good job putting our young people to work," he said.

President Roosevelt sent a telegram to the convention expressing regret at not being able to attend and declaring his faith in the legion as a national organization furthering peace and defense.

Annual Parade Today.

The big convention parade will be held tomorrow.

National Commander Raymond J. Kelly, delivering his stewardship report to his comrades, told of his efforts to keep the country from embroilment in the European war, in keeping with the neutrality mandate of the convention a year ago in Chicago.

Commander Kelly said recent events had shown the wisdom of the Legion's policies for two decades on vital matters of self-defense, foreign relations, and un-American activities.

GREEN DEMANDS 5 MEASURES FOR BETTER SCHOOLS

Says Democrats Make Them Jobs Factory.

A five point program to bring about an efficient, economical and honest administration of the public school system of Illinois was presented last night by Dwight H. Green, Republican nominee for governor, in a radio speech.

The talk was delivered before a special audience in the East room of the La Salle hotel. Among those who listened were rrepresentatives of organizations active in the field of public education. After the conclusion of the speech they carried on the discussion of Green's topic, "Let's Save Our Schools."

Charges Jobs Factory.

Green summarized criticism of the Democratic régime, which, he charged, has turned the local educational system into a jobs factory. He described Mayor Kelly as a political engineer, James B. McCahey, president of the Chicago board of education, as a political coal dealer, and William H. Johnson, superintendent of Chicago schools, as a political office boy.

The reform program Green proposed follows:

"1. Political interference with the entire educational system must cease.

"2. Adequate support for public schools and handicapped children must be provided.

Equality of Opportunity.

"3. The base of education broadened so that children otherwise sent to corrective institutions may be adjusted to productive life at home. Every child, in city or rural district, must have equal opportunity.

"4. We must have a gradual reorganization of rural schools and more equitable tax loads, but accomplished only with the consent of the rural communities. Local control must not be sacrificed.

5. Security for teachers in tenure and retirement can be given in return for higher standards of professional preparation."

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

NEW DEAL PERIL TO U. S. DEFENSE, TAFT DECLARES

Senator Urges Change in Administration.

New York, Sept. 23 [Special].—United States Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio tonight charged that the national defense program would bog down under incompetent administration and that the United States would drift into "national socialism" if President Roosevelt were reëlected for a third term. His speech, the first of the campaign, was made to the Forest Hills section of the United Republican finance committee and also was broadcast.

Senator Taft assailed the "failure" of the New Deal to carry thru a competent program in both the foreign and domestic fields, and warned that the future of the country depends on a change of administration.

Such an administration, said Taft, must be a "business administration" which would forget class hatreds, invite the coöperation of employer and employé alike, and create a national unity in the face of dangers threatening in a totalitarian controled world.

Says Willkie Is Qualified.

"Now is the time when we need a man whose abilities are the kind that exactly meet the failures of New Deal administration," Senator Taft asserted. "That man is Wendell L. Willkie.

"Wendell Willkie understands the business system of America and how it works. He knows how the abuses of business can be prevented without crushing an entire industry. Under his administration some laws can be repealed; many can be modified; the administration of all can be carried on in a spirit of helpfulness to private industry instead of an underlying purpose that it should be destroyed."

Asserting that the reëlection of Mr. Roosevelt would only serve to give continued authority to the New Dealers, "who have completely lost confidence in the American way of life," Senator Taft contended that the New Deal has failed "miserably" in its pledge to curtail unemployment and restore prosperity.

Warns of Consequences.

"The regulation of business will be constantly increased if the New Deal retains power," he said. "The same men, with an intense antibusiness complex, will administer the National Labor Relations board, the wage-hour law, the SEC, the internal revenue department, and countless other bureaus.

"The stagnation of industry will continue, and the same vicious circle will force the government into more and more fields of activity until the complete goal of national socialism is reached."

Senator Taft charged that the failure of the New Deal to provide adequate defenses is typical of its failures in other fields.

"Every defect of the New Deal is obvious in its administration of defense," he said.

Alderman Seeks to Bar '5 Minutes Up; 5c, Please'

Is it legal for telephone operators to cut in at the end of five minutes with "Five minutes are up—another nickel please." Ald. Edwin M. Meyer [45th] declared yesterday that many "important" calls are thus interrupted and asked if such cutting in could be prohibited under the city's franchise to the telephone company. The problem was referred to a subcommittee for investigation.

SPOKANE MEETS WILLKIE TODAY; IT'S A HOLIDAY

Expect Record Crowd to Turn Out.

BY HAROLD MURRAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 23 [Special].—Residents of this lumber, wheat, and mining city will declare an unofficial holiday tomorrow morning when Wendell Willkie, Republican Presidential nominee, arrives for an hour's stopover.

Frank P. Waver, in charge of reception arrangements, said plans have been made to handle one of the largest crowds ever assembled in Spokane to greet Willkie when his special train arrives here at 9 a. m.

State Police to Help.

Chief Ira A. Martin said the city's police force will be augmented by state police and deputies from the sheriff's office to handle the throngs.

Weaver said there will be no formal reception for Willkie because of the short time he will be in town. Present plans call for the nominee to make a short talk at the station and then be driven thru the town. Willkie will make another brief stop during the tour for an impromptu talk.

Formal Talk Scheduled.

Climaxing his visits, the nominee will be driven across the Spokane river to the county courthouse plaza where he is scheduled to give a formal talk. A sound truck will carry his remarks to the crowd. Town merchants have planned to open their stores late in the morning and a request has been sent to Superintendent of Schools Orville C. Pratt to allow the school children to be absent during the hour of Willkie's visit so they may see and hear him.

BUTTE IS READY

Butte, Mont., Sept. 23 [Special].—A typical western welcome will be accorded Wendell Willkie upon his arrival tomorrow night at this wide open mining town, the home of both of Montana's Democratic senators.

Willkie leaders say they have made arrangements for the most enthusiastic political gathering in the state since the days when William Jennings Bryan spoke here on free silver. Special trains, motor buses, and numerous auto caravans will bring large delegations from all parts of the state and nearby communities to see and hear Willkie.

WILLKIE TELLS HIS PROGRAM FOR MORE JOBS

provide them with the most worthwhile life and the most hopeful opportunities.

"That is the systetm I stand for. And if you elect me President, that is the system you will get."

A "Fatal Error."

With that, Willkie warned his listeners not to fall into the "fatal error" of believing one political party is for labor and the other not. He warned against the "smooth politician who claims everything for his side and grants nothing to the other." He declared that the National Labor Relations act was patterned after the Railway Labor act of 1926, which was passed by a Republican administration.

"Now, let me tell you straight from the shoulder," Willkie went on. "I stand for every one of the social gains that labor has made. I stand for the National Labor Relations act and the right of free collective bargaining. I stand for minimum wages and maximum hours, and for legislation to enforce them. I stand for social security benefits and believe that they should be extended to other groups who do not yet enjoy them. I believe that we should be insured against unemployment and that our old age should be protected by adequate pensions.

"Minimum Guarantees."

"These are minimum guarantees. If the New Deal wants to claim credit for those minimum safeguards I say let it have just as much as it deserves. I don't care how much credit the New Deal claims, because I know, and the record shows, that the New Deal has let labor down.

"As indispensable as it may be, the wages and hours act does not make jobs. And the right to collective bargaining, fundamental as it is, does not do any good to the man who has no job to bargain about.

"An administration that wants to do something for labor must go much further than minimum guarantees. Such an administration, while protecting labor's rights, must make jobs, and jobs, and jobs.

"And the reason I am undertaking this campaign is because I want every man and woman in this country to find a job if he or she wants one. I want that just as much as you do, because I have given my pledge to labor, that I know what makes jobs and that I will get them for you."

Then Willkie turned to the problems of the employer, of whom he has said there are 700,000 too few in this country. He said the New Deal had encouraged the belief that the employer "is a kind of conspirator against society—and exploiter of workers."

"Interested in Jobs."

Profits, said Willkie, have come to be regarded, not as the legitimate reward of enterprise, but as a kind of tax laid upon society by privileged men. He added:

"Now if you really believe all that bunk, then you ought to change our system so that we can all go to work for the state.

"I am not interested in profits as such. I am not interested in employers as such. But I am interested in both employers and profits as a means of making jobs for those who are now unemployed, and as a means of making better jobs for those who are already employed.

"I am pledged to get those jobs, and I intend to keep my pledge."

Tells Stand on Power.

Earlier, in a statement at Portland, Willkie disposed of the power question, which has been injected into the campaign with Willkie supposedly favoring private development as against the President's record for public ownership and operation.

"It is the business of the people of these areas to say what shall be done with the power generated in such projects, to determine whether it will be distributed by public or private hands. If you want to distribute it privately, that is your business. If you want to take over the private companies, that is your business, but do it by fair values, so that capital will not be driven out of these areas."

GLASS SUPPORTS SENATE MOVE TO OUTLAW 3D TERM

Pastors Favor Curb on Tenure, Poll Shows.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—Senator Carter Glass, Virginia's revered elder statesman of the Democratic party, let it be known today that he still is "utterly opposed to a third term for President of the United States."

A letter from Senator Glass, reaffirming his opposition to a third term, was read into the record by Senator Edward R. Burke [D., Neb.], chairman of a judiciary subcommittee which is holding hearings on the Burke proposal for a constitutional amendment to limit the Presidential tenure to a single six year term.

Senator Glass said he was "inclined to agree with Thomas Jefferson [founder of the Democratic party] in his statement that the constitution should provide that a President may have but two terms of four years each."

Will Vote for Roosevelt.

Altho unalterably opposed to a third term for any President, the 82 year old Virginian has declared that he feels morally bound to vote for the Roosevelt-Wallace ticket. He was a delegate to the Democratic national convention in Chicago, and having participated in the convention, he is obligated under an unwritten law of Virginia to abide by its results, the senator explains.

Senator Glass nominated James A. Farley, former postmaster general and chairmar of the Democratic national committee, for President in opposition to Mr. Roosevelt's third term candidacy. His nominating speech was interrupted by boos from the Roosevelt supporters when he quoted Jefferson in opposition to a third term.

It now transpires that Senator Millard E. Tydings [D., Md.], another leading anti-New Dealer, will disregard his oft expressed convictions against a third term and take an active part in Mr. Roosevelt's campaign for reëlection.

Two Jobs Close the Deal.

Tydings was converted in a deal involving the reappointment of Bernard J. Flynn, United States attorney for Maryland, and August Klecka, United States marshal for the state, whose nominations were sent to the senate by the White House today.

Originally Tydings appointees, their terms expired in 1938, about the time they defied the New Deal purge campaign and supported Senator Tydings for renomination. As a result of their refusal to support the purge effort, President Roosevelt refused to reappoint them until today, but both have remained in office as holdovers.

The Maryland senator, who survived the President's attempt to drive him from public life, will justify his support of the third term candidacy on the basis of "party regularity," he told friends.

Pastors Oppose 3d Term.

George W. Robnett, executive secretary of the Church League of America, told the judiciary subcommittee at today's hearing on the third term question that a letter poll of clergymen brought more than 100 replies from all denominations, all favoring restricted Presidential tenure.

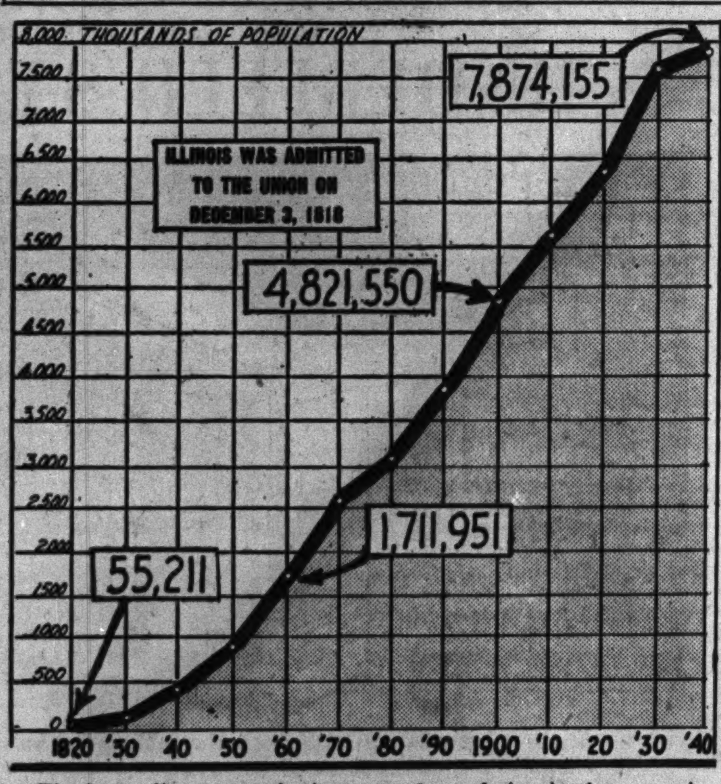
"Among the many whom I have consulted, and these included prominent Democrats as well as Republicans, I found almost unanimous sentiment for some way of guarding the office of the chief magistrate of the nation from that individual or that group who might become so impressed with self-importance as to be impelled to use the vast new instruments of power for self-intrenchment and perpetuation to the point of destroying the democratic form of our government," Robnett said.

O'KEEFE CALLS WILLKIE'S RADIO TECHNIC BETTER

New York, Sept. 23 [Special].—The microphone technic of Wendell L. Willkie, Republican presidential nominee, has improved amazingly, Walter O'Keefe, radio star called in by Willkie campaign managers to coach the candidate in the art of speaking for the radio, said today when he arrived at the New York municipal airport from San Francisco.

"One of the most striking things about Willkie is his quickness," O'Keefe said. "He can ad lib as well as anybody I know, and the way he can seize something that happens of an adverse nature and turn it to his own account is something!"

Growth of Illinois Population



The heavy line traces the increase of population in the state since its admission into the Union. The provisional figure for the 1940 census, released yesterday, is 7,874,155.

Illinois Population Is 7,874,155

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—Census Director William L. Austin announced today the provisional population of Illinois, based on the 16th decennial census. On April 1, 1940, Illinois' population was 7,874,155, an increase of 3.2 per cent, compared to 7,630,654 in 1930, which was an increase of 17.7 per cent.

Of the state's 102 counties, 74 increased in population. Forty-six of 59 cities of 10,000 or more increased.

The following table gives the populations of Cook and adjacent counties, of other populous counties, and of the 59 cities of 10,000 or more. The figures are subject to revision.

SUBPENAS CALL FOR LYN SMITH'S MISSING RECORDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfie.d, Ill., Sept. 23.—A court search for the missing records of the late F. Lynden Smith was begun here today. Smith, director of public works and former Democratic campaign manager, was found dead under my-terious circumstances on March 9 in a bathtub in a Springfield hospital.

This afternoon, notary subpenas were issued for the widow, for the administrators of the estate, and for the manager of Smith's Pontiac lumber company, directing them to appear in Joliet on Oct 10 as witnesses in a suit for an accounting of the Democratic 2 per cent club This club exacts 2 per cent from the pay checks of state employés for a campaign slush fund.

The subpenas were issued by a notary under the civil practices act. If they are not obeyed, the next regular step is for the plaintiff's attorney to petition the Will county court for a court order to compel appliance. Disobedience of such an order would be contempt of court.

The subpenas order these witnesses to produce Smith's so-called "little black book," his private record of campaign collections and disbursements. The subpenas also command the witnesses to produce voluminous political files that were traced to Smith's lumber company vaults in the investigation of his death.

Two Held on Robbery Charges; Bond Is $37,500

Judge Joseph J. Drucker in Boys' court yesterday held Victor Ciancanelli, 18 years old, 906 South Bell avenue, and John Puleo, 17, of 916 Garibaldi place, to the grand jury under total bonds of $37,500 on three charges of robbery each.

PRISON TO QUIT MAKING F. D. R., HERSHEY SIGNS

Warden Threatens That He'll Oust Guards.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Chester, Ill., Sept. 23.—Warden Joe Montgomery this afternoon ordered a halt to the production of "Reëlect Roosevelt" and "Hershey for Governor" signs in the state penitentiary here. He said they were being made by convicts at the direction of guards without his authority.

"My investigation," said the warden, "indicates that no state materials were used in making these political placards. If I get information to the contrary the guilty guards will be suspended and I'll file charges against them before the civil service commission.

Automobile Signs Painted.

"I'm trying to manage this institution free of any criticism of political activity. It was not until last night that I learned that some of the convicts had painted political signs for the auto trunks of some of the guards."

The 300 guards here, as at other state penitentiaries, are under a civil service setup designed to be nonpolitical. However, some of them said they were directed to pay 2 per cent of their pay checks to the Democratic state campaign fund and that they were also dunned to contribute to Democratic county campaign funds.

The guards interviewed said that for their names to be published—or even if they were seen talking with a newspaper reporter—would jeopardize their jobs.

Photograph Recalled.

The prison made automobile banners was the second such incident to be uncovered at this Mississippi river city in the last week. It was here that a state highway maintenance truck crew was photographed last week erecting a "Hershey for Governor" billboard.

A drive of a thousand miles of Illinois highways in the Tribune road car during the last three days disclosed that the Democrats are staging an intense billboard campaign for the Nov. 5 election.

INDIANA G. O. P. NOMINEE BLASTS 3D TERM DRIVE

Hillis Warns of Danger to State and Nation.

A third term for the wasteful Indiana Democratic administration will be as harmful to the state as a third term for Roosevelt will prove to the nation, Glen R. Hillis, Republican candidate for governor of Indiana, said in addresses yesterday in Lake county.

Glen R. Hillis.

Hillis addressed steel workers from the front steps of the Gary city hall, spoke before a rally of Republican women workers, and carried his campaign to two night massmeetings. His Lake county visit will end tonight.

Scores Little New Deal.

"There must be no third term in Indiana, just as there must be no third term nationally," Hillis said. "A third term for the political barons of Indiana's Little New Deal means a third term for racketeers, a third term of political control of state institutions, a third term of political domination of private business, and a third term of ruinous and costly state burocracy."

Hillis, who is accompanied on his state tour by Charles M. Dawson, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, told the workers he supported the Republican state labor platform wholeheartedly.

"Our platform guarantees the right of labor to organize and to protect its interests," he said. "I subscribe to that 100 per cent. When I am elected governor the first thing I intend to do is fire Tom Hudson, state labor commissioner, who is using his job to play politics at the expense of labor."

Loss of Industries Cited.

Hillis said the people of Indiana could save 5 million dollars in taxes if they will oust the Democratic state administration. He said taxes already have driven industries from the state and more are being forced to consider other locations.

Hillis told women members of the party he intends to encourage school courses which will prepare young people to earn their living.

MELLON'S SON GOES BACK TO SCHOOL AT 33

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 23 (AP).—Paul Mellon, 33 year old son of the late Andrew W. Mellon, thrice secretary o fthe treasury, disclosed today he is returning this week to school as a freshman to "make up to some extent important gaps" in his education.

Young Mellon, father of a daughter, already is a graduate of Yale and of Clare college, Cambridge university, England.

He selected St. John's college at Annapolis, third oldest college in the United States. Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, and other educators interested in perpetuating western culture took over the school three years ago and started a novel program.

The classics of Augustine, Aquinas, François Villon, Machiavelli, Jefferson, Cicero, and Karl Marx were reinstated as a full curriculum. Students grapple at first hand with the problems of these men.

Mellon will begin rigorous sessions with Greek, Latin, French, and German masters, studying the history of ideas.

THE CAMPAIGN
Both Sides of it

REPUBLICAN.

The White House Makes 'Em Big.

BY CARLISLE BARGERON.
(Assigned by Republican National Committee.)

Cartoon by Archibald.

Aside from the boo'ers in the movies the most fascinating people in a campaign are the journalistic kibitzers. A strange breed known as "commentators"—radio and newspaper—has been added to our crazy existence in recent years.

Inasmuch as they've got to commentate on something every day and sometimes three or four times a day, you will see them watching Mr. Willkie's enunciation of every word. "O, O, he slurred that one," "O, O, he misspoke that time, he should've said 'telegraph' instead of 'telephone.'"

A Rooseveltian Slip.

Few public men in our history have ever uttered so many half-truths and plain untruths as Mr. Roosevelt.

At Baltimore in his campaign of 1932, he was telling about how the Republicans had been in control in Washington—of the executive branch and the legislative branch. Then he added in an aside "and of the Supreme court, too." It was a slip, he didn't intend to say it. Mr. Roosevelt kept explaining that this was just a little slip, that nobody had a higher reverence for the Supreme court than he.

Even Capone Would Look Big.

We used to have a saying in this country that you could put Al Capone in the White House and that the office would make him "great." If you worked around politicians in Washington, you'd be surprised at how small a man can look the day before he is inaugurated President, and how tremendously big he appears the next day. Overnight he has been given a tremendous power. Politicians and business men rush to kow-tow to him. And what is of the utmost importance, his political party, wanting to remain in office, sets out to build him up as the greatest man who ever lived.

The Democrats with a gigantic propaganda machine at their disposal built up Mr. Roosevelt to utterly impossible proportions. And where they made their greatest mistake, they took his word when he said he wanted a blank check for billions of dollars with which to relieve distress and put the country on its feet. Mr. Roosevelt used it also to build up a machine to perpetuate himself and his immediate crowd in office.

DEMOCRATIC.

Chaos in the Willkie Camp.

(Provided by the Democratic National Committee.)

Wendell Willkie's campaign thus far has been vague, contradictory and chaotic. In the three months since his nomination at Philadelphia, he has failed to offer a single constructive suggestion in the whole broad range of foreign and domestic policy.

He has indorsed the Roosevelt social reforms in general and then added that they were leading the country straight down the road to national disaster.

As an organizer, Candidate Willkie has failed completely. The Republican campaign organization is loose jointed and carelessly strung together, with several subsidiary companies competing for control of fund raising activities, and competing also in the more important field of directing party policy.

Organizing a Party.

Ray Clapper, distinguished Washington columnist, who writes for a string of newspapers decidedly hostile to the Roosevelt administration, said in a recent column:

"The Willkie campaign has been notorious for disorganization. Seldom has there been more chaos in a Presidential campaign. Congressional cloakrooms echo with stories of confusion, hurt feelings, unanswered telegrams and letters, crossed wires, and general demoralization.

"Willkie is carrying his campaign in his hat. This condition is well known and is a subject of incessant discussion among politicians here and among newspaper correspondents on the Willkie train, which seems to operate with all the confusion of an amateur road show."

It may be argued in fairness to Willkie that he is new to politics, new to the Republican party, and new to the men and women who must carry on the battle for his candidacy. But he would be new also to the White House.

The vexing and complicated problems of foreign policy and national defense can hardly be mastered overnight.

Confusing the Issue.

This confusion is also prominent in Candidate Willkie's thinking. He apparently wants to pin the label of "war party" on the Democrats, especially in the states west of the Mississippi. Yet it is impossible to say whether he accuses the administration of "coöperating" too much with Europe or coöperating too little.

In one speech he said the President had misled France and England by promising more help than the United States could give in the war against Hitler. In another speech, he said the United States could have given more aid if the President had only been faster in putting Uncle Sam's domestic affairs in good order.

This much is certain and it may provide a telling clue in reading Candidate Willkie's mind. Those Republicans who want to help England in every way possible, including several large newspapers in the east, are completely satisfied with his utterances on foreign affairs. They say he has "spurred" Roosevelt into taking definite action. Those Republicans in the west who cling to the policy of isolation, including several large newspapers, are also completely satisfied. Vagueness then has its compensations.

The West Against the East.

The candidate who rides astride of two horses usually ends up by falling down the middle.

When he visited California, Willkie had a tender solicitude for the prevailing political opinions in that state. He went all the way in indorsing the wages and hours act and the national labor relations act. He promised that no man would be dismissed from WPA if he were President, until the man first had a job in private industry.

When he comes east, of course, Willkie will soft-pedal the issues which he stressed in the far west. He has sectional or geographic policies which may be trimmed and cut to suit the audience.

To date, the Republican nominee has shown himself as a man without a party and without a policy. This explains why he has slipped so badly since the acceptance speech at Elwood.

U. S. MERIT BOARD PUTS GUARDSMEN UNDER HATCH ACT

Rules They Are Federal Employes.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23 (AP).—Senator Ernest W. Gibson [R., Vt.] asserted in the senate today that the Civil Service commission had taken a dangerous step in ruling that National Guardsmen, while on active duty, were subject to the Hatch act's restrictions on political activity.

Senator E. W. Gibson.

The commission ruled that when guardsmen were inducted into active service, or while they were attending weekly drill, their political activities must be circumscribed in conformity with the act's provisions. The act forbids government workers to discuss candidates publicly or to participate in a campaign.

Hopes Ruling Is Incorrect.

"I sincerely hope that the commission is wrong in this ruling or, if it is right, that congress will see that this situation is corrected," Gibson declared.

It would be, he argued, a very dangerous process in democratic government if men who were inducted into the army against their will "were virtually threatened with jail if they took an active part in politics.

Jurisdiction Is Question.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] demanded to know what right the Civil Service commission had to fix regulations governing army personnel, and Senator Tom Connally [D., Tex.] said he couldn't conceive of the commission attempting to take jurisdiction over any except government civil service employés who would return to their jobs after temporary service with the armed forces.

Senator Carl A. Hatch [D., N. M.], author of the law, said he was troubled about the question whether the act would apply to conscripted men.

NEW DEAL WASTE JOLTS INSURANCE, BROOKS ASSERTS

Endowment Funds Are Also Periled, He Says.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 23 [Special].—Every life insurance policy and endowment fund in the United States is in jeopardy because of the wasteful spending of the New Deal administration, Wayland Brooks, Republican nominee for United States senator, charged in an address here tonight.

"The 65 million policy holders of life insurance alone in this country, totaling more than 25 billions of dollars of insurance, and the countless millions who carry other forms of insurance have as much at stake in the coming election as any other group in America," Brooks asserted. "Endowment fund incomes of every educational and research institution in the nation are seriously threatened."

Cites Two Fold Threat.

"The threat to the safety and security of life and annuity policies is two fold," Brooks declared. "By forcing the insurance companies to fill their portfolios with low interest rate government bonds the New Dealers are sniping at the income of the companies.

"The other threat is in the danger of inflation of our currency, already whittled almost in half by the New Deal in a vain effort to boost prices artificially.

"The New Deal tinkered with our dollar and said it was worth only 59 cents instead of 100 cents. This devaluation and the purchase of gold and silver by our government from foreign countries at prices for above market values pours a continual stream of cash into the pockets of European nations. At the same time they are able to dump their products in this country.

Fears Effect of Debt.

"We were able to finance the last war because we had a low national debt. I shudder to think of having to raise money should we be maneuvered into another war today with a debt of 58 billion dollars hanging over our heads.

"We have the spectacle of the New Deal deliberately devaluing securities by the policy of easy money. This is a direct threat and a danger to those institutions of higher learning, like the University of Chicago, Northwestern university, and other Illinois colleges which depend in part or completely on the income from their endowments to carry on their work."

Economical Operation of UNDERFEED STOKERS

POCAHONTAS coal combines in balanced proportion all the chemical elements necessary for complete combustion and maximum utilization of high heating units. This chemical composition distinguishes Pocahontas coal from average coal and establishes it as a most efficient and economical fuel for stokers.

Its long-burning qualities effect an appreciable reduction in stoker running time and a saving in cost of operation. Its low ash content reduces to a minimum the time and expense incurred in fire cleaning and refuse disposal. Low in sulphur, Pocahontas coal also burns without releasing objectionable gases.

Use genuine Pocahontas dustless coal the year 'round and realize a higher return on your stoker investment. A representative of the railway's Chicago Coal Bureau will be glad to explain its advantages to you, and assist in the solution of any fuel problem. Call or write:

NEW DEAL PLUM HOLDER RESIGNS DEMOCRAT POST

Chip Robert Under Fire Over Navy Contracts.

New York, Sept. 23 [Special].—Lawrence W. [Chip] Robert, who has been under heavy Republican fire because of fat naval engineering contracts awarded to a company headed by him, resigned today as secretary of the Democratic national committee.

Chip Robert.

Robert, who was reëlected secretary at the national convention in Chicago, said his company now has "the largest volume of commercial and federal business in its history."

The resignation was announced by Democratic national headquarters here, which said that Robert wrote a letter to National Chairman Edward J. Flynn, saying: "At a time like the present I cannot serve the best interests of my company and also the best interests of my party connections simultaneously, and there cannot and must not be a conflict between the two."

Aired by House Committee.

Robert's firm is Robert & Co. of Atlanta, Ga., architects and engineers.

The company's recent activities were first aired before the house naval affairs committee on Aug. 23, when it was revealed that Rear Admiral Ben Moreell had testified that the company had received at least two government contracts which netted it fees of approximately 2 million dollars. The contracts were awarded as part of the administration's vast national defense program.

One of the contracts, Admiral Moreell said, was for engineering work on a 24 million dollar project at Corpus Christi, Tex., and the other was on a 20 million dollar expansion program at the navy base at Jacksonville, Fla.

Legislators Are Aroused.

This revelation aroused legislators of both major parties. One, Representative Colgate W. Darden Jr. [D., Va.], asserted that the secretary of the national committee should not have his business firm bid on government contracts because "it doesn't look good to the man in the street."

Later Representative Carl Vinson [D., Ga.], chairman of the house naval affairs committee, introduced in the Congressional Record a report from the navy department showing that Robert & Co. had been awarded 8 out of 66 navy department contracts, of a total value of $26,859,081, including $931,560 in fees.

The next day Senator H. Styles Bridges [R., N. H.] demanded that President Roosevelt request the resignation of Robert, describing Vinson's disclosures as "one of the gravest scandals on the escutcheon of the Roosevelt administration."

Bridges added that "it is quite probable that the awards may constitute a violation of the Hatch act."

BIOFF'S INCOME TAX TRIAL IS PUT OFF TILL SPRING

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 20 (AP).—Trial of William Bioff, film studio labor leader, on charges of evading income taxes of about $48,000 was postponed today until spring.

Government prosecutors asked Federal Judge Paul J. McCormick to defer the trial until after a similar trial of movie executives in New York. The same witnesses called there will be needed to complete the case against Bioff, the prosecutors said. Judge McCormick therefore said a trial date will be set in February.

Bioff was released in Chicago last week after serving a term imposed on him in an 18 year old pandering case.

IT'S A NASH

Another answer is the fact that Collier's—of all the multimillion weekly magazines published over a long period of years—is the only one that is at its all-time peak today in circulation and advertising revenue.

No. 1 sales territory in the United States pays quick dividends to large advertisers and small. Christian Peper Tobacco Company advertise Crosby Square pipe mixture in Collier's exclusively. Starting their third year, Elmer C. Peper, president, says:

"During the two years we have used Collier's we have gained complete national distribution on this product; have added 166 new distributors and over 25,000 new retail outlets. In this time we have received thousands of requests for samples of this product, and each advertisement brings in hundreds more.

"A typical example of Collier's pulling power: last Christmas we ran a quarter-page offering a pound of our quality pipe mixture for $1.25. When we announced this offer to the trade we received orders for nearly $50,000 on this one item alone.

HOW'S THIS FOR THE NO. 1 SALES TERRITORY IN THE UNITED STATES?

Collier's today has 2,890,058 circulation. But it takes more than circulation to make a market. It takes people with active wants and the buying power to satisfy them. By these standards the Collier's record is:

No. 1 in percentage of readers between the ages of 26 and 45 inclusive—the buying age.

No. 1 in number of people over 18 years old in reader families.

No. 1 among new-car buyers, and in percentage of circulation going to car-owning families.

No. 1 among buyers of mechanical refrigerators costing over $150.

No. 1 among buyers of radios costing over $100.

No. 1 among buyers of watches costing over $50.

No. 1 among buyers of life insurance policies over $5,000.

None of these figures are taken from surveys made by or for Collier's—we've let others prove our point. And no other combination of weekly magazines can reach more than 29.7% of this market.

More important facts that everyone knows—

You are days closer to Collier's great market than to any other weekly's market because of Collier's new fast copy closing dates.

Your sales message in Collier's is flashed against the finest background. Collier's alert, vital editing, streamlined makeup and the constant use of more color than any other weekly assure this.

THE NEW WILLKIE.

For a time this year it looked as if the Republican party once more had chosen as its candidate a man who lacks what it takes to address large audiences. All of Mr. Willkie's speeches have been impressive as they were printed in the newspapers, but the early ones were disappointing as he read them.

Mr. Willkie does not employ ghost writers. He rolls his own. The phrases are his own and the climaxes are his own. It was curious how little he was able to make of his compositions as he read them. One shrewd observer commented after the Elwood speech: "What Roosevelt couldn't have done with that manuscript if it had been handed to him to read!"

The speech at Elwood was delivered beneath a burning sun on a day when the thermometer registered close to 100. It was probably hotter than that on the platform. The crowd was restless and Mr. Willkie himself had been subjected to several days of fatiguing activity.

When he resumed his campaign at Chicago, Mr. Willkie overtaxed his voice and the Davenport speech had to be canceled. That suggested inexperience. At Coffeyville Mr. Willkie was in better form, but only a blind, or rather a deaf partisan, could have regarded him as a big leaguer on that occasion. His enunciation was clearer and his timing was improved, but he still failed to tell his persuasive story persuasively.

All of this is preliminary to saying that nobody today need apologize for Mr. Willkie as a campaign speaker. After Coffeyville he found himself. Today he is as good as any of them. He is in touch with his audience. He is not self-conscious, not crowd-shy, not a prisoner of his manuscript. He speaks easily. His voice is virile, resonant, and free of affectation. He knows how to handle applause and how to fence with hecklers. He is the campaigner that those who knew him when he was a jury lawyer said he was going to be.

Mr. Willkie will return from the west with a new interest aroused in his candidacy. As the word goes around that the first impression of him as a speaker was a mistaken one, more and more people will tune in to hear him, to see for themselves whether the man can make a speech, and this time his message will come clear and clean. Whatever may be the explanation of his difficulties in his earlier speeches, the fact is that today he is an able campaigner, eloquent, dynamic, and sincere.

A CONSCRIPTED INDUSTRY.

It seems to be assumed by a great many people in this country that if the government takes over an industrial plant the factory will then be operated by archangels, and disinterested archangels at that. This is curious, because if there are any archangels working for the government in Washington the fact has escaped the notice of a large corps of trained reporters in the capital.

The probability is that any factories which may be taken over will be run by human beings. Perhaps the management will be entrusted in the first instance to army or navy officers, but as these gentlemen, with the fewest exceptions, have had neither training nor experience in industrial operation they are not likely to make a success of it. If production is to be maintained at a high level the managers will have to be men with experience and proved capacity in that particular business. In practice that will mean generally that some one who is interested in the A. B. C. Pants company will be placed in charge of the D. E. F. Pants company, and the M. N. O. Steel company will be run by the owner of a substantial block of stock in the P. Q. R. Steel company.

This is not likely to make for the highest degree of industrial efficiency, as some recent experience in Britain suggests. There the Ebbw Vale steel mill was built to take advantage of the continuous processes developed in this country for the manufacture of sheet steel. Richard Thomas & Co. built the British mill, the only one of its kind in the British Isles. Over there the steel industry is organized as a trust, and the other members of the combination were not exactly desolated when Richard Thomas & Co. ran into financial difficulties and had to be bailed out by the British equivalent of the RFC. The expected happened. The government, as banker, put men interested in rival steel mills in charge of the Ebbw Vale mill. The alternative would have been even worse: Giving the management to men who knew nothing of the business.

Now it is charged that despite the immense war demand for sheet steel, the Ebbw Vale mill, by far the most efficient in Britain, is not producing as much as it could. Commenting on the matter, the London Economist said recently:

"Richard Thomas was a technically progressive and commercially independent firm looked at askance by the semimonopolistic steel cartel . . .; the managers placed in charge by the control committee are, in effect, representatives of the steel federation and closely connected with the firm's competitors. . . . It is imperative that the charges should be investigated by a public inquiry if there is to be any confidence that the affairs of the most important of our industries are being run in the public interest."

The New Statesman and Nation of London goes even further. "What we must ask ourselves," says this publication, "is whether this type of steel control is well fitted to operate the steel sector of our war economy on the government's behalf. . . . No doubt these gentlemen are all sincerely convinced that they have acted in the interests of the nation. But is their view of the nation's interests likely to be that most suited to the needs of an expanding war economy?"

Those in America who advocate the so-called conscription of factories at the pleasure of the government are inviting just such abuses and just such losses in productivity.

TELL 'EM NOTHING.

The first contingents of the National Guard are moving into camp for a year's training. In all, 133,000 officers and men have been given notice of when they will be summoned. That is a good deal less than half the total. So far as the rest are concerned, including the great majority of the Illinois division, all they know is that they will not be called "until after Jan. 1." And that information was not published until Sept. 20.

All of that means that several hundred thousand men, the great majority of whom are employed and many of whom have business and professional responsibilities, have been and still are suffering needless inconvenience and hardship. They can't tell an employer when they must be replaced. They don't know whether they will be able to finish work now in hand and whether to take on anything new. They cannot plan their affairs intelligently. They are left at a disadvantage in adjusting leases, instalment payments, and a thousand other commitments.

There is no excuse for this lack of consideration and only one explanation for it: Namely, executive incompetence. Mr. Roosevelt asked congress in July for authority to mobilize the Guard and it is a month since the authority was voted to him. If he had any capacity for administration the plans long before this would have been prepared in detail, construction of cantonments would be well advanced, and he could tell all the Guardsmen when they would have to go and where they would be sent.

Instead, Mr. Roosevelt has pursued a policy of treating 'em rough, telling 'em nothing and making 'em like it. This is the man who pretends that he is the irreplaceable executive who alone has the capacity for organizing this country for defense.

In truth, if the task is left to him it is certain that it will be bungled. His treatment of the Guard discloses all too plainly two of his principal failings as an administrator: He doesn't think ahead except in the narrow sphere of political manipulation and he is grossly lacking in consideration for those subject to his orders.

Surely the members of the Guard had a right to expect better treatment from their government. They have volunteered for its service and in so doing have sacrificed time, leisure, and comfort. The militiamen are now gladly giving a year out of their lives and a year out of their earnings as an additional evidence of loyalty. They were justified in expecting that the government would impose upon them no avoidable inconveniences and losses, but the expectation has been largely disappointed. This kind of thing will continue as long as the present administration is in power because Mr. Roosevelt has no talent for other than political management.

CENTRAL AMERICAN OPPORTUNITIES.

Wayne Thomis of THE TRIBUNE's staff found great opportunities for American engineers and farmers in Central America. The thinly settled and potentially rich uplands of the region have a climate suitable to white settlement. If Americans do not assist in their development, he was told by residents there, the Fascist states and Japan will seek to make economic and perhaps political colonies of the countries.

Tempting as the economic possibilities of the region may be, they are not likely to tempt many American settlers so long as the Roosevelt administration maintains its present foreign policy in those parts.

Central America, with the exception of Costa Rica, has a record of disorderly government. Some of the republics are republics only in name. As in Mexico, government is a dictatorship changing hands by the exercise of military power and not at the ballot box. Settlers will not be attracted if they have reason to expect that their lives and property will not be respected.

In Mexico because the confiscation and expropriation have been carried on by a government deeply tinged with communism, the left wingers around the President have approved it. Both American investors and Americans who settled in Mexico and developed property there have been victimized.

The Mexican government that has wrecked the industries, railroads, and agriculture of that nation would have collapsed of its own folly years ago if it had not been for the moral and financial support tendered it by the Roosevelt administration. When John L. Lewis went to speak before the communistic wing of the Mexican trades unions he carried along in his baggage his personal member of the labor relations board, Edwin S. Smith, whose presence in Mexico City was rightly regarded as an official benediction on the confiscation of American property.

Mr. Roosevelt has also been subsidizing the Mexican government. His purchases of foreign silver at prices far above the natural world price enabled the Cardenas government to survive.

All this Mr. Roosevelt calls his good neighbor policy. If he were half as concerned for American interests in Latin America as he is of British and French interests in the far east, Americans might find some justification for settlement in Latin America. So far he has threatened only those nations that are safely beyond the reach of the United States navy.

TEN MILLION ACRES.

[Tulsa Tribune.]

When farms raise more of any given crop than can be sold in the United States or abroad, and do it year after year, there would seem to be two primary solutions: [1] Try to arrange greater consumption at home and sales abroad, and [2], raise something else. For a short time, there was a third: "Plow under"; "kill little pigs." We draw the curtain on Mr. Wallace.

For 20 years a series of attempts have been made to accomplish No. 1. But many people do not realize how much progress has been made along the lines of No. 2.

Twenty years ago soy beans were almost a novelty. This year more than 10,000,000 acres are being devoted to raising them. Some are made into hay, some are turned under as fertilizer, most are marketed for new uses which have been developed as a source of plastics, oil, meal, and food. Ten million acres, then, have been withdrawn from producing crops for which there is no present market and turned to producing a crop for which there is a market. The whole country gains by this simple application of common sense.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

SO THIS IS AUTUMN!

It appears that the autumnal equinox, which is supposed to bring storms, has a powerful effect upon the Line Book. We had intended to hold off the completion of selections for this annual publication until Oct. 1, but the mystic influences of the seasonal change caused us to go to bat with the "copy" yesterday. This has happened, without planning, three years in succession. Equinoctial brainstorms, no doubt.

* * *

In writing we have always preferred "autumn" to "fall" because it is a word that has all the flavor of the season and means nothing else, while "fall" has a wide field of meanings. In speech, however, we use "fall" as frequently as any other American.

The eminent British wordsmen who wrote "The King's English" envy the American monopoly of "fall." They say in that work:

"Fall is better on the merits than autumn, in every way; it is short, Saxon [like the other three season names], picturesque; it reveals its derivation to every one who uses it, not to the scholar only, like autumn; and we once had as good a right to it as the Americans, but we have chosen to let the right lapse and to use the word now is no better than larceny."

* * *

The autumn [fall to you] is our favorite season, because of all the poetic reasons that may be found in anthologies of verse and also because it brings, for us, the sense of a fresh start in life. This may be a hangover from impressionable student years or it may be a feeling common to city dwellers, who frequently complain, during the long, dull drag thru the summer, that "every one" is out of town.

THE PERFECT COLUMNIST.

[Joseph Addison, 1672-1719.]

The velvet cuff and lace that frame the hand
Flow thru the pen, and when the paper dries,
The page entire, immaculately planned,
Rests like an abbey window on the eyes.
What tho the pool of light be not so wide,
It's nothing faded in two centuries;
And she who but o' Wednesday was a bride
Is not more modern than its luxuries.
He who o' Thursday bought a burnished car,
Or took the midday plane to Davenport,
Sat for his portrait in those times afar
And sees himself with sympathy and sport.
Rare old Sir Roger, even to this day,
Lives in that gentleman across the way!

When Mansfield Came to Town.

The front cover of a program of the Grand Opera house, vintage 1903, appropriately illustrates the history of that era. The artist shows long lines of landaus, broughams, and carriages discharging groups of social luminaries in front of the theater. Alert footmen stand at attention while gentlemen in correct "Chesterfields" escort sumptuously gowned ladies across the sidewalk.

The lobby of the theater is a scene of confusion . . . a steady stream of patrons . . . belated buyers of "general admission" tickets . . . the S. R. O. sign is on duty . . . the subdued strains of the orchestral overture over the call "checkroom to your right" heralds curtain time.

One person retains an unruffled mien. Immaculate in tails and white tie Frederick W. Zeddies, superintendent of the playhouse, stands smilingly in the center entrance. He greets each arrival and seems to know every patron by name. Directing the ticketholder to the proper aisles, he remarks on the anticipated pleasure there is in store on this auspicious evening; he flatters us by his "So glad to see you again." He is politeness personified.

From the first row of the dress circle we survey the audience. We recognize many well known faces; names one would find in the Blue Book of that year. All doing homage to a great actor, Richard Mansfield in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

Max of the Second Gallery.

Hammering Away at the First Syllable.

Is the Word Detective cognizant of what is happening to our brave English language on the ruthless lips of radio announcers and other public persons presumably under their influence?

The British now *con*voy ships which go in convoy, and in the same manner the escort *es*corts his party. We also *pro*test the more unreasonable actions of our government, and by the same token youngsters still *ab*sent themselves from school.

It is not clear just how the fact that everything now seems to be lo*cated* at its location fits into this pattern of shifting accents, but do you suppose the whole pattern has some connection with the almost universal practice of having, or giving, an *ad*dress instead of an address?

WHEN A STAR FALLS.

Startled and still
I watched a brilliant meteor streak
Across the heavens
Trailing frail starlets in its path.
How proud a fiery thing against the midnight sky,
Lifting us earthborn for a moment
Out of our ceaseless cares.

How did it fall?
Did the starkeeper polishing each star,
And hanging each in its appointed place,
Tire, and nodding drowsily his ancient head

Nor may its keeper nod.

My favorite sundial inscription was found on the Northwestern university campus 30 years ago. It said, "There is always sunshine somewhere."

Also on that sundial, which I hope is still there, was the date of its erection, 1904; the date of the adoption of standard time, 1884; and the geographical position of Evanston, latitude 42 degrees 30 minutes north; longitude 87 degrees 41 minutes west. Alpheus Gardner.

WHAT HAPPENS IN DELIRIUM.

FEW of us can say that we have never suffered from a mental disturbance. At least we cannot if we have ever been delirious, for in that state the individual is the victim of an acute psychosis. As a rule, the manifestations include illusions, hallucinations, and general confusion of thought wherein the mind goes wandering. Youngsters, particularly, with a high fever will conjure up fearful imaginary pictures that betoken severe suffering.

As a rule, all of the signs of toxemia [poisoning from a bacterial infection] are present. The skin is hot and dry, the pulse is rapid, and the hands are moving constantly. Fortunately such exhibitions are brief if the temperature is reduced. Tepid baths or sponges not only enhance excretion via the cuticle but decrease congestion within the brain.

One young mother, who has just nursed her 6 year old daughter thru a bout with scarlet fever, was able to combat spells of this sort with the aid of warm tub baths to which a little ground mustard had been added. She recalled that her own childhood maladies brought the appearance of a Sairey Gampish woman, dressed in a slatternly black costume. When she was ill, no matter where she would look this figure was in the room pointing at her.

The type of aberration that attends alcoholic delirium is frequently associated with creeping, crawling forms of life and the desire to escape may be so dominant that the individual will dash from the room and race out of doors. Leaps from hospital windows—altho rare—do occur occasionally when the hallucinations that accompany a severe pneumonia become overpowering. Naturally, we wish to prevent episodes of this kind and good care requires constant supervision.

Drugs to which the patient is known to be sensitive should not be employed. Atropine, or belladonna, is poisonous to some even in minute doses, and this medicine may prove so disturbing to one who is extremely susceptible as to conjure up abnormal scenes.

To avoid these experiences we must not allow the victim's temperature to rise above a reasonable level. Tepid or cool water may be utilized as an antidote. Then we must make certain that the body is supplied with ample fluid, perhaps a great deal more than would be consumed in health. The reason is that far more evaporation is occurring from the epidermis than under normal conditions. Then we must make sure that adequate minerals are provided. If diarrhea is in evidence the system may be deprived of salts necessary to life. Common salt, glucose, etc., may be injected into a vein easily and safely.

Then again, if a balanced food regimen has not been the order of the day, we must make every effort to restore it as promptly as possible. Vitamin B—lacking in almost every alcoholic—can be introduced beneath the skin; so may liver extract—which will supply some of the fractions.

While we need not be alarmed should the patient go "out of his head," the condition should not be allowed to persist for long. If it is based upon actual changes in the brain, recovery may require several weeks; but if it is due to toxemia, which will be found to be the cause in most instances, we can get rid of the poison by increasing elimination. Next in importance probably is the diet, as the symptom may appear in many varieties of starvation—examples of which may be found, as we well know, in the midst of plenty.

EXCESS VITAMIN B.

P. M. B. writes: Can one take an overdose of thiamin chloride?

REPLY.

Vitamin B1 [thiamin chloride] is water soluble and it is assumed, therefore, that any excess—unneeded by the body—will be eliminated via the kidneys. In fact, many victims of uncontroled diabetes—who excrete huge quantities of water—will lose thiamin rapidly. In consequence, they may require larger doses of this food accessory.

DELAYED DENTITION.

J. J. B. writes: What is wrong when a 9 year old child still has three of his baby teeth? Should they not be pulled?

REPLY.

When the eruption of teeth is delayed, the cause is usually nutritional. It may be that the child needs more calcium, phosphorus, and vitamin D. Extractions are not in order.

KNEE TROUBLE.

R. A. writes: What causes water on the knee?

REPLY.

A RAILROAD MAN'S CREED.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—The rank and file of railroad men in this country believe the following, even tho the union leaders are coming out for Roosevelt:

George Washington, the father of our country, said: "Beware of all foreign entanglements and create friendly relations with all."

We are against any foreign military alliance with the United States.

We are against sending our boys overseas to fight in any foreign wars.

We are against a third term for any President, as this would pave the way for dictatorship.

We are against the sale of 50 of our destroyers to Britain, which we consider an act of war and dictatorship on the part of any President without the approval of congress.

The Hague convention of 1907 forbids a neutral country to supply any war materials whatever, directly or indirectly, to a belligerent, and if we are in danger of any foreign invasion, as the President states, why don't we keep them for our own protection? If they are good enough for Britain, they are good enough for the United States.

We are in favor of putting back the 38 million acres of productive land in this country now tied up by the government and produce in our own country what we are importing from other nations. This would give employment to a million men in the United States.

We do not want a dictator in America.

JOHN GRUNAU,
Past President 456 Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

SLATTERY AND THE UTILITY.

Bushnell, Ill., Sept. 20.—You have a strong editorial on Senator Slattery—calling him "Strongbox Jim," because he had $2,500 in Commonwealth Edison stock in his strongbox when he was appointed by Gov. Horner to fill out Mr. Lewis' term—while he was chairman of the Illinois Commerce commission.

But you never say one word against the company. I can't recall that you ever said one word critical of the utility business—yet every one knows the utilities have been guilty of corruption and favor buying in a big way for many years. Why is this? A. B.

DO YOU WANT DICTATORSHIP?

Galesburg, Ill., Sept. 20.—If the time ever arrives [and it is almost here now] when the electorate can be controled by government projects, AAA, TVA, WPA, PWA, relief, and many other sources of power from Washington, then we will be controled by force, which is dictatorship, as complete as Russia, Italy, or Germany have today. So if you want "dictatorship" vote for Roosevelt. If you want "democracy" vote for Willkie.

J. B. F.

PURPOSELY MISCONSTRUED.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—Apparently Wendell L. Willkie's comment of last Friday was misconstrued by many irate Chicago citizens. The phrase used, "To hell with Chicago," referred to the crooked political machine operating here in Chicago, and not to its voters, as many scheming politicians and newspapers would have you believe. It stands to reason a man running for office would not willfully talk his way out of office by downing his own electors. PATRICK H. O'ROURKE.

A READER'S DIRE PROPHECY.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—Permit me to qualify a certain sentence in your editorial, "An Army for a Caesar."

"War," your sentence states, "would prevent Mr. Willkie from achieving his ambition of reviving a free economy in this country with all its benefits"; as you did not specify the benefits that will accrue from a free economy let me enumerate them.

The free economy that Mr. Willkie will foist upon the country, if elected, means to free industry from the Wagner labor act, thereby giving industry a free hand to destroy unions and disorganize labor ranks; thereby creating confusion among the workers and bringing about a mad scramble for jobs; thereby affording industry a free hand to dictate wages and hours of labor; thereby reducing the standard of living and creating more misery and want. E. J. H.

AT COLISEUM MEETING.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—Last night I was an observer of what went on at the Coliseum. I remained thruout.

Having read the writings of the various Chicago papers, I conclude that THE TRIBUNE comes closer to reporting the absolute truth than any other. Your estimate of 10,000 to 12,000 people was much more truthful than the other papers' 16,000 to 18,000, and as for people [3,000 of them] being sent away, that was an absolute falsehood, as there wasn't one person turned away unless they meant the people who left with the feeling that they had been tricked by the real meaning of the meeting. AMERICAN.

FINDS G. O. P. INCONSISTENT.

Berwyn, Ill., Sept. 20.—There seems to be a great inconsistency in arguments advanced by the G. O. P. First we are told the country is in great danger, and that the President has failed to provide for its defense. Then we are told the danger exists only in the mind of the President, and that he has raised up a big war scare solely for his own benefit.

Mr. Roosevelt is regarded by millions of his fellow countrymen as the greatest humanitarian the world has seen.

L. W. A.

DEAD TREES AND WEEDS.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—In driving thru Chicago I notice so many dead and partly dead trees. Many of these trees are dangerous, as they are ready to fall.

As winter is just around the corner many poor families would be glad to have this wood for fuel.

COSTLY SCHOOL REPAIRS.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—I noticed in THE TRIBUNE a list of expenses incurred by the board of education in building and repairing school buildings in Chicago. The item covering the school which my daughter attends certainly gave me something to think about. How could $10,500 be spent for redecorating, cleaning, and painting the interior of a medium size elementary school? Allowing $500 for the halls, it still figures over $200 for cleaning and redecorating each of about 28 classrooms. Isn't this excessively excessive? L. A.

GARBAGE CANS THE NEED.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—Your report about the concerted movement against rats is very nice. What do you expect, when from Michigan avenue to Cicero and south to 80th street all that is visible on the ground to a visitor are piles of garbage and trash?

It doesn't take a year to get garbage cans. Other cities' boards of health just say, "No garbage can, no trash can, no occupancy." It works. Try it.

CONNECTICUT.

GET OUT YOUR BIBLE.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—Invitations for our President to debate with nominees of minority parties might well cause him to use the words of Nehemiah as reported in Nehemiah vi., 3. The President might be tempted at the fourth challenge to copy another of Nehemiah's retorts, Neh. vi., 8. C. W. McCULLOCH.

CONTRACT PURCHASE.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Have purchased furniture and my contract calls for $12 monthly payments. Since purchase of articles my husband has only been working part time and have been unable to make said payments but have paid $8 monthly. Company is not satisfied and are threatening to repossess furniture.

1. Can they do this?
2. As long as I am making some payment can they do it?
3. Do they repossess all articles or are we permitted to keep what has been paid for? M. M.

1. It seems probable that the contract is so worded as to permit them to take this course.
2. No payment less than the full amount due would cut off the creditor's rights.
3. It seems probable that the contract is so worded as to authorize them to repossess all. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

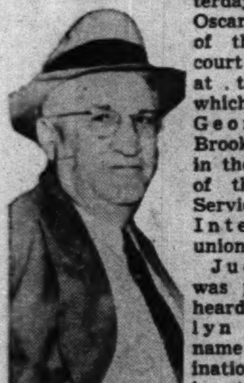
NELSON'S ROLE IN SCALISE VOTE TOLD AT PROBE

Judge Present at Election, Union Aid Testifies.

Testimony was reported to have been given before the grand jury yesterday that Judge Oscar F. Nelson of the Superior court was present at the election which placed George Scalise, Brooklyn pander, in the presidency of the Building Service Employés' International union.



Gus Van Heck.

Judge Nelson was present and heard the Brooklyn hoodlum's name put in nomination, according to testimony understood to have been given by Gus Van Heck, second vice president of the international.

Van Heck added that prior to the union meeting Judge Nelson told him Scalise was to be the compromise candidate.

Judge Denies Being There.

Judge Nelson, who is Republican candidate for state's attorney, denied Friday that he had attended the election. He said he had no connection with the union and therefore had no reason for being at the meeting.

He said the charge that he had attended was purely political. [State's Attorney Courtney is Nelson's opponent for the office of prosecutor.]

It was understood several members of the grand jury insisted that Judge Nelson be called before them, but a majority of the jurors voted down the proposal.

Judge Nelson's name was brought into the union investigation Friday when Paul B. David, secretary-treasurer of the international, surrendered in the state's attorney's office for questioning. After his statement Courtney's staff examined minutes of the meeting at which Scalise was elected and found the judge listed as among those present.

Looting of Union Told.

David also declared Scalise had taken $310,000 in union funds—$118,000 of this thru dummy accounts of the union's books. He said Thomas J. Burke, first vice president of the international, was an inseparable companion of Scalise.

Burke was named in a deathbed statement by the late Mathew Taylor, head of the Chicago Elevator Operators and Starters' union. Taylor said that to avert assassination he had paid more than $30,000 from his union's treasury to "the mob" thru Burke. Scalise, who was forced to resign as president of the international, is under conviction in New York for larceny of union funds.

FIRST JURY IN 10 YEARS IS CALLED BY COUNTY COURT

The first specific County court jury call in 10 years was issued yesterday by Judge Edmund K. Jarecki. Jurors for the Circuit and Superior courts are ordinarily used in County court trials, but attorneys for Paul Hildebrandt refused to accept these jurors. Hildebrandt is charged with reckless driving as a result of collision in which Miss Laura Sprague, daughter of Col. A. A. Sprague, was injured on Sept. 14. Hildebrandt lives at 29 South Kerwin avenue, Palatine. Fifty veniremen have been ordered to be present in County court tomorrow for the beginning of the trial. It was reported that when the case first came up before a magistrate at the headquarters of the county highway police, district No. 1, near Morton Grove, Hildebrandt asked for a jury trial and the case was transferred to the County court.

Art in Question

[TRIBUNE Photo.]
MRS. SALLY KIRCHE.

A clash over the question of what is art was blamed in Circuit court yesterday for the wreck of another marriage. Mrs. Sally Kirche, 30 years old, of 1729 Morse avenue, explained that she wanted to go into the street photography business, snapping pictures of passers-by. Her husband, Samuel, a commercial artist, of 1140 North Wells street, objected that this enterprise debased the family standards. They separated March 15, 1939.

Mrs. Kirche said she continued her photography until she became ill. Her husband said that, whether it was art or not, his wife had done pretty well at it, for she had bought a diamond ring and a car.

Norman Becker, attorney for Mrs. Kirche, produced a pawn ticket for the ring and said his client had fallen behind on payments on the car. Judge Cornelius J. Harrington awarded $8 a week temporary support to Mrs. Kirche, who has a bill for separate maintenance on file.

U. S. EVIDENCE IN JOHNSON CASE MAY END TODAY

Prosecution of William R. Johnson, reputed gambling boss, on charges of income tax fraud, entered its closing phases yesterday as agents of the department of internal revenue began summarizing financial figures allegedly representing Johnson's income.

Johnson and eight codefendants are on trial before Judge John P. Barnes and a jury in the federal District court on charges of conspiring to evade the payment of $1,887,864 in income taxes. At adjournment yesterday, Earle C. Hurley, assistant United States attorney, said only three or four more witnesses remain to be heard and that he hoped to finish today. The defense will start immediately after the close of the government's case.

Miss Bernice and Miss Lillian Downey, sisters, were questioned yesterday about records of a currency exchange which reputedly was used as a financial clearing house by Johnson and his associates. They testified they do not know where the records are now.

ST. LOUIS UNION RACKETEERS GET 5 YEARS PRISON

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 23 [Special].—Two former executives of a theater employés union were sentenced to serve five years in a federal prison and pay fines of $10,000 each today by Judge John Caskie Collet in United States District court. They were found guilty last week of racketeering. Judge Collet denied a motion for a new trial.

The two are John P. Nick, former first vice president of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employés and Moving Picture Machine Operators, and his assistant, Clyde Weston, union business agent.

Guilty of 11 Counts.

They were found guilty of 11 counts of a federal indictment. Five of the counts alleged that the two, as heads of the A. F. of L. union in St. Louis, had conspired to obtain $6,500 from theater owners in 1937 by making exorbitant wage demands.

Theater owners testified that they also forestalled large wage demands in 1936 by paying $10,000 to the pair.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch, which criticized Circuit Judge Thomas J. Rowe for dismissing the charge against Nick and nolle prossing that against Brady was cited for contempt. An appeal is pending.

Praised by Union Chief.

Nick, who had resigned from his vice president's job after being indicted, was praised last June at the union convention. The praise was uttered by George E. Browne, president of the international.

Browne said Nick had given "faithful and capable service" and also mentioned his gratitude to William Bioff, west coast representative of the union. Bioff finished a pandering term in the Chicago house of correction recently.

EX-SUPERVISOR BOOKED TO FACE FRAUD CHARGES

Admits He Got $3,814 of Relief Funds.

Otto Ziebell, supervisor of Bremen township for 25 years, was booked on two charges of conspiracy to defraud and two of forgery yesterday after he admitted that his share in the $12,000 township relief fund shortage amounted to $3,814. He will be arraigned Oct. 2 in the Homewood county highway police station.

As Ziebell was making his admissions to the state's attorney's staff, habeas corpus proceedings were begun in his behalf by Attorney William Scott Stewart.

Emmett Moynihan, assistant state's attorney, protested. He told Chief Justice James F. Fardy of the Criminal court that Ziebell wished to remain in the custody of the state's attorney.

Hired by Ziebell's Wife.

Stewart explained that he had been retained to represent Ziebell by Ziebell's wife and Francis A. Harper, mayor of Tinley Park and attorney for the township. Judge Fardy summoned Ziebell and asked him if he wanted to be freed.

"I should like to remain with the state's attorney's office," Ziebell replied, "because the state's attorney has some records that I want to check over with him."

Stewart then retired with Ziebell. The attorney was heard telling him: "If they have a case against you, they will put you in the penitentiary. If they haven't, there's no sense in your helping them make one."

Changes His Mind.

The attorney and Ziebell returned and Stewart announced that Ziebell had changed his mind.

Moynihan forestalled his release by promising to file formal charges immediately.

Ziebell then returned to the state's attorney's office and resumed his story.

"Bulletin Time"

Mid-afternoon in a Philadelphia home . . . The crowded morning's gone. Lunch is over—dinner's planned. Now comes the most welcome hour of the day.

In most Philadelphia households, it's "Bulletin Time"!

With the delivery of The Evening Bulletin, the housewives of Philadelphia take a daily recess to read, leisurely, the news of the day; to study The Bulletin's interest-packed women's pages; and to shop carefully, thriftily through the advertising.

So it is in nearly every household in the City of Homes—leisure time in Philadelphia is "Bulletin Time."

These Philadelphians, hundreds of thousands of them—with sincere interest in the pages of this newspaper and thorough confidence in its policies—are vitally important to an advertiser.

For, with The Evening Bulletin, the advertiser can reach nearly every worthwhile prospect in this vast home market—with a message that will be received with attention, read with interest, acted upon with belief . . . reach customers when they have the time to read his advertising thoroughly, and consider a purchase seriously.

Ask your advertising agency about The Philadelphia Evening Bulletin. Discover why it is one of the most thoroughly read newspapers in all America.

Learn about its thirty-five years of leadership in daily circulation, entirely on merit, without an artificial subscriber inducement of any kind . . . its concentration of circulation within the retail trading area (95% ABC) . . . its unusually low advertising cost per reader (one of the lowest anywhere in the nation.)

Readers Spend Over 43% More Time on The Bulletin

In a recent impartial survey, when Philadelphians answered the question, "How much time did you spend reading these Philadelphia newspapers yesterday?" the results were:

	Average Reading Time
	Men	Women
Evening Bulletin readers	54.5 min.	52.8 min.
Newspaper No. 2 readers	37.9	33.7
Newspaper No. 3 readers	28.7	36.9
Newspaper No. 4 readers	35.0	32.4

In Philadelphia—City of Homes—nearly everybody reads The Evening Bulletin

Nov. 9 Is Designated as Date for Doering-Castle Wedding

BY JUDITH CASS.

NOV. 9 has been chosen by Miss Caroline Castle as the date for her marriage to Edmund J. Doering III. The wedding will be a small one, at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon in St. Chrysostom's church. Miss Castle's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred C. Castle, will give the wedding reception a. the Casino. The personnel of the bridal party is not complete yet, but it is entirely safe to predict that Miss Castle's twin, Josephine, will be the maid of honor.

Miss Castle is busy just now not onlywith collecting a trousseau and doing the hundred and one other things that a prospective bride has to do, but with preparations for the North Avenue Day nursery benefit party that will be given Saturday night. Her sister, who is a member of the board of directors, yesterday entertained the committee members at the cocktail hour at the Castle home in Lake Shore drive. The party will be a dinner-dance at the Racquet club.

Miss Georgette Hill to Be Bride in Fashion Show.

Miss Georgette Hill will be dressed as a bride on Friday, for she has been chosen to take the stellar rôle in that episode of the Northwestern University settlement fashion show. Miss Beverly Roach will be the maid of honor and Miss Jane Cheney and Miss Joan Littlefield the bridesmaids. Pierre Andre of W-G-N is to be the announcer of the show, which will be given at a quarter to 3 o'clock in the afternoon at the New Trier High school auditorium.

Mrs. John W. Gary is giving a luncheon on Friday for the chairmen of the subcommittees of the St. Luke's fashion show committee, and then taking her guests on to the Winnetka show. The St. Luke's show is to be given on the afternoon and evening of Oct. 15 in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel. A group of St. Luke's fashion show veteran experts also is planning to attend the American fashion show that THE TRIBUNE is giving on Oct. 2.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Lobdell 50 Years Married Today.

Telegraph wires between here and Atlantic City will carry many messages today to Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Lobdell who are celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary today. The former Nell Lamson and Mr. Lobdell decided that instead of staying at home in their Lake Shore drive apartment and giving a large reception to observe their golden wedding, they would take a trip to the seashore. They are staying at the Ambassador hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRay Berdeau arrived in Chicago Sunday for a stay of a week or ten days. They are in Mrs. Kinney Smith's apartment at 1120 Lake Shore drive, which Mrs. Berdeau's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Quinn, has been occupying. Mrs. Quinn is in St. Luke's hospital, and it was because of her illness that the Berdeaus shortened their stay on the Pacific coast. They spent the summer in Hawaii and are on their way east.

From Newark, Del., comes interesting news concerning a young New Yorker who is a former Chicagoan. Mr. and Mrs. John K. Johnston of Newark have announced the engagement of their daughter, Genevieve Byers, to Arthur W. Crawford Jr., son of Mr and Mrs. Crawford of New York, formerly of Chicago. Miss Johnston, a graduate of the Friends school and the Baldwin school in Bryn Mawr, is a junior at Sarah Lawrence college. Mr. Crawford is a senior at Harvard university, where he is a member of the Pi Eta club.

Walrath-Taylor Wedding Takes Place Tonight.

The marriage of Miss Virginia Taylor and William Bradley Walrath Jr. is taking place at 8:30 o'clock tonight in the Winnetka Congregational church, followed by a small reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Taylor of Winnetka. The Rev. Samuel Harkness will officiate.

Miss Taylor will be attended by her sister, Miss Betty Jane Taylor, as maid of honor. Another sister, Mrs. Irving Babb, will be a bridesmaid, and so will the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Arthur Oehl. Little Susan Sanborn and Eleanor Babb will be flower girls.

Joseph Lieb will be best man for the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Walrath of Evanston. Robert Wersted of Los Angeles, Mr. Oehl, Arthur Apleton, Donald Koehler, Harold Hurtt, and Jonathan Hunter will usher. Mr. Walrath and his bride will motor to northern Wisconsin on their wedding trip. They will be at home in Evanston after Nov. 1.

Nov. 30 is the date set for the marriage of Miss Florence Walsh and Robert Hunt. The ceremony will be performed in the afternoon in the Winnetka Congregational church, with a reception following at the Winnetka home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Walsh. Miss Mary Walsh, who attends Con-

Reports Children's Radio Programs Are Getting Better

A substantial improvement in the quality of radio fare for children during the last 18 months was reported yesterday to more than 300 representatives of women's groups and juvenile and educational broadcasting interests. The report was made by Mrs. Dorothy Lewis, of New York, vice president of the National Radio Council on Children's programs, at a luncheon in the Carson Pirie Scott tearoom.

The speaker based her remarks on preliminary findings of a survey the council is making. She already has visited more than 100 radio stations and is to stop at 250 others in 44 states before final conclusions are reached.

Mrs. Lewis reported on standards adopted by the council. Children's programs, she said, must first be entertaining; they must be dramatic with reasonable suspense, they must come within a child's scope of imagination, and must stress human relations toward coöperative living. Programs about gangsers and crime generally are unacceptable, she said.

STAGE NOTE

Cast members of "Life with Father" celebrated their 250th performance last night with a party on the stage of the Blackstone theater after the play. Last night also marked the replacement of Nellie Burt by Dorothy Raymond in the rôle of Nora, one of the maids.

★ THRU THE LOOKING GLASS ★

There are some new stars in the makeup firmament today, all developed to help women conform to the artistic principle of "understatement" in the subtle art of making up the face. In other words, to enable them to live up to the modern gospel that to look even a little madeup is not only bad taste but bad fashion.

The rouges, shadows and powders all share a certain quality of delicacy and the makeup base created for use in conjunction with them is designed especially to give the skin that radiant, faintly luminous finish that is the perfect starting point for the flattering, soft makeup.

These new things are really very exciting. The creamy makeup base [there are no skin treatment creams in the whole new line] is in six beautiful tones. There is no trick to applying it and it holds its softness without becoming sticky. The lipstick texture is something to rave about; what the trick of its blending is we don't know, but we do know that we and all our tryer-outers found it one of the smoothies of all time.

The containers for these will enchant you. Plasticite, if you please, transparent and light and streamlined!

Nathan Hale Gift Pictures Inspire Pupils

Hundreds of letters have been received by THE TRIBUNE in appreciation for the large, framed pictures of Nathan Hale, revolutionary war hero, which were distributed at the opening of school of 1,314 public, parochial, and county schools thruout Chicagoland. The letters were sent by pupils, teachers, and principals.

Nearly 300 pictures remain undistributed, but most of these have been requested by schools, or have been promised to them.

At the announcement of the gifts several weeks ago, requests poured in from schools, organizations, and individuals in many states. One request for 10 copies came from Elwood, Ind., Wendell Willkie's home town. Another came from a one room rural school in Davenport, Ia., and four schools in Louisville, Ky., asked to purchase the pictures.

The brave, erect figure of the man who regretted that he had but one life to give to his country is proving an inspiration to thousands of school children. One eighth grade student of the Kenwood school, 4959 Blackstone avenue, writes in neat, precise Palmer method, "The eighth grade of the Kenwood school thank you for your lovely picture of Nathan Hale. The world needs great men like Hale today, so it is especially fitting for us to have his picture among other patriots before us."

Members of the Gethsemane Evangelical Lutheran church, 45th place and Princeton avenue, passed a formal resolution of thanks to THE TRIBUNE on Sept. 10 for the picture which was sent to their parochial school.

The pictures were distributed to 333 public grammar schools, 40 public high schools, 331 Cook county schools, 150 Lutheran, and 456 Catholic parochial schools. Several extra copies were sent to public grammar schools.

Elderly Wife Asks Radio for Ailing Husband

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

"Dear Miss Brown: Again I am coming to you, wondering if you can assist me in getting a radio for my husband.

"He has failed so much in the last six months that he is now more or less confined to the one room we occupy. We had a small radio, but it has gone to pieces, and as we have no means we can't obtain another. The radio has been his only pastime and it seems as tho he is now restless and lost. He is past 75 years old and our hard luck has taken its toll.

"Thru your column I have been well remembered by some very lovely folks, who have donated wearing apparel for me, which I have altered to fit. I am so very grateful to you, as I do want to look respectable as long as I can. It is hard, my dear, to see a loved one who once had a very brilliant mind deteriorate each day, so maybe if I could in some way get a radio it would help bring some pleasure to him.

"Thank you again and again for your kind favors. If I could leave my husband alone, I would try to get work of some kind, but he would be ill, and I can't leave him alone for an hour at a time. MRS. X."

Infant Wefare Society to Observe Anniversary

The Oak Park Junior auxiliary and the Juniors of the Oak Park and River Forest Infant Welfare society will celebrate the latter's silver anniversary at a luncheon today at the Oak Park Country club. Among the guests will be Mrs. Edward M. McCready, who founded the organization, and Mrs. Florence B. Kilbourne, who was its first president. Mrs. Harry B. Todd, president of the juniors, is in charge of arrangements, assisted by Mrs. Keston Deimling, president of the auxiliary.

A Chicago couple, Mr. and Mrs. William J. LaVelle, have been on a fishing trip at Lake of the Woods, Canada. Early one morning, while they were searching for a likely spot for fishing, they came upon a party of Indians going out to thresh wild rice. A number of canoes passed in solemn procession, and as the last one passed, a brave in it raised his kodak and snapped the La Velles' picture.

Carl Sandburg, who lives across the lake in Michigan, has had all his Lincoln material—thousands and thousands of volumes—moved out of his writing room now that his Lincoln saga, of which the volumes of The War Years are the last, is finished. Inconsistency Is Bewildering to the Child

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Here's something children understand, altho not in so many words. It is: Being treated with consistency.

Here's something baffling to children: It's inconsistency. It has no rhyme nor reason. They can't count on you when you're inconsistent in your treatment of them, so they lack that feeling so vital to a young child — stability, security. If you're inconsistent, you're letting them down.

Consistency is a jewel. It surely is, a jewel of the first water in the guiding of children. Consistency is something children understand, while lack of consistency is utterly bewildering to them!

If you say "no" to something today and tomorrow say "yes" to the same thing for no apparent reason, they are completely at a loss. If you allow them to speak rudely to you today without reproof and tomorrow you scold them for it, they are bewildered.

If they are allowed to play and talk and act and sit in certain ways at home, but then if you fly at them or scold them or even spank them for doing the same things in public or at some one's house, they can't make head or tail of it. And you will seem like an unreasonable human being to them. They will either be rather cowed and robbed of initiative for fear they will do something wrong, or they will try to get away with as much as they can. Of the two, the latter probably is the more wholesome altho less convenient behavior.

In either case, inconsistency is something children can't understand. It means that they just don't know which way you're going to jump next.

Consistency, on the contrary, is like a solid rock to children. They know what to expect with a consistent mother and father. They learn one of the most important mental lessons there is, that of cause and effect. They come to recognize that certain things are expected of them and will always lead to certain other things — praise, approval, delight, reproof, or a firm denial.

Bargain Buyers Find Treasures in Relief Shop

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

Chicago bargain hunters found El Dorado yesterday in the shop at 615 North Michigan avenue, where the British War Relief society opened the benefit sale that is to run two weeks. No sooner had the key clicked in the lock than the rush was on.

Within two hours eager women purchasers had swept clean the lingerie, costume jewelry, and clothing room on the second floor, and the excited volunteer sales force had rung up $3,000 on the cash register.

Stocked with valuable gifts donated by business houses and individual Chicagoans, the shop proved a treasure trove to antiquarians. Every collector in town, Frank P. Sheridan declared, was there. Sheridan was one of the busiest salesmen on the second floor. No sooner was a table cleared than Sheridan was darting back from the stockroom, agilely maneuvering thru the crowd with a new supply of merchandise piled on a large lacquer tray—until a determined purchaser spied the tray.

"But, madam, I have to have this. I need it to carry things on," pleaded the distracted salesman.

"Well, you can't have it. It's mine." Madam appeared to be ready for a tug of war. Recollecting that the customer always was right, Sheridan capitulated. The woman got the tray. Sheridan hunted about the stockroom and found a basket. And under the basket was the Zorn etching! The etching, worth $400, and one of the prize pieces of the collection, had been misplaced and Miss Mabel Schamberg, head of the shop committee, had been searching frantically for three days.

Among the first articles to be sold were a $2,000 oriental rug, for which the purchaser paid $295; two handsome gold and crystal lamps donated by Mrs. A. Watson Armour III., which were valued at $1,000 and sold for $350; and a $250 bronze and crystal compote, also given by Mrs. Armour, which went to the purchaser for $50; and David Adler's daybed, worth $450, which brought $117.

The sale is sponsored by Chicago decorators and architects. Lewis Bernays, British consul general here, spoke briefly at the opening.

INSTALMENT VIII.
BLOODY SKIRT.

The next minute, automatic in the pocket of her coat, Rowan was downstairs, warily unlocking the drawing room door.

There, cast adrift on the floor, lay the carving knife, simply abandoned. She stowed it in its proper place, unbarred the big oak door, and slipped forth into the May morning.

"Here I am. Now what have you got to say to me?"

Smedley looked down at Rowan's stained skirt. "You'd better change out of that, hadn't you?"

"O, I will! Fussy, aren't you? Or can't you stand blood?" she demanded, with a sublime ignoring of her own reversed attitude.

He gritted his teeth. "I'm trying to save you. Do you want to show yourself like this to the police?"

She gaped at him, but swiftly he pounced again. "Now's your chance to settle your story, so make the most of it. I've been thinking—as well as I can think with my head spinning Catherine wheels. Listen to me. Did you touch anything in that blasted room?"

"Me? I—I don't think so. Only the curtain when I turned it back."

His lips showed contempt. "I hope for your sake it's true. You couldn't have shunted him onto the sofa; any fool can see you haven't the strength. I suppose you beaned him with a paperweight, he fell back where he is now, and then while he was knocked out you managed the rest of it. Right! What did you do with the knife?"

The greensward whirled round.

"So that's what you're trying to make out! I killed him, did I?" Rowan spluttered. "I slit his throat and——"

"Tell me nothing. Tell no one a damned thing. Only if the weapon's got your prints on it——"

"Weapon!" she gasped, too outraged to deal with it. "I've not seen any weapon. Or at least . . ." O, it was insupportable! "Here, you listen to me. Why should I want to kill a man I'd never in my life set eyes on? Does it make sense, or are you just trying to be funny?"

"I'm not blaming you." His eyes were on hers. "Maybe you can get away with this tale of not knowing him. The point is, he's supposed just recently to have made some sort of attack on a girl. It's an ugly business, and——"

"I knew it!" she cried. "You did know this man."

"Never mind that," Smedley evaded. "Try to understand that with this nasty scandal going about the police will be only too likely to jump to conclusions. You can plead self-defense, of course, but it just occurs to me it may not be necessary. How does this sound? You got here late, the rain started, you never realized there was a shut-off wing."

"I get it. You mean let some one else find the body. You'd prefer that, wouldn't you?"

"Wouldn't you?" He swerved around. "You must see it would ease you out of a pretty putrid mess."

"And you," she flashed. "Convenient for both of us, perhaps."

"Yes!" He spoke with bitter violence. "I'd like to steer clear of this, too. You've holed it in one."

"Clever, aren't I?"

She watched him light a cigaret, trying fiercely to control the shakiness of his fingers. Her barb seemed to have skimmed right over him. Almost she might not have been there. The feeling of being in delirium returned more bewilderingly.

Indeterminately they had begun to wander down the garden. Side by side they mounted the flagged path. When they had climbed to a little elevated platform at the end in the lee of the hillside Rowan spoke again.

"Do you honestly expect me to stick here indefinitely keeping guard over a corpse?"

He frowned. "What's that? See here, there's no indefinite about it. Didn't you say some local woman was coming in to look after you? Obviously she went to the fair. If she doesn't turn up soon you can go out and hunt for her."

"What's to stop me skipping back to London?"

"Common sense," he said dryly. "One person—the man who drove you from the station—knows you've been here. In your own interests, till the body is found, it'll be far wiser to stay."

"I don't want to leave," said Rowan doggedly. "I like this place. It's been lent me, and once that object's cleared away it'll be fine."

His eyes, sweeping the view, turned on the house. He might have been seeing it for the first time.

"By the way, whose house is this? Why did you, an American, come down here by yourself?"

Rowan answered that there was nothing peculiar about it. "It belongs to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fordyce. She's American, he's English—pots of money. They're cruising in the Mediterranean. Mrs. Fordyce, who was my next door neighbor in New York, met me, and told me I could have the place as long as I liked. I did have a girl coming with me, but at the last minute she had to get home. As it was too late to find any one else, and as anyhow I'd been turned out of my room——"

"Turned out?"

"Because of my typewriter. I've brought it down here."

"Typewriter!" Wincing, he fended her off. "Are you going to tell me you're writing a book?"

"Book? No, a thesis for my Ph. D. Medieval economy. I've been swotting it up in the archives of Westminster Abbey; now I've got to get it all down."

She was at a loss to understand the limp relief in his face. Instantly, however, it altered to a new alertness as he fixed his gaze on the distant hedge. Following it, she saw a battered black bonnet of a fashion she had believed extinct bobbing up the drive.

"There you are," said Mr. Smedley curtly. "Your charwoman. Ask her how to get into that wing. I'll cut along uphill and shin down out of sight. I've got to go, anyhow. There's something I want to look into."

"O! Seeing a man about a dog?"

This time he did perceive the sarcasm. "I suppose I do owe you some explanation," he said haltingly. "Of course, if you have to bring me into this I'll come out with the truth, tho I warn you I'll sound damned fishy. That's why——" He stopped.

"Yes?"

"Presently," he mumbled. "Let me settle a certain matter first. The fact is—his mouth tightened—"I've been crocked up. I can't altogether trust my reactions. I came here to be alone and to—to get my nerves into some sort of shape. I can't say it's been a howling success."

"Run along," she bade. "I don't promise anything, but I'll do what I can. Where, by the way, are you staying?"

"Down there." He waved a negligently vague arm over the lower stretches of the valley opposite. "I'm semicamping. The weather's been vile."

"Chapel," he corrected, vaulting up the bank. Squinting back on her, he said abruptly, "Change the skirt before it's spotted. If you'll pitch it over this hedge I'll burn it in my stove."

Numerology By Evelyn Holmes

Sept. 24, 1940.

Universal Day—The passive attitude will get you further today than an aggressive one.

Personal Days—If the universal day is a three day, six day, or nine day, and your personal chart indicates that it is a three day for you, then you can go ahead with the activities which your chart suggests because three, six, and nine are harmonious numbers. Three represents the social and personal expression, while six expresses the maternal and paternal love and service, and nine expresses the humanitarian love and full expression of the talents and personality.

Year Ahead—If this is your birthday the period of marking time is about over, and you can now plan more activity.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

I have just read the story about the 83 little refugees sent to their death at sea by a German U-boat, and I go about the writing of this review with a sick feeling at the pit of my stomach. For, while the "Mystery Sea Raider" isn't a U-boat—it IS the evil mother from which the former draw their sustenance. HOW, the picture will show you. The mother that ruthlessly blasts any ship that would interfere with the projects of her ill starred dependents.

The idea for the story was suggested by the recent case of the American freighter, City of Flint, halted and boarded by the Nazis and given into the charge of a prize crew.

The City of Flint was handed back to its American crew and permitted to return home. The movie ship, a freighter, meets with a different fate. Secured under false pretenses from its owner, Capt. Jimmy Madden, it is camouflaged and turned into a "mother ship" which is to raid the seas, attacking all transports thought to bear oil or foodstuffs, serving as supply station and temporary base—constantly changing position but keeping in close touch with submarines, mine layers, and other craft incapable of carrying large cargoes.

Opening scenes lead up to the torpedoing of a British passenger liner hours after Britain's declaration of war. . . . The steamer's location has been given the enemy by a German agent aboard. . . . He it is who arranges for the corruption of the freighter and captains the sinister crew who—when she is well out at sea—take possession of her.

That brilliant actor, Onslow Stevens, plays the German agent with characteristic skill and restraint. If you saw him in "Those High Grey Walls" you'll probably burst a zipper trying to get to the Oriental in a hurry.

The film was directed with acumen. It makes you shudder and it makes you MAD!

See you tomorrow.

Not all shrimp salads are combinations of the seafood with egg, celery, and pickles or capers. There are many other delicious shrimpy treats of a salad nature, examples of which I am going to provide in recipe form. Fresh cooked, frozen, or canned shrimp may be used to make shrimp salads.

If you are cooking your own shrimp for salad [or for any other seafood dish], wash them and drop into rapidly boiling salted water. Add a bay leaf, a stalk of celery, ¼ teaspoon thyme, and a little parsley to the cooking water. Cook 15 minutes or a little longer, until shells are pink. Drain, chill, and remove shells, legs, and intestinal veins. A pound of fresh shrimp yields two cups, cooked, enough to serve four, usually.

It is rare to find prepared shrimp with the intestinal vein already removed. Usually this operation must be performed by the cook. A sharp paring knife helps a good deal.

If the shrimp are marinated in French dressing or in seasoned lemon juice before they are incorporated into salads the flavor will be improved.

SOME SHRIMP SALADS.

1. Shrimp, grapefruit and cucumber salad. Combine whole shrimp [cut them in halves by splitting them, if they are large] with grapefruit sections, chopped celery, and diced crisp cucumber in any preferred proportions. It is better to have the seafood predominate in quantity. A little chopped pimiento may be added. Blend with mayonnaise or thousand island dressing.

2. Celery stuffed with shrimp and grapefruit salad. Mince the shrimp and combine with mashed cream cheese and a little mayonnaise or thousand island dressing. Season well with salt and paprika, a little cayenne, too, if desired. Stuff crisp celery with the mixture. Cut the celery into short lengths and arrange on lettuce with grapefruit sections. Add French dressing.

3. Shrimp and apple salad. Combine whole or chopped shrimp with sliced apple and cut celery or sliced crisp cucumber. A few raisins may be added if desired. Moisten with mayonnaise or a well seasoned cooked dressing.

4. Shrimp and chicory salad. Combine shrimp with shredded chicory and sliced stuffed olives. Use mayonnaise or thousand island dressing. It's best to marinate the shrimp for an hour in French dressing before combining them.

5. Shrimp and avocado salad. Marinate the shrimp in tart French dressing for an hour. Sprinkle peeled avocado halves with salt and lemon juice. Fill with whole chipped shrimp and top with mayonnaise. Or mix seafood with mayonnaise before filling avocado half. Serve on watercress or other greens. This is a hearty salad, suitable for the main course of a luncheon.

6. Shrimp, avocado, and orange. Whole shrimp, slices of avocado and orange sections may be arranged attractively on a bed of greens, to be dressed with mayonnaise or French dressing. A little minced onion in the dressing doesn't come amiss.

7. Shrimp, tomato, and pineapple salad. Arrange whole marinated shrimp with wedges of peeled fresh tomato and chunks of pineapple on lettuce or other greens, and add mayonnaise or French dressing.

Benefit Bridge Tea.

Mrs. Arthur S. Barrows of 123 Melrose avenue, Kenilworth, will open her home tomorrow afternoon for the annual benefit bridge tea of the North Shore Oberlin Women's club. Mrs. Frederick E. Smith of 1426 Forest avenue, Evanston, is ticket chairman.

ENGAGEMENT

William C. Thompson of Princeton avenue announces the engagement of his daughter, Miss Helen Louise Cunningham, to Alexander Duncan Forbes III., son of the late Walter A Forbes and Mrs. Forbes of Rockford, Ill. Miss Cunningham and Mr. Forbes are both living in Rockford, where she is with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Parr. Mr. Forbes is a graduate of the University of Miami, at Coral Gables, Fla.

Four Jerkins and a Hat

MISS' JERKIN AND HAT PATTERN.

To dress up a last year's frock there's nothing quite like a jerkin, especially if you're very young and do a lot of skiing and indulge in other winter outdoor sports. If you're campus minded, jerkins are in order, too. Today's pattern offers four versions of the mode, all of which are illustrated. A variety of fabrics is allowed, and checks are running mates in popularity with plain colors. The hat pattern included is a "beanie" with a rakish feather, the ideal topper for casual sports clothes.

Style No. 2500 is designed for sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires 1⅛ yards of 35 inch material, or ¾ yard of 54 inch fabric for any version; ⅝ yard of 39 inch or ¼ yard of 54 inch for hat.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Looking at Hollywood
By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 23.—Now that the Warners have given Thomas Mitchell a three-picture deal, I wonder if he will have a chance to sober up. On the screen, I mean, for off-stage Thomas is a long shot from being the town drunk. Look at his recent record: As Gerald O'Hara in "Gone with the Wind" he was a drinkin' man. In "Stagecoach" he was a stew doctor. He's likkered up in Ben Hecht's forthcoming "Angels Over Broadway," and in the still-due Eugene O'Neill-John Ford-Walter Wanger "The Long Voyage Home" he is a roistering sailor man. And he has a three day beard in most of 'em. His first Warner assignment will be in "Trial and Error."

You know how you're apt to pay no attention to things right under your nose? Well, I've been going to Grauman's Chinese theater to catch previews and have never stopped to goggle at the sidewalk footprints, handprints and autographs in the concrete forecourt. Here is one of the best and most enduring publicity stunts ever thought up, and I felt kind of ashamed of myself the other day for never having noticed it. So I went.

Best time to go is in the morning before the theater opens, because then there's plenty of time to look without being jostled by people on their way in to see a mere movie. The various imprints are in squares and oddly shaped slabs of cement, some of which are faintly colored. The newest one, John Barrymore's profile, is no likeness whatever. If the name weren't scratched alongside you'd think it was Mickey Rooney.

The footprints are a study in stances, and it's interesting to watch girls off the rubberneck buses furtively planting their tootsies in the imprints of a star to see if they fit. Gloria Swanson's tiny, high-heeled tracks seem to be the smallest of any grownup's, and Shirley Temple's bare feet smallest of all. Norma Shearer's stance is a spread-toed one, but Sonja Henie's is straight. . . . Most of the gawkers off the buses are young girls in slacks.

The major Hollywood studios are in strenuous competition to buy films made in South America so that they can release them under their own banners.

Enrest Romero, former Mexican vice consul and for 13 years an unofficial liaison man between Hollywood and the Latin American countries, has just finished a survey for Twentieth Century-Fox. He finds that, this year, Mexico will produce 24 pictures, Argentina 20, and Cuba 6. Brazil and Peru are starting production but their output will be negligible until next year.

All but the poorest of these films will be bought by Hollywood. Why? Because South American theater men want one Spanish film for every six or seven features in English, and if Hollywood can provide them it will keep its customers happy.

The first sob-sister—the first feminine reporter—will be fêted tomorrow at a luncheon of the Hollywood Women's Press club. The guest of honor is Lenchen, homing pigeon used to carry messages in "A Dispatch from Reuters." . . . Hollywood is the happy hunting ground of the automobile tinkerer. Kids "hop-up" ancient jalopies [the first move seems to be to remove the front fenders, the second never to travel with fewer than six youths in a car] and get in trouble with the cops. Able designers turn new stock cars into something what they ain't, sure of a sale to somebody in the picture colony. I saw, for instance, a beautiful job the other day. A designer had taken a Ford chassis, a Mercury engine and then gone to town. The result was a narrow nosed, streamlined roadster with bright red fenders and hood and a body covered with airplane luggage linen. Set in the top of the nose was a spotlight which could be maneuvered by a handle on the instrument board. The designer was showing it to a group of actors, and one of them took it for a spin. "Go over to Warner's," I shouted, "and see how many babes it attracts.' "That car," guaranteed the man who built it, "has the fastest pickup in town." Price, $3,500.

Stores Show Women Way to Brighten Home

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

National Furniture week is well under way. Every day, including Saturday, loop and outlying furniture and department stores and music shops are exhibiting new fall and winter home furnishings merchandise to which the public is invited.

Because women like to see just how chairs and tables, lamps and pictures, rugs and draperies and wallpaper will look in their own homes most dealers have equipped series of rooms as well as entire model houses and we know of no easier, pleasanter way of culling a lot of clever new ideas on interior decoration than observing these set-ups.

You'll be amazed at the number of new fabrics, colors and combinations now available. And at the American mind, always intent on labor saving devices and improvements.

There's the new attachment for your piano, for example, that adds a flutelike obligato to anything you're playing. You simply press down the keys of this small additional keyboard which fastens to any piano, no matter what its type, and you create a musical solo which accompanies the regular melody. You can produce many combinations bringing you voices resembling trombone, trumpet, flute, cello, violin and many more tones. And all this on your old piano!

New pianos are noteworthy for their excellent period styling and for their finishes. One small, modern upright of a famous make is as beautiful as it is simple in line, having a soft, beige finish with a very slight pink cast, in mahogany.

Another type, a handsome 1940 version of the square piano, is in dark mahogany with fine carving and inlay work in Regency style. It's novel feature is an open bookcase set into the back, making it possible to place this piano at right angles to the wall of your living room.

So eager is one outlying furniture store to aid its customers in creating pleasing color schemes for the home that it has on view two huge bulletin boards, each carrying six complete room schemes. That is, there are 12 different suggestions, each one made up of floor coverings, wall colors or wall paper, draperies and curtains and upholstery fabrics. Among this dozen the chances are strong that you'll find one or more that satisfies your taste.

We have yet to come across the furniture or department store that is not equipped to give expert advisory service to its customers. Skilled consultants will gladly help the woman customer work out color schemes and assist her in selecting all the items for her home. And that's extremely valuable to any amateur decorator.

The well equipped kitchen is also on exhibition. And these workshops are nothing if not gay. Favorite color schemes are scarlet, white, and black; red, white, and blue; geranium red, green, and white; buttercup yellow and Swedish blue, and yellow, blue, and gray.

The young bride who is given a set of new cooking utensils we saw in one houseware department is going to have decorative as well as highly useful articles for all the pots and pans have copper bottoms, stainless steel sides and covers, and special "pistol grip" black bakelite handles. This is the best looking and most efficient merchandise of its kind we've seen for a long time.

In electrical appliances there are those amazing toasters that do everything but butter your toast for you. And one fall model we came across is accomodating enough to make Melba toast for the gal who's reducing!

Electric roasters, too, seem just about human. Timer clocks turn the current off while you're at your bridge club, so your roast will be done to a turn; you can bake two pies in this roaster, and there's a tray, too, that locks over its broiler for pan frying. This model is large enough, we're told, to cook a 20 pound turkey.

National Furniture week retail store displays are arranged to show you all the newest household helps, so take a look at the housewares departments when you are visiting the other home furnishings sections.

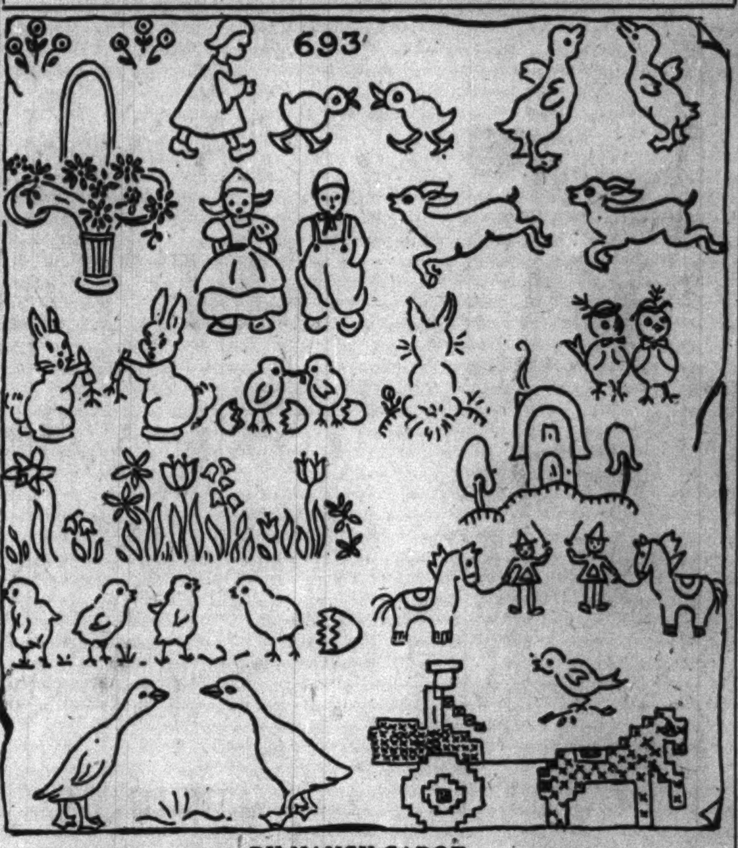
Two Dozen Transfer Motifs



BY NANCY CABOT.

Here is a hot iron transfer group which contains two dozen motifs averaging three by four inches. These figures are ideal for towels, bibs for children, pockets, nursery items and any of two dozen more pieces to which embroidery may be applied. There is a detailed chart containing illustration of stitches and complete instructions.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of the 24 embroidery motifs, No. 693, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

As announced yesterday the 1940 national self-rating bridge examination will start in this column on Monday, Sept. 30.

Last year it was thought best to forgo a bridge exam. Judging from the thousands of letters I have received it was not a popular decision. The tenor of these letters is that with half the world mad and the other half jittery there is all the greater need for such "escape" activities as bridge and, more specifically, bridge problems.

For the benefit of readers who missed yesterday's column I shall restate the condition of this examination.

Each week day, beginning Sept. 30 and continuing for five weeks, one or two questions on bidding or play will appear in this column. Exactly one week later the question will be restated and the official answer given.

Each examinee begins with 1,000 points. If he answers a question incorrectly he will be told exactly how many points to deduct from that 1,000. Some "tough" questions will carry credits rather than demerits, that is, the contestant who "flunks" these questions will not lose any points, but those who answer correctly will add a given number of points to their running total.

Obviously it is easy for a contestant to keep his own score. But, as in past years, many probably will prefer to have their answers rated by me. This they can do, without charge by mailing me their answers once a week. If you wish to take advantage of this offer hold each week's answers to the Saturday or Sunday at the end of each week, then put all answers in one envelope [being sure to mark each answer according to the question number] and mail the envelope to Ely Culbertson, care of this paper. The envelope containing the week's answers must be postmarked before 5 p. m. on Sunday.

Readers who send in their answers and who come out with a high rating entitling them to the rank of master, expert, or advanced player, will be sent a certificate signed by myself, testifying that they have attained the given rank in this 1940 examination. This also, of course, will be entirely free of charge.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	Pass	3 diamonds	3 spades
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the spade seven, East overtaking with the eight. Declarer won with the queen and immediately knocked out the diamond ace. West returned his four of spades, and from that point on declarer never could get the ninth trick. He ran off the diamonds all right, but the moment he led a club East hopped up with the ace and cashed enough spade tricks to defeat the contract.

Declarer should have realized that even with two spade tricks he still would have to knock out the aces of both minor suits to round out his contract. Actually he could afford to win the first spade led if he then made the beautiful guess of knocking out the club ace before the diamond ace. This, however, would have amounted to second sight. The correct way to play the hand was to avoid any guess. To that end declarer should have ducked on the opening lead, cheerfully conceding the first trick to East. Now, if East continued spades, declarer would, of course, finesse and attack either clubs or diamonds. If he made the normal choice to establish diamonds first, West would have no spade to lead back to his partner; if the club suit were attacked East would gain the lead and be able to clear his spade suit, but never again could gain the lead in order to run that suit.

SEMI-ANTIQUE ORIENTAL RUGS

BELOW THEIR PRICE IF PERFECT

Orientals are the toughest rugs ever woven. Yet store use for a few years equals lifetime use in the home. Under the pound of hundreds of feet daily they will eventually show signs of wear. A group of such rugs and others gathered by dealers in this country and abroad have been assembled and marked fantastically below their original prices. All are 25% below usual, some are in excess of 50%! Come in and see the values for yourself; not all are listed. And, remember, early comers have the prize selection.

CARDINALS TEST BEARS' POWER TOMORROW

TIGERS AND INDIANS BATTLE JINX OPPONENTS TODAY

Rigney Also Ready for Leaders.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 23.—Jim Dykes and his happy little White Sox band are going to jab their fingers into the American league pennant pie tomorrow and Wednesday. And the Tigers, pacing the race with a full game lead as the result of two victories in three battles with the pursuing Cleveland Indians, aren't at all happy over the fact that Dykes and his boys are in town. Their concern is justified. The Sox have whipped them 10 times in their last 11 meetings.

Jimmy Dykes.

Just to make certain the Tigers wouldn't enjoy today's leisure, Mr. Dykes passed out warnings, as soon as he arrived this morning from St. Louis, that he is loaded for bear. At least he thinks he's loaded.

Lee and Rigney Ready.

"I have Thornton Lee and Johnny Rigney ready for the two games here and I don't know of a better pair for the occasion," boasted the Sox's boss. "What's more I have a few other guys like Ed Smith and Bill Dietrich and I'll not hesitate to shoot them in there too, if necessary. After all I gotta keep 'em in trim for the city series."

Dykes' keen desire to give the Tigers a little more abuse isn't exactly because he doesn't like them. In fact he probably would prefer to have the pennant flown here instead of in Cleveland. But there is the matter of the first division to keep in mind. Right now the Sox seem to have a secure hold on fourth place, which carries with it a limited portion of the world series purse. But another losing streak might be sufficient to bounce them right back into the second division. And a winning streak might get them into third place, which carries with it a better percentage of the world series loot.

Webb Sent Home.

An unhappy note sounded in the Sox camp today when Jimmy Webb conceded that it would be wise for him to hurry back to Chicago. He has been ailing for several days, but by this morning his misery, thought to be a touch of intestinal flu, had taken a turn for the worse. He was sent back this noon. That means either Rookie Don Kolloway, recently called in from Oklahoma City, or Jack Hayes will be forced to take over second base in the two games here and possibly in the three at Chicago with the Browns this week-end.

The Tigers will entrust their pitching tomorrow to Bobo Newsom and probably to Lloyd Giebel on Wednesday. The latter made his debut here last week with an easy victory over the Athletics. This arrangement will keep Schoolboy Rowe intact for the all-important opener at Cleveland Friday. Tommy Bridges probably will pitch the second game of that pennant deciding series and Newsom the last on Sunday.

If — — — —

The Tigers must win three of their remaining five games to assure themselves a tie for the American league pennant. The race is that close—and it could be a triple deadlock.

If the Tigers beat the Sox today and tomorrow, they could lose two of their remaining three games to the second place Indians and get a tie. The Indians, by taking two from the Browns and two from the Tigers, could gain a tie. The Yankees could make it a three-way deadlock by capturing all their remaining eight games. In this event, the final standings would be:

INDIANS ARE GLAD TO BE HOME; MEET BROWNS TODAY

Detroit Fruit Throwers Test Team's Nerves.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Sept. 23.—The Cleveland Indians, back home, rested today—and gosh how they welcomed it. They were so tired they didn't even think up a new insurrection. Recently some of the Cleveland fans haven't been so gushingly friendly with their Indians. Nevertheless, the lads were happy to be back at this quaint Lake Erie port, for they at least were out of range of those outstanding heels of the baseball world, the Detroit fans who throw their fruit, instead of eating it as good monkeys do.

Popping into this town more or less fresh from calmer sectors, it is not for us to write any new thoughts about the personal charm or lack of it as regards the Indians. But the idea of a garbage throwing Detroit fan trying to deride the sportsmanship of the Indians, or anybody, is listed as item one in our pain in the neck book. Ever since the Medwick incident in the 1934 world series, the right of a certain proportion of Detroit's fans to the title of all-America bum sports never has been challenged. They won this title not because they picked on Joe Medwick, who is no prize himself. The significant thing was that the Detroit fans had their fruit with them and Medwick simply happened to be the one who gave them a chance to throw it.

Allen or Harder vs. Auker.

So it was nice the Indians could get out of Detroit to gird for the remaining five games of their American league schedule, all of which will be played here in the very large Municipal stadium.

As you may have heard, the first of the Indians' remaining five scheduled game, will be played tomorrow against the recently hot St. Louis Browns, who, hot or cold, have been able to beat the Indians 10 times in 20 chances this year. Elden Auker, who was brought to the majors by the Tigers and was with the Detroiters in the world series of 1934 and 1935, is scheduled to pitch for the Brownies. Manager Oscar Vitt, who doesn't like to be too determined about anything these days, has told Johny Allen and Mel Harder that they can decide which of the two is to pitch against Auker, the other to pitch against Vern Kennedy, also a former Tiger, in Wednesday's Brownie-Indian match.

If Allen and Harder can beat Auker and Kennedy, the Indians, of course, will receive the Tigers for the final three regular games of the season here no worse than a game out of the lead. This without relying on the White Sox, in Detroit, to prolong their eight game winning streak in competition with the Tigers.

It is patent that the mathematics of the Browns-Indians and the Tiger-Sox impending two game series can bring the Indians into the series with the Tigers here Friday a game out of first place as per their status right now, or tied with the Tigers; or one game ahead of the Detroiters; or, three games behind them. In any event the series here can be for the pennant for, even if the Tigers beat the White Sox twice and the Browns beat the Indians twice, the Indians still could tie the Tigers by taking the three games scheduled and go into a one-game playoff, the site of which would be determined by lot. Is this all clear? If not we'll go over it with you again. Or maybe we might as well wait until after tomorrow afternoon's business.

Feller to Face Tigers.

Bob Feller is to pitch against the Tigers Friday, and with more rest than he's had between two games this season—four full days of arm relaxation no matter what nervous strain he may have been under while watching his mates. Four days should be a lot of rest for a young gent who has won three and lost one in the last eight days.

Saturday's pitcher hasn't been named, tho he probably will be a lefty, Al Smith or Al Milnar.

Jim Works for a New Cause

Jim Thorpe Is Back; Pleads Indian Cause

BY ED PRELL.

The announcement that Jim Thorpe will invade the campus of Lehigh university in Bethlehem, Pa., on Oct. 2 will cause no shivers of fear among dear old Lehigh's athletic adherents. Now, if you could turn back the calendar some 30 years it might be a different story.

Lehigh was one of the teams that helped Jim Thorpe to football immortality when, while playing for the Carlisle Indians, he was making touchdowns, kicking field goals and raising ned in general on the nation's gridirons.

Thorpe, now 52 years old and straight as an arrow, but with a generous bulge at his once trim waistline, drove into Chicago last night from his native Oklahoma and told of his new career. Jim Thorpe is going to be a lecturer. He will make his debut at Lehigh, where his name still is more than a shady memory.

Old Jim will not want for subjects. Last night, as he worked himself up into a verbal fervor, he let it be known his main objective is to help all Indians gain citizenship automatically. Jim prefers to call himself a red man.

"When Columbus discovered this country he thought he was in India," Jim declared. "So he called the natives Indians."

Natives, Yet They Must Seek Citizenship.

Thorpe cannot see the justice of Indians having to apply for citizenship in a country in which they are natives. He feels so intensely about this topic that it is a difficult matter to swerve his thoughts into athletics. There is pending in congress a bill providing for the elimination of federal supervision over Indians, which also includes final settlement of Indian claims against the country. In short, old Jim thinks the Indian should have the same privileges of other Americans.

So he will talk about this when he faces college, high school, and club audiences, but he will not forget to sketch the story of his athletic career.

Thorpe ended his athletic career in 1933. His last venture was the Oklahoma Indians, a traveling baseball club, which played in Chicago. Old Jim, of course, was known to Chicago baseball fans back before the war when he was with the Giants and Braves. Thorpe never approached

IOWA IMPROVED IN 8 POSITIONS, COACH CONTENDS

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 23.—"Iowa's football team is eight-elevenths better than last year."

This is Dr. Eddie Anderson's description of the Hawkeyes' chances in the coming Western conference race, in which not even Iowa's most ardent supporter will predict that Iowa again will finish second.

If Coach Anderson's statement that Iowa will be "eight-elevenths" better could be taken literally, then Iowa might expect another miracle team. But Anderson means, of course, that Iowa's varsity will be better in eight of the eleven positions. The other three are question marks.

A Tribute to 1939 Trio.

To say that the strength of the first team will be determined by replacements at the ends and at left half back is not disparaging the boys who are seeking to fill these positions. Rather, it is a tribute to last year's seniors, Nile Kinnick, Erwin Prasse, and Dick Evans. Kinnick was the player of the year. He not only threw touchdown passes, he steadied the team, and he was an invaluable runner and kicker. Prasse and Evans were swift, surehanded pass receivers, sturdy defense men.

"I know Iowa will be stronger except for these positions," Anderson reiterated. "Iowa can be better and lose, however. Kinnick had poise. He was a fine all around performer. The team depended on him and had the belief that somehow they'd come thru with a victory with Nile leading the way.

"Last year's team had more poise than any college team I've ever seen," Anderson continued. "I believe that the veterans will maintain their poise and calmness. Capt. Mike Enich and Al Couppee should help carry on.

Passers Need Experience.

"We hope to have fair kicking. Our passing might be good mechanically, but it is certain that in knowing when to pass and when to take a loss behind the line of scrimmage the new men cannot match Kinnick's record. These boys must acquire experience.

"Iowa will have average speed as a unit. Our ends will be slower, the guards fair. The line as a whole will be above average, for Jim Walker

CUBS ROUT CARDS, 10 TO 0; PASSEAU CAPTURES 20TH

Pitcher and Three Mates Hit Home Runs.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Claude Passeau yesterday became the Chicago Cubs' leading pitcher of the 1940 season when he handcuffed the rambunctious St. Louis Cardinals for his 20th victory, 10 to 0, before a crowd of 1,843 at Wrigley field.

While Claude was being down-right parsimonious by surrendering only four hits to the same gents who collected 26 safeties off three Bruin hurlers in Sunday's double header, two Cub alumni were proving how generous they could be with the home run ball. Most liberal of these was Clyde [Lefty] Shoun, who dished up three for the circuit. Newell Kimball, who relieved Shoun after the latter had given up six runs and six hits in three innings, displayed his generosity in the sixth, where-in the Cubs picked up their final four runs.

The authors of the Chicago homers, in the order in which they spanked them out, were Switch Hitter Jim Gleeson, who collected his fifth smash for the route by hitting one right handed; Passeau himself, who started the five run Cub third with his first homer of the year; Glen Russell, who got his second in two days and his sixth of the year, and Bill Nicholson, the Cubs' leading distance slugger, who came thru with his 25th round trip hit with two on in the sixth.

Holds Cards Hitless Until 6th.

The victory not only was Passeau's 20th, but also stood as his fourth shutout. For five and two thirds innings, he hurled hitless ball, and two of the four he yielded were of the scratch variety. In addition, he struck out five and was charged with only one walk.

The triumph, however, made no impression on the three game gap between the fourth place Pirates and the Cubs. The Pirates come to Wrigley Field this afternoon to open a three game series.

Gleeson's Homer First Run.

The Cardinals got only one man on base and only one ball out of the infield in the same three innings that saw the Cubs take their 6 to 0 lead. With two out in the first, Slaughter reached first on Warstler's fumble, and in the third Owen smashed a drive to left center on which Gleeson made a neat running catch. Beyond these the Cub infield and Passeau's strikeout ball disposed of the visitors.

Gleeson's home run smash with one out in the second inning landed in the left field bleachers.

Which I can't find in any lexicon;
He wants me to block out every play,
Six men, as if I were a hexagon;
He tells me, "Hit 'em low and knock 'em high!
And don't fail to outcharge the other line."
He doesn't seem to know the other guy
Has arms and legs and backbone just like mine.

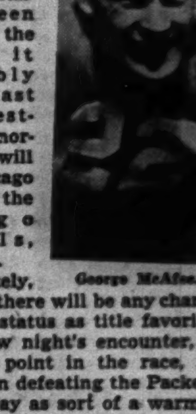
CHICAGO RIVALS AWAIT CALL TO NIGHT BATTLE

Rout of Green Bay Cheers Halas.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

The National Football league championship race will be resumed in Comiskey park tomorrow night and will continue thru Dec. 1, as originally scheduled, despite events that transpired in Green Bay over the week-end, it was reliably reported last night. Contestants in tomorrow's game will be the Chicago Bears and the Chicago Cardinals, both unbeaten.



George McAfee.

It is not likely, however, that there will be any change in the Bears' status as title favorites after tomorrow night's encounter, or at any other point in the race, for that matter. In defeating the Packers, 41 to 10, Sunday as sort of a warmup for the Cardinal engagement, the Bears gave evidence of developing into one of the finest teams in the history of professional football.

Salvaging the best parts of a real good veteran outfit last year, Coach George Halas has put together a team well sprinkled with rookies who give the Bears greater speed than recent Halas elevens. In George McAfee of Duke, Halas has come up with a game breaker whose ninety-three yard return of a kickoff and forty-four yard run from scrimmage are likely to become rather regular occurrences. Harry Clark, another rookie half, who starred at West Virginia, greatly strengthened the Bear back field, which wasn't exactly a helpless unit last fall.

It's a Dream Back Field.

Coupling these fleet, cagy ball carriers with Ray Nolting, another speed merchant, and Sid Luckman, the Bears have one of the best matched back field combinations in the league. Luckman's work in the Green Bay game was outstanding.

The Cardinals, who were represented at Green Bay by Coaches Jim Conzelman and Chili Walsh, and several players, learned a lot of things Sunday that should come in handy tomorrow night. Among them is the fallacy of running a play at Joe Stydahar on third down with one yard to go. Arnie Herber tried it, among several other foolish things, and while is was not the turning point in the game it went a long way toward making things easy for the Bears. After reaching the Bears' 14 yard line and needing only three feet to keep alive a march of 37 yards, Herber sent Larry Buhler at Stydahar, probably the best left tackle in football. Stydahar piled up Buhler and his interference for a three yard loss and Green Bay had to be content with a field goal instead of the first touchdown of the game.

Turning Point in 3d Quarter.

The turning point came early in the third period. Green Bay had just scored its touchdown and trailed only 21 to 10, despite runbacks of kickoffs by Nolting and McAfee for touchdowns. Starting out on its 20 yard line after an exchange of punts Green Bay advanced fifty-nine yards in five plays. The last three plays in this series were a fifteen yard smash at the Bears' right tackle by Clark Hinkle, a twenty yard run by Hal Van Every around end and a five yard gain at right tackle by Hinkle.

This placed the ball on the 15 yard line. With the right side of the Bears' line vulnerable, as it was all afternoon without Lee Artoe at tackle, and Hinkle red hot, Herber went to the air. He lost thirteen yards when Carl Mulleneaux forgot his assignment on an attempted pass and fumbled twelve yards farther back trying another. The Bears recovered and Green Bay was thru for the day.

FAVORITE FAILS AS VALDINA GOLD WINS AT 7 TO 1

Potranco, 3 to 5, Is 2d in Nugent Purse.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Hawthorne race fans yesterday concentrated on one question, "Who's going to beat Potranco?" This consistent 3 year old gelding, owned by the Lexbrook stable, was running in the Elliott Nugent purse, a six furlong dash which drew a field of eight good sprinters. Most of those present could find no answer to the question, so they backed Potranco down to 3 to 5 odds. After all, he had beaten Roman, and had been worse than second only once since last May.

The flaw in the calculations developed when Potranco was second again yesterday. Valdina Gold, a 3 year old filly carrying the Valdina Farm colors of Emerson F. Woodward, combined her speed with the riding ability of Bill Thompson, leading jockey of the meeting. The result was the overthrow of the favorite and a victory for the Valdina filly at odds of better than 7 to 1.

Equistar Finishes Third.

Valdina Gold came charging up on the outside in the stretch, took the lead in the last furlong, and got home half a length in advance of Potranco. Mrs. Emil Denemark's Equistar was third.

The winner ran the 6 furlongs in 1:11 4-5, which was sharp time for a 3 year old filly. She rewarded her backers at $17.20 to win. Due to the fact that the 3 to 5 favorite had run second, there was a sharp markdown on her place and show prices, these being $5.60 and $3.00.

The crowd had shown such confidence in Potranco that the second choice, Equistar, was better than 7 to 1, a few points under Valdina Gold. Equistar already had won twice at the Hawthorne meeting and many believed that the Denemark stable was due to get back into stride after a slump during the last week. Valdina Gold had shown considerable speed in winning two races at Washington Park, but had been unable to get into the money in her last two starts.

Rides Three Winners.

Thompson's victory on Valdina Gold was the high point in a brilliant day for the young apprentice. In the preceding race he had brought in Ceaseless, the 6 to 5 favorite, and in the seventh event he made it three consecutive victories by bringing in the even money choice, Petesar. Petesar's success broke the string of hard luck which had dogged the Denemark organization after it had run up a remarkable succession of 11 winners in the earlier days of the meeting.

In the main event, Equistar went out as tho he were going to make a runaway of it. He opened up a lead of several lengths on the dash to the far turn while One Witch and Potranco hurried along in pursuit. Valdina Gold remained in fourth position, within reach of her rivals, during the swing around the bend.

Approaching the stretch, Potranco conquered One Witch and went after Equistar. Valdina Gold moved up powerfully, too. Equistar tired gradually during the stretch run and the race developed into a battle between Valdina Gold and Potranco. In the last furlong, Valdina Gold took command and outstayed Potranco in the rush to the wire.

Harrison Gets 202 to Capture Illinois P. G. A.

E. J. [Dutch] Harrison of Chicago won the 18th annual Illinois P. G. A. tournament yesterday afternoon at the St. Charles Country club. The former Oak Park professional toured the last 18 holes in 32—32—64 for a 54 hole total of 202, which was 14 under par.

Harrison finished five strokes better than Ky Laffoon of Chicago, who assembled rounds of 70—68—69—207, and placed second among the 50 Illinois professionals. Harrison received $250 for first place while Laffoon was awarded $150.

Metz Finishes Third.

Dick Metz, Oak Park's senior pro and defending champion, finished third with 73—72—63—208. Willie Goggin of Chicago was fourth with rounds of 69—68—69—209. Metz's 63 set a course record.

Lloyd Mangrum, second professional at Oak Park who paced the field with 35—34—69 in the first round, tacked a 71 in the morning to his afternoon 70 for a total of 210 and tied the mark of Tommy Armour, of Medinah, who was the lowest scorer at 36 holes with 70—67—137. Armour missed several putts on the front nine of the final round to finish with 38—35—73. They divided fourth and fifth prize money of $135.

Three Tie at 212.

Three players were tied in the 212 bracket. They were Jim Foulis of Ruth Lake, 72—68—72—212; Johnny Revolta of Evanston, three times winner of this event, 71—69—72—212; and the youthful Herman Scharlau, Sandy Armour's aid at Bloomington, 71—72—69—212. Scharlau, an ex-caddy at Medinah, annexed $50 of the winnings for the lowest score among the assistants. Herb Johnson of Butterfield, 74—69—71—214, was second in that division.

Leading scores:

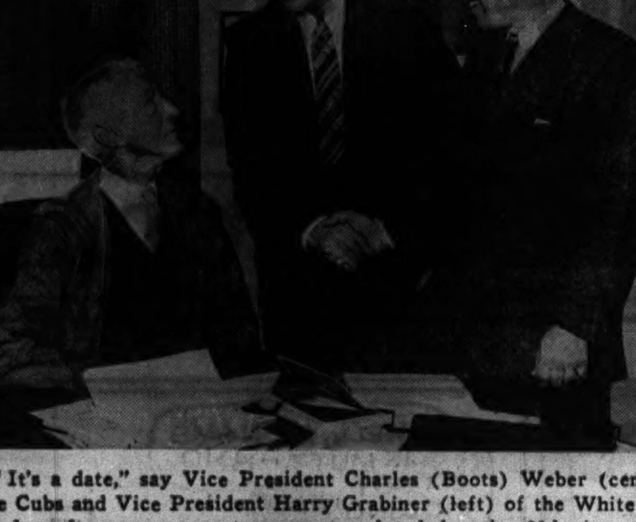
Making the City Series Official



"It's a date," say Vice President Charles (Boots) Weber (center) of the Cubs and Vice President Harry Grabiner (left) of the White Sox yesterday after arrangements were completed for the 23d city series between the rivals. K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner, looks on. Play will open Oct. 1, a day in advance of the world series. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

SOX-CUB SERIES TO OPEN OCT. 1 IN WRIGLEY FIELD

Chicago's perennial civic baseball war—the 23d city series between the White Sox and the Cubs—will open in Wrigley field at 1:30 o'clock, Oct. 1, which is a week from today. The second game of the best four out of seven feud will be played on the same premises at the same hour on Oct. 2.

The first game in Comiskey park, the Sox bailiwick, will be played the night of Oct. 3, beginning at 8:15 o'clock. The fourth game of the series will be an afternoon one in Comiskey park, on Oct. 4, and if a fifth game is necessary, it also will be a night game, to be played on Oct. 5 in Comiskey park. If a sixth and seventh game are necessary, they will be played as afternoon contests in Wrigley field on Oct. 6 and 7.

Dean Is Ineligible.

The above dates and sites were announced yesterday following a meeting in the offices of Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis. Present were Commissioner Landis, Harry Grabiner, vice president of the Sox, and Charles A. [Boots] Weber, vice president of the Cubs.

The celebrated Dizzy Dean is not eligible for the civil warfare. He returned to the Cubs from Tulsa after Aug. 31, which is the deadline for eligibility in post-season competitions, such as the world or city series. Likewise, Don Kolloway, second baseman, and Dave Short, outfielder, joined the Sox too late to be listed.

Ticket sales will open Thursday, all tickets for Cub games being sold at Wrigley field, at Spalding's, and thru Western Union, and those for the Sox games at Comiskey park and the Hub.

List Eligibles for Series.

The Cub eligibles:

Jim Thorpe Is Back; Pleads Indians' Cause

his football greatness in baseball. He failed, most every one agreed, because he couldn't hit curve ball pitching. He doesn't subscribe to that theory.

"John McGraw was a great manager," the Indian declared. "But he insisted on doing most of your thinking. I believe this interfered with my baseball ability. Under McGraw, you couldn't let yourself go completely on your own."

Thorpe was one of the pioneers of professional football and its tremendous growth has not surprised him. He headed the Canton [Ohio] Bulldogs in the old National league.

Football Amateurs Play Pros? Heaven Forbid!

"Pop Warner, my old coach at Carlisle, was at the University of Pittsburgh when I had the Canton club," Old Jim reminisced. "So I sent him a challenge for a postseason game for charity. And what do you think he said? He said, 'O, no; we're amateurs and you're supposed to be professionals!' It makes me feel good that THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE has been able to bring amateur and professional football together in the All-Star game."

And then he returned to the thought that is uppermost in his mind—full rights for his people.

He visited with friends last night at 7253 Merrill avenue. This morning he will head east for a final dress rehearsal of his new calling.

FENELON WINS REALIZATION BY TWO LENGTHS

New York, Sept. 23 (AP).—William Woodward's Fenelon, one of the most consistent 3 year olds, today won the 48th Lawrence Realization, defeating four others of his age over a mile and five-eighths before 11,673 at the opening of Belmont Park's fall meeting.

Fenelon, either first or second in seven of his nine previous races this year, took the lead soon after the start and never was headed. He finished two lengths ahead of Mrs. George D. Widener's odds on favorite, Your Chance.

The Queen Was in the Parlor.
"The queen was in the parlor
Eating bread and honey,
The king was in the counting house,
Counting out his money";
But that was in a far-off age
Of grace and airy leisure,
A day of mingled work and play,
Good-natured fun and pleasure.

But with dire threats and terrors
Falling like autumn rain
Within the gates of Buckingham,
Foreboding grief and pain,
The queen's not in the parlor,
She has no wish for honey;
The king's not in the counting house,
For, these times, what is money?

The king and queen are not apart,
But standing there together,
Shoulder to shoulder, arm in arm,
Braving this perilous weather—
No longer king and queen are they,
But husband and wife so dear,
Displaying to all that the bond of love
Is shield against any fear!
—Jazbo of Old Dubuque.

BEES BEATEN, 6-2; THEN THEY BLANK PHILLIES, 8 TO 0

A Rookie Yields 3 Hits in Second Game.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 23 (AP).—Ben Warren gave the Phillies an even spit with the Bees today when he belted Manuel Salvo for a pair of home runs in the opener, which the visitors gained 6 to 2, behind Johnny Podgajny's six hit pitching. In the finale, Tom Earley limited the Phillies to three hits while hurling the Bees to an 8 to 0 shutout.

into the left field seats to open the Cub third. Hack then drew a walk and moved to third on Warstler's double. Both scored on Nicholson's single to center, and Bill preceded Russell home on the latter's home run into the left field bleachers, his second of the series.

Cards Finally Get a Hit.

The Cardinals chose the sixth to break up any no-hit dreams Passeau might have entertained. After Owen had flied to Dallessandro against the left field wall and Kimball was called out on strikes, Brown got a hit to Mattick and Moore beat out one to Warstler. The latter threw out Slaughter to end the inning.

The Cubs then found out in their half of the sixth that Kimball also could serve up a home run ball. McCullough walked and went to third on a hit and run drive thru short by Mattick. Passeau walked to fill the bases. Hack flied to Martin, and Warstler's long fly to right center scored McCullough after the catch. Nicholson's home run sent Mattick and Passeau in ahead of him.

Bill Lee will be the Cub pitcher this afternoon when the Pirates invade Wrigley field for a three game series that will conclude the home season. Manager Frankie Frisch of the visitors has nominated Truett [Rip] Sewell. Lee will be seeking his ninth victory in 25 starts.

Two minutes before yesterday's game only the hardier customers in the box seat league retained their pews, a number retreating to the shelter of the grandstand when a light shower fell.

$75,000 STADIUM FOR MOOSEHEART OPENS SATURDAY

Mooseheart High school's new $75,000 Illinois Memorial stadium in Mooseheart, will be dedicated Saturday afternoon as a feature of the school's homecoming program, prior to the opening game of the football season with Champaign High school.

Michigan Tops California—in a Dummy Drill

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 23 [Special].—Only two days remain before Michigan departs for the west coast and its game with California, and so, to get the boys into the spirit of things, Coach Crisler today ran the team thru a dummy scrimmage—with the dummies marked with the names of players they will face Saturday. Jim Kirkovitch, California's back field ace, was the chief target of the Wolverines.

Following last Saturday's scrimmage in the stadium the list of injuries again mounted. Jack Karwales, a sophomore end candidate from Chicago, suffered a severe knee twist that will keep him out of uniform for nearly six weeks, the trainers report. Another Chicago boy, Bob Zimmerman, injured his leg but is expected to be ready for action tomorrow.

BADGERS WORK ON PLAYS.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 23 [Special].—Satisfied with the defensive work of the Badgers in Saturday's scrimmage, Coach Harry Stuhldreher ended the two-a-day drills and put the squad to work rehearsing its plays. Classes do not begin until Wednesday.

TWO ILLINI RETURN.

CHICAGOANS PROMOTED.

DODGERS WHIP GIANTS, 3-2, ON HOMER IN NINTH

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 23 (AP).—Dolph Camilli blasted a ball into the centerfield stands in the ninth inning today for his 23d home run and brought the Brooklyn Dodgers a 3 to 2 victory over the New York Giants. The centerfield stands are 399 feet from home plate and Camilli's drive landed high up in the second tier.

Anderson has moved Ken Pettit, who played guard last fall, to left end, which was his position as a reserve two years ago. Pettit is good defensively, a sure receiver for anything he can reach, but he doesn't run with short elusive bursts of speed which are essential for exceptional offensive play.

Maher Plays Right End.

John Maher, a junior who did not win a letter, is at right end where he hasn't distinguished himself, neither has he failed. Back of him are Wilford Burkett and Steve Mizen, sophomores. Mizen played at Proviso Township High school in Maywood, Ill.

Notwithstanding Iowa's left half back problem, the Hawks have, in addition to their pair of full backs, two mighty agile young men in Couppee, blocking quarterback and field general, and Bill Gallagher, senior right half. Gallagher was rated as the third quarterback last year. Bernard Mertes, Lane Tech, Chicago, is a promising sophomore right half.

Iowa's schedule is approximately one of the same caliber as last year, when the Hawks won six games, lost one, and tied Northwestern. In place of Northwestern and Michigan, Iowa will play Illinois and Nebraska. However, this means a five game conference schedule instead of six games. South Dakota again opens the season, furnishing opportunity to test the Iowa squad before the long run begins.

Center—Bruno Andruska, Will Diehl, George Frye.

NOGRADY BEATS VINNIE RICHARDS IN PRO TOURNEY

John Nogrady, a 26 year old pro from Mont Clair, N. J., played almost perfect tennis at the Chicago Town and Tennis club yesterday to eliminate Vinnie Richards, the four time champion, 8-10, 6-0, 6-1, 6-0, in the national professional tennis tournament.

Nogrady, by virtue of his victory, entered the quarter-finals. Donald Budge, the lanky Californian, Karel Kozeluh of Greenwich, Conn., and Joe Whalen, Larchmont Shores, N. Y. pro, also advanced.

Kozeluh's victory over John Lamb of Denver, Colo., yesterday was the result of years of experience. The three time winner pro champion breezed to victory, 6-0, in the first set, but was pushed a bit in the second and third sets, 6-2, 6-3. However, when the going was tough Kozeluh tricked Lamb into the net and then passed him with well placed shots.

Nogrady Meets Kozeluh.

Richards' defeat was imminent when the 37 year old veteran gave his all to win the first set 10-8. Nogrady meets Kozeluh tomorrow.

Fred Perry, former English Davis cup star who now makes his home in Beverly Hills, Cal., beat Bill Kenney of New York, 6-1, 6-3, and 12-10, to advance to the second round.

Tilden Plays Today.

Today's matches feature Perry and Bill Tilden in second round and quarter final matches against Ed Stillman of Brooklyn and Paul Martin of the Detroit Tennis club, respectively.

In the first round of doubles matches, also scheduled for today, Kozeluh and Whalen meet Ed Bax and Ed Stillman and Budge and Perry play Jack Macy and Ray White.

First Round.

Second Round.

Karel Kozluth, Greenwich, Conn., defeated John Lamb, Denver, Colo., 6-0, 6-2, 6-3.
John Nogrady, Montclair, N. J., defeated Vincent Richards, New York, 8-10, 6-0, 6-1, 6-0.

DICK KLEIN OF N. U. QUINTET IS RULED INELIGIBLE

Dick Klein, who starred in basketball for Northwestern as a sophomore last season, was declared ineligible yesterday to compete in Western conference sports for the 1940-'41 school year.

Ade Schumacher, assistant athletic director, said Klein failed to pass summer school work, making it impossible for him to qualify for competition in the basketball or baseball seasons.

Miss Traung Takes Lead in Women's Golf

Del Monte, Cal., Sept. 23 (AP).—Dorothy Traung set a 2 over par pace today to win medal honors in the qualifying round of the 1940 national women's golf tournament. The San Francisco girl, a finalist in the 1934 tournament and co-medalist two years ago, batted around the tough Pebble Beach course in 78.

Aside from Miss Traung's performance the opening day was distinguished by shaky golf. Only three of the 157 starters were able to come in under 80 shots.

Most of the top notchers were among the 64 qualifying for the first round of the championship flight which opens tomorrow.

LANDER BEATEN IN TEN ROUNDS BY JIMMY TYGH

Eastern Fighter Keeps 1940 Record Clear.

Jimmy Tygh, outstanding lightweight of Philadelphia, kept his 1940 record clear by scoring a 10 round triumph over Eddie Lander of the west side in Marigold Gardens last night. The decision of Referee Davey Miller and Judges George Kenny and Dr. E. Allen Frankel was unanimous.

Altho Lander never gave his opponent a chance to use his favorite weapon at long range—a pulverizing right to the jaw—he was kept so busy defending himself that he seldom received an opportunity to do any offensive work.

Lander Goes Thru Ropes.

A blow to the chin, which sent Lander half way thru the ropes, moved the crowd of 1,446 to cheers in the ninth. Gross receipts were $1,662.68.

Chico Romo, Denver junior welterweight, pounded out a close victory over Gene Ward in an eight round semi-final.

Sammy Secreet, Pittsburgh 150 pounder, and Frank Green, local heavyweight, scored victories in other matches of four rounds. Secreet beat Babe Thompson, Superior, Wis., and Green conquered Mickey Hayes of Milwaukee.

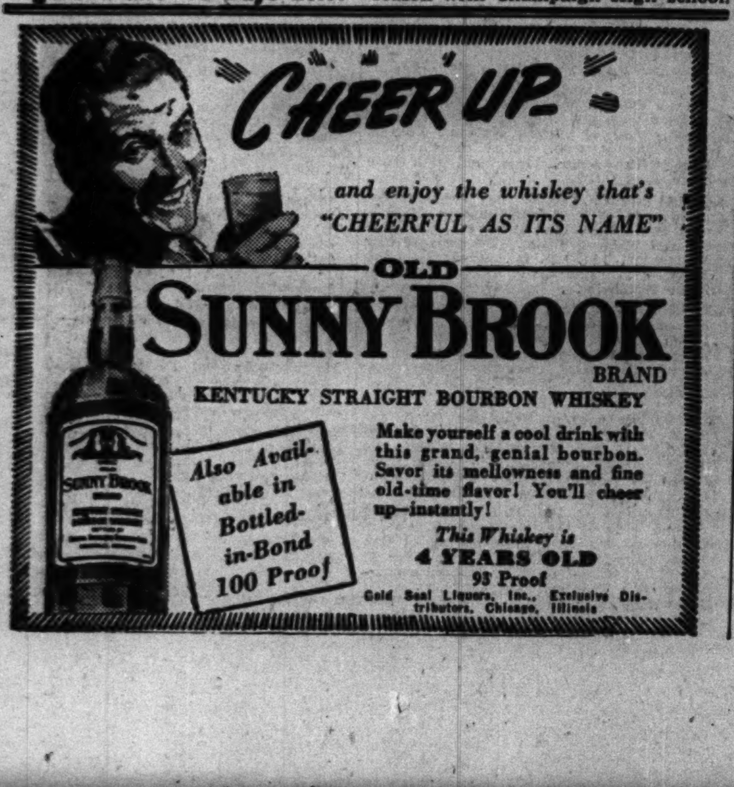
Don Goldberg Wins.

In the first bout Don Goldberg, Milwaukee light heavyweight, was awarded a decision in four rounds over Bob Fertig, who was refused permission to change his name to Bobby O'Brien.

Promoter Irving Schoenwald is ill and confined to bed in his north side home. George [Old Folks] Johnson, south side lightweight, will clash with Wendell White in a five round contest heading the amateur card tonight in Legion stadium, Devon and Western avenues. . . .

Pace Fights Salica for Bantam Title Tonight

New York, Sept. 23 (AP).—Georgie Pace of Cleveland and Lou Salica of New York will attempt to clear up the bantamweight title situation tomorrow night when they meet in a 15 round bout in the Bronx Coliseum.



HALE HOLDEN, 71, NOTED RAILROAD EXECUTIVE, DEAD

Head of Southern Pacific Retired Last Year.

New York, Sept. 23 [Special].—Hale Holden, formerly of Chicago, who retired in July, 1939, as chairman of the Southern Pacific company, died tonight in Doctors hospital after an illness of 12 days of a complication of ailments. He was born in Kansas City, Mo., 71 years ago.

After graduation from Williams college in 1890, he studied law at Harvard, and then began practice in Kansas City. After three years in the office of Warner, Dean & Hagerman, he was admitted to partnership. He entered railroading in 1907 as counsel for the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, and seven years later was elected president. At the same time he became president of the Colorado & Southern. His headquarters was in Chicago.

Served on Rail War Board.

When the United States entered the world war, Holden was named one of the five members of the railroad war board, organized by the roads to unify their operations in a single continental system. When the government assumed charge of this system at the close of 1917, William G. McAdoo, United States director general of railroads, invited Holden to take charge of the operating organization of the railroad administration, but he declined. However, he served for a brief period on the advisory board created to assist the director general.

In June, 1918, he resigned as president of the Burlington and the Colorado and Southern to become regional director of the central western section of the railroad administration. In February, 1920, he returned to the presidency of the Burlington and the Colorado and Southern.

He retained these two offices until Jan. 1, 1929, when he resigned to become chairman of the Southern Pacific's executive committee, a freshly-created position.

Salary $150,000 a Year.

His salary of $150,000 a year was equaled in railroading only by that of the late W. W. Atterbury, then president of the Pennsylvania railroad. With his advent, the supervision of the Southern Pacific system was placed entirely in New York, while previously it had been divided between New York and San Francisco.

In July, 1932, when President Paul Shoup was succeeded by A. D. McDonald, vice chairman of the executive committee, Holden changed his position to that of chairman of the Southern Pacific company. When he retired in July, 1939, the management of the road was shifted to San Francisco.

Holden was vice president and a member of the board of the American Railway association, 1919-'24, and, from 1922 to 1924, chairman of the executive committee of the association of railway executives.

Director of A. T. & T.

He also was a director of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, the Chemical Bank and Trust company, and the New York Life Insurance company.

Holden married Ellen M. Weston of Dalton, Mass., in 1895. She died four years ago. His survivors are two sons, Hale Holden Jr., of Philadelphia, vice president of the Pullman company, and Philip D. Holden of New York, assistant secretary of the Chemical Bank and Trust company; a daughter, Mrs. Winfield Scott Linn of St. Charles, Ill.; a sister, Mrs. Holden Lautenbach of New York, and a brother, Willard Holden of Los Angeles.

WAUKEGAN GIRL DIES OF INJURIES IN AUTO CRASH

Miss Mary Haney, 23 years old, died in St. Therese hospital at Waukegan yesterday of injuries suffered in an automobile collision Saturday on U. S. Route 41, two miles south of Waukegan. Miss Haney lived at 902 Glen Rock avenue, Waukegan. She was the daughter of Michael J. Haney, justice of the peace.

Lurine Robinson, 39, colored, died in County hospital of injuries suffered in an automobile collision on Sept. 8 at Wabash avenue and 76th place. She lived at 546 East 46th street.

An unidentified Negro about 55 years old was killed last night when he was struck by an automobile at 103d street and Dante avenue. Carl Wetherton, 27, an insurance salesman, of 241 West 107th street, driver of the car, was held by the Kensington police for the inquest.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 624 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 460 were killed in Chicago, where 16,930 were injured in the same period.

U. of C. Newcomers Frolic in Dormitory Parties

Girls in red pajamas, girls in striped pajamas, girls in "sailor suit" pajamas. They ate doughnuts and drank cider, they slid down banisters and threw pillows at each other. All this happened last night in the five women's dormitories on the University of Chicago campus. It was part of freshmen orientation week for more than 200 female newcomers who participated in the pajama parties. Miss Henrietta Mahon, a senior who, as head of the Federation of University Women, had charge, pronounced the event a "great success."

MORSE IVES, 72, ATTORNEY AND TRAVELER, DIES

Funeral services for Morse Ives, attorney and adventurer, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 200 East Erie street. Burial will be at Rosehill cemetery.

Mr. Ives died Sunday at the age of 72 in the Illinois Central hospital. In 1925 Mr. Ives and Dr. W. O. Krohn of the Field museum traveled into the interior of Dutch Borneo to hunt gold and zoölogical specimens in the country of the Dyaks, fierce headhunting tribesmen. They brought back many valuable articles which are now in the museum.

A retired member of the law firm of Ives & Bodenstab, Mr. Ives was affiliated with the Chicago, Illinois, and American Bar associations, the Chicago Law institute, and the Iroquois club. He lived here in a hotel at 1519 Warren avenue and had homes in Fairhope, Ala., and Watsonville, Cal. Surviving him are his widow, Georgana, and a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Van Nostrand of Redondo Beach, Cal.

Killed in Leap from Car Taking Him to Lockup

Frank Stanislawski, 18 years old, of Calumet City, was killed yesterday when he leaped from an auto as he was being taken to the Munster, Ind., lockup. Tunis de Vries of Lansing, Ill., a truck farmer, told authorities he found Stanislawski in his tomato patch, and that the youth jumped from the car a couple of blocks from the Munster town hall.

10 Days, Says the Judge to 3 Drunken Drivers

Judge Joseph B. Hermes had the same thing to say to each of three men who faced him in Safety court yesterday on charges of drunken driving: "Ten days in jail." They are John Vandervoort, 50 years old, a jobless waiter living at 613 Armitage avenue; Leo Skora, 42, of 1919 Potomac avenue, and William Tomczak, 38, of 8702 Exchange avenue.

Illinois Electoral Board Bars Reds from Ballot

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 23 (AP).—The state electoral board ruled communist party candidates off the Illinois election ballot today, holding that their nominating petitions were defective. The board held that the petitions lacked signatures of at least 200 voters from each of 50 counties, as required by statute. The decision sustained objections filed by Leonard W. Esper, commander of the Springfield post of the American Legion.

Flush Kidneys of Acid and Poisons

Gain In Health And Stop Getting Up Nights

When kidneys are continually overburdened they often become weak—the bladder is irritated—often passage is scanty and smarts and burns—sleep is restless and nightly visits to the bathroom are frequent.

A safe, harmless and inexpensive way to relieve this trouble and help restore more healthy action to kidneys and bladder is to get from any druggist a 35 cent box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules and take as directed.

Don't be an EASY MARK and accept a substitute—Get Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules—the original and genuine. Look for the Gold Medal on the box—35 cents.

Remember—other symptoms of kidney and bladder trouble may be backache, puffy eyes, nervousness and leg cramps.

BANKER FEARS INFLATION THRU ARMS SPENDING

Burgess Urges Curb on Federal Policies.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 23.—Painful economic adjustment must be made if serious inflation is to be avoided in connection with national defense spending, W. Randolph Burgess, vice chairman of the National City Bank of New York, asserted today.

W. Randolph Burgess.

Burgess told delegates to the American Bankers association convention which opened here today that the United States is ill prepared in many ways to control the inflationary influences of the defense spending program. He said that immediate steps should be taken to check inflationary influences and at the same time asserted that government policies are retarding the defense program.

"It remains to be seen," he said, whether we can make the adjustments rapidly enough to meet the emergency, and do so without damaging our economic machinery or impairing our productive capacity in other directions.

On Wild Spending Sprees.

"Our present bank credit and national debt, and our surplus bank funds are at ludicrously swollen figures. Our defense spending is piled on top of a huge annual budgetary deficit. We have been on a wild government spending spree and our habits of control are impaired."

As steps toward lessening of the inflation peril, Burgess advocated reduction in governmental expenditures outside of the defense program, the repeal of legislation that empowers the President to issue three billion dollars of paper money at his discretion, and the rescinding of the President's authority to proclaim a further devaluation of the dollar.

Burgess' discussion of the inflation outlook created unusual interest among the bankers. Burgess is regarded one of the country's foremost authorities on fiscal and banking matters. He was for many years vice president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and is frequently consulted by government officials on monetary questions.

No Excuse for New Powers.

The problem of controling inflation can and must be met within the framework of existing governmental powers, Burgess said. He warned that the situation should not be used as an excuse to extend further government powers in the economic field.

Condemning the philosophy that in meeting the defense emergency the government should be given absolute control over the lives of the people, Burgess declared:

"It is appalling to discover how many people are willing to accept that sort of a solution for the present problems of the United States. In order to combat Naziism as a form of government some propose that we surrender in advance, and adopt that form of government ourselves in the hope possibly that when the emergency is over we might be able to revert to a democracy once more."

He cited recent developments to illustrate how the national administration has been influenced by this sort of thinking. One example, he said, was the proposal for creation of a western hemisphere trade cartel financed by the United States.

"Fortunate" That Plan Failed.

"It was proposed to establish complete authoritarian control over the production and marketing of goods," Burgess said. "It is fortunate that the plan fell of its own weight. There are other examples arising constantly in discussions of legislation before congress."

Another sign of the influence of the authoritarian philosophy, he said, was the proposal that the government take over plants under the national defense program by force rather than to cultivate a spirit of coöperation between government and industry.

"Certain compulsions beyond those of peacetime are unquestionably required in time of war and emergency, but how far must they go?" the banker asked. "Is there an alternative to complete regimentation of the lives of the people? I believe there

Republic Steel Outlines Plans of Expansion

Republic Steel corporation yesterday announced a program of expansion, the latest project in a long series of plant improvements in the manufacturing industries which, according to government estimates, will involve total expenditures of 3 billion dollars in 1940.

Meantime the steel industry, which has been turning out ingots at around practical capacity with defense orders increasing, reduced its operating schedules for this week a shade to permit repairs or expansion work. Awarding of additional orders and contracts was announced by the navy and war departments.

Republic's capacity to produce iron and steel will be increased by enlargements and improvements at plants in Youngstown, Cleveland, and Canton, O.; Gadsden, Ala., and Monroe, Mich. At Youngstown one blast furnace will be enlarged and rebuilt and ingot soaking pits and blooming mills will be enlarged.

Defense Orders a Factor.

A rolling mill will be installed at the Cleveland plant, a 50 ton electric furnace will be built at Canton, and a mill for finishing coils will be built at Monroe.

The cost of the projects was not announced, because expenditures that will be required for some of the work had not been determined. Part of the work was made necessary by an increasing volume of orders directly or indirectly connected with the defense program, officials of Republic said.

Dow-Jones news agency said that the 3 billion dollar estimate for manufacturing plant expansion for this year was based on confidential figures prepared by the government and did not include expansions in other industries such as mining, public utilities, and railroads.

Steel Rate Set at 92.5.

This week's steel production schedules started at an average of 92.5 per cent of theoretical capacity, American Iron and Steel institute estimated. The rate was 92.9 per cent a week earlier and 83.8 per cent a year ago this week.

New contracts for army airplanes totaling $12,027,287 were awarded yesterday by the war department. The awards were:

Other war department contracts totaling $8,038,087 for the ordinance department and the quartermaster corps were announced. The largest was a $3,121,680 order for engines placed with the Wright Aeronautical corporation, Paterson, N. J. A $2,231,149 order for fiber containers went to the Seeley Tube and Box company, Newark, N. J.

The navy announced award of contracts totaling $3,750,000 for expansion of shipbuilding facilities to two private yards having navy submarine construction contracts, and other contracts totaling $12,985,332 for work at various shore establishments. Most of the total was made up of additions and changes to existing contracts.

An award of $1,000,000 went to the Manitowoc Shipbuilding corporation, Manitowoc, Wis., which has contracts for 10 submarines, and a $2,750,000 contract went to the Electric Boat company, Groton, Conn., which has contracts for 45 submarines.

CHICAGO INSURANCE LEADER SAYS FIRMS WILL FIGHT U. S. RULE

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 23 (AP).—Charles J. Zimmerman, of Chicago, president of the National Association of Life Underwriters, declared today the association "would unalterably oppose the invasion" of the federal government into life insurance control.

Charles J. Zimmerman

"We have no quarrel with a federal government which takes over those functions which cannot be successfully carried out by state and local governments," he declared, "but I believe it is not only our right, but our duty, to place a restraining hand on the grasping arm of a federal government which reached out to take over those functions which can be and are being successfully conducted by state and local governments."

Zimmerman, who spoke at the annual convention here, said the association had welcomed the investigation of the life insurance business, but declared "we are suspicious of the motives of some of the individuals" in Washington conducting it.

Albany Park National Bank to Make Final Distribution

The fifth and final distribution of 8.88 per cent for the closed Albany Park National Bank and Trust company will be made today at the office of Harry Joseph, receiver, 100 West Monroe street. The disbursement will amount to $131,284 and brings the total paid to 71.88 per cent.

Wheat Prices Climb 2 Cents; Top Since July

Wheat prices advanced about 2 cents a bushel yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade to the highest level since July 8 as cash grain handlers and short traders bought freely. Strength in stocks and a growing scarcity of free wheat available for purchase by mills resulting from the government loan program was responsible for the upturn, brokers said. The close was at the top, with December up 1⅞ cents. May gained 2 cents and July 1⅝ cents.

Other grains joined in the upward movement. Corn closed 1¼ to 1⅜ cents higher and oats gained ¾ to 1 cent. Rye finished 1⅛ to 1¼ cents higher. Soy beans closed ⅞ to 1¼ cents higher in the face of the receipt of the first car of new beans.

Cash Wheat Tops Loan Price.

As a result of the upturn in futures yesterday cash wheat in the winter wheat markets reached the government loan price. No. 2 hard on the Chicago Board of Trade sold at 82 cents, or 1 cent above the basic loan figure.

Widespread rain in the eastern part of Nebraska and thruout Kansas, Oklahoma, and Texas over the weekend are reported to have put the ground in many large producing areas in excellent shape for the new winter wheat crop. Between 60 and 75 per cent of the Kansas acreage has already been seeded.

Rains Delaying Corn Crop.

Rains in parts of Iowa and Illinois are expected to delay the maturity of the corn crop to some extent. Crop Expert H. C. Donovan, with Thomson & McKinnon, said he found considerable immature corn from Cedar Rapids north to Waterloo.

A scarcity of cash oats is reported developing at leading points of accumulation as the result of farmers refusing to sell. The visible supply of oats, as reported by the Chicago Board of Trade, is 8,806,000 bushels, the smallest at this date since 1908.

LONGER CHICAGO STOCK SESSIONS TO BEGIN MONDAY

The executive committee of the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday set next Monday as the date for placing in effect the lengthened trading hours voted Sept. 11 by the board of governors.

The exchange will open at 9 a. m. as at present and close at 3 o'clock Mondays thru Fridays and at 11:30 o'clock on Saturdays, adding one hour and one-half hour, respectively, to the sessions.

STOCKS MOUNT ON HOPES FOR ARMS PROFITS

Advance One of Best in Two Months.

New York, Sept. 23 (AP).—Industrial stocks, buoyed by growing defense spending and slightly lessening war tension, today swung into one of the best advances in nearly two months.

Activity broadened with the upturn and gains ranged from 1 to 3 or more points for pivotal issues and as much as 6 for an assortment of preferred stocks selling in 10 share lots. A number of the latter posted new highs for the year. Closing quotations were at or near the day's tops.

Steels, motors, rails, coppers, farm implements, chemicals, and electrical equipments were among the star performers. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks held a net gain of .9 of a point at 45.3. The rise equaled that of Sept. 4, which was the largest since July 30.

Trading Volume Mounts.

Despite occasional slowdowns as profits were cashed in various stocks bought at lower prices, transfers aggregated 982,250 shares, largest since Sept. 5. Last Friday's turnover was 380,550 shares.

Continuation of the air duels between the British and Germans failed to excite financial quarters as the belief was beginning to gain ground that John Bull would be able to withstand the Hitler thrusts, that chances of an invasion of England were growing dimmer, and that a long conflict would stimulate expenditures in the United States from abroad.

More attention was paid to the steady flow of home rearmament contracts involving billions of dollars, and stocks of companies which may benefit were among the most popular.

Steel Issues Advance.

Prominent in the rise were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, J. I. Case, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Westinghouse, General Electric, du Pont, Allied Chemical, Dow Chemical, Eastman Kodak, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting, Great Northern, Pennsylvania, New York Central, and Pullman.

Senior shares, many of which have sizable accrued unpaid dividends, reflected the belief that industrial expansion would enable companies to clear up some of the accumulations.

CHICAGO LIST IMPROVES.

Prices moved upward on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday as transactions rose to 30,000 shares, the largest turnover in several weeks. Of the 112 issues traded, 81 advanced, 28 were unchanged by comparison with Saturday, and three declined. Middle West, the volume leader, closed at 6, up ¼ point.

TREASURY PLANS REFUND BEFORE ARMS FINANCING

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23 (AP).—Secretary Henry Morgenthau Jr. announced today the treasury on Wednesday would refund $737,000,000 of 1½ per cent treasury notes coming due Dec. 15.

He explained at a press conference that the refunding was intended to "clear the decks" for anticipated heavy defense borrowing later this year.

Holders of the notes, he said, will be offered equivalent amounts of a new bond issue.

Packard Goes Streamlined

1941 Packards Displayed in Chicago Today

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Newly streamlined but retaining the familiar style characteristic, the 1941 Packards are being introduced to the Chicago public today, W. R. Bellows, vice president and general manager, Packard Motor Car Company of Chicago, announced yesterday.

Packard this year is featuring streamline styling, more luxurious interiors and a wide range of color, including the two-tone combinations that have caught the popular fancy. Engine changes consist largely of improvements in existing parts.

The newly designed One-Ten Special and One-Ten De Luxe—the lowest priced cars in the Packard line—have 6 cylinder 100 horse power engines. Next up the scale is the 120 series which has a 120 horse power straight eight engine. The more expensive cars, the 160 and 180, have 160 horse power straight 8 engines.

Rear End Is Streamlined.

Looking at the front end of the car one sees that the radiator is narrower, but the grillework across the front is wider. Headlights are recessed in the broad moulded fenders. Parking lights are set in the fenders just above the headlights. The bumpers are more massive. The hood is 2½ inches longer on all models.

The rear end is changed considerably thru streamlining. The roof line has been changed, sloping more. Chrome is used liberally in the exterior trim of the body.

Numerous two-tone paint combinations are optional. Interior color schemes are made to conform with exterior color combinations in many models. Plastics are used in instrument board and other interior parts trimming.

The mechanical refrigeration system first introduced last year is being extended further in the 1941 models at extra cost. Operating on the same principle as the household refrigerator, the Packard air conditioner sends cooled, dehumidified and filtered air into the car interior.

Hydraulic Window Lift.

Another feature of the cooling system, also extra cost equipment, is a new refrigerated celarette which may be installed in a cabinet in the sedan models just in back of the front seat. This device has a freezing unit which makes ice cubes.

The 180 series cars—the luxury cars in the Packard line—are equipped with hydraulic window lifts, which open and shut windows at the touch of a button.

Other mechanical improvements include an easier to operate gearshift mechanism now enclosed within the steering column and a two-speed windshield wiper. Engine changes include a more accessible oil gauge, new oil bath air filters on certain models and improved connecting rod bearings.

1,500 PRODUCE MEN MEET TO PLAN YOUR THANKSGIVING DINNER

About 1,500 members of the wholesale poultry, butter and egg industry yesterday discussed your 1940 Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners. The occasion was the 34th annual convention of the National Poultry, Butter and Egg association which is meeting at the Hotel Sherman.

Shippers from Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas, Texas and other midwestern states are in Chicago to arrange with brokers, distributors, and receivers in New York and Chicago and other large cities to handle their fall poultry packs.

Concensus of those attending the two day convention was that there would be fewer turkeys for Thanksgiving than there was last year, probably 10 per cent less. However, dealers said there were more turkeys than were needed last season so that there will be plenty to go around.

NEW FAST TRAIN TO BE OPERATED BY N. Y. CENTRAL

The New York Central system will place a new 17 hour Chicago-New York train in service next Sunday, J. W. Switzer, passenger traffic manager, announced yesterday. The train, to be known as the Grand Central, will leave La Salle street station daily at 2:30 p. m. central time and arrive in New York City at 8:30 a. m. eastern time.

Changes in schedules of several trains, effective on the same date, when Chicago returns to central standard time, also were announced. The Mercury, a streamliner between Chicago and Detroit, will leave here daily at 9:15 a. m., instead of 9 a. m. The Twentieth Century Limited will continue its 16 hour schedule between here and New York, leaving Chicago at 4 p. m.

QUESTIONS SEC'S RIGHT TO RULE UTILITY BOARD

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23 [Special].—Declaring that the imposition of restrictions under the utility holding company act on the payment of dividends on its common stock by Northeastern Water and Electric corporation would be "uncomplimentary" to the management of the company and "arbitrary," counsel for the company today questioned the right of the Securities and Exchange commission to control the actions of directors.

BRITISH BUYING BOOSTS AUGUST EXPORT VOLUME

Sales Abroad Rise to 349 Millions.

Recovering from a July slump that reflected the Mediterranean blockade and removal of France as a leading market for American goods, United States exports increased in August to $349,800,000, compared with $317,021,000 in July and $250,102,000 in August, 1939, the department of commerce reported yesterday. It said increased buying by England caused the upturn.

Imports into this country declined last month as compared with the July volume, but were larger than in August of last year. The figures: August, $220,217,000; July, $232,256,000, and August, 1939, $175,623,000.

Eight Month Figures.

The August exports brought the total for the first eight months of 1940 to $2,734,616,000, against $1,895,745,000 in the corresponding 1939 period. Imports in the 1940 period totaled $1,746,231,000, compared with $1,438,991,000 in the first eight months of 1939.

Excess of exports over imports was $129,583,000 last month, compared with $74,479,000 in August, 1939. The excess for the first eight months of 1940 was $988,385,000, against an excess in the same 1939 period of $456,754,000.

BRITISH BUYING BOOSTS AUGUST EXPORT VOLUME

U. S. Trade Recovers from July Slump.

A study of the exports by types disclosed that the gains in August were accounted for mostly by shipments of metals, machinery, aircraft, and other goods usable for war purposes.

Exports of iron and steel manufactures, the department said, rose to $65,000,000, from $49,000,000 in July. Outgoing shipments of airplanes and parts, most of which went to England, totaled $37,000,000, compared with $23,000,000 in July. The August plane figure is the largest for any month on record.

Nonmilitary Exports Lower.

Emphasizing the influence of the war on this country's foreign trade were the figures on exports of agricultural products and other nonmilitary products, which on the whole showed declines.

Comparisons of exports and imports of principal agricultural commodities, giving figures for August, 1940, August, 1939, the first eight months of 1940, and the first eight months of 1939, in that order, follow:

Imports of unmanufactured tobacco [pounds]: 7,329,000; 7,548,000; 50,710,000; 51,328,000.

Exports of wheat [bushels]: 934,000; 5,903,000; 11,244,000; 56,934,000.

Imports of wheat for milling and re-export [bushels]: 585,000; 939,000; 6,019,000; 7,404,000.

Exports of corn [bushels]: 3,332,000; 1,087,000; 29,597,000; 18,326,000.

BRITISH PLAN TRADE DRIVE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 23.—Britain is embarking on a big trade and diplomatic push in South America. It was officially announced tonight that a special mission, headed by the marquess of Willingdon, former viceroy of India and governor general of Canada, will leave for South America early next month, charged not only with the task of stimulating trade but also with explaining to the South Americans the British war policy and attempting to reconcile them to the necessity of the British blockade of Europe.

Altho the United States is Britain's chief trade competitor in Latin-America, political sources in London declare that the Wilingdon mission has the sympathy and approval of the Roosevelt government.

From details available tonight, the mission's objective appears to conform closely to the British government's Balkan drive preceding the German blitzkrieg, the aims of which were to "buy Germany out of the Balkans" and swing Rumania and the other countries into the British economic and diplomatic orbit.

Scrap Iron Dealer Agrees to Pay Back Wages to 300

The Hyman-Michaels company, 122 South Michigan avenue, railroad scrap iron dealer, yesterday agreed in federal court to make restitution of $14,204 in back wages to 300 employés under the terms of the fair labor standards act. The payment was for overtime. The agreement was in the form of a consent decree issued by Federal Judge William H. Holly. The individual payments range from $1 to $350. The company operates in 22 states.

COTTON

Aggressive buying attributed to mills and strength in securities combined to lift cotton prices to a new high on the current movement yesterday. The close was about the top, with gains of .05 to .15 cent a pound.

Spot cotton closed unchanged to .07 cent higher with New York, 9.70 cents; New Orleans, 9.55 cents; Galveston, 9.20 cents, and Houston at 9.18 cents a pound. Prices follow:

Commodities

Prices of zinc and lead advanced sharply yesterday in the wake of increasing demand for nonferrous metals for national defense that apparently exceed available supplies.

Zinc, which for the last several weeks has been particularly "tight" in supply, was raised 0.4 cent a pound to 7.25 cents, delivered East St. Louis, the highest level since August, 1937. Lead was boosted 0.1 cent a pound to 5 cents, New York basis, and 4.85 cents, East St. Louis, the highest since last May.

Copper futures continued their steady climb and closed 0.05 to 0.10 cent a pound higher, with December contracts setting a new yearly high at 10.60 cents a pound. Copper sales thus far in September were estimated at 187,988 tons, the highest monthly figure on record.

In other commodity futures markets, prices swung upward, wool tops, hides, rubber, and Santos coffee pushing ahead for substantial gains. Wool tops were ahead 0.11 to 0.15 cent a pound. October deliveries again reached a new high for the season at $1.04½, a gain of 1½ cents, and December at 98.6 cents was near the season's peak. Cash wool tops advanced 1½ cents to $1.13½.

Hide futures rose 0.43 to 0.54 cent a pound, with December contracts at an outside price of 10.40 cents. Rubber futures were 0.01 to 0.08 cent a pound higher.

RESEARCH BODIES POOL DATA TO AID OTHER CONCERNS

Banks to Act as Clearing House of Reports.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 23 (AP).—The research laboratories of more than 800 industrial concerns were placed at the service of other less well-equipped companies today in a bank vice president's scheme for increasing industrial efficiency.

The Research Advisory service announced thru its founder, Bert H. White, vice president of a Buffalo bank, that approximately 850 major companies had agreed to accept thru it the industrial problems and queries of other companies.

The service, maintained by a group of American banks, has the approval of E. J. Stettinius, member of the national defense advisory commission, White said.

Acts As Clearing House.

It will serve as a clearing house of vital industrial research information. It began its service today by sending out to industries, banks, and national trade and industrial publications the National Inventors council's selection of the most vital defense needs in a concise report containing more than 1,000 answers to this question:

"What new product, process or material might industrial research develop that would be valuable to your industry?"

FIND NEW USE FOR COAL

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 23 (AP).—Research scientists have developed a new process for conversion of coal into oils important to the dye, lacquer, and varnish industries which may open up a new field to the bituminous industry.

Carnegie Tech officials said the new chemical operation would convert soft coal by means of a hydrogenation process into varnish oils in a manner far more efficient than hitherto known. It also would provide certain "high-boiling" or nonvolatile oils which may open another wide field of research in themselves.

TRANSPORTATION LINES SET NEW TRANSFER PEAK

More passengers took advantage of the interline transfer system between the surface lines and the elevated lines within the last 12 months than in any other year since the arrangement was begun, an analysis of traffic figures showed yesterday.

Figures as of Sept. 21, fifth anniversary of the transfer plan, showed that 38,768,069 passengers transferred between the two lines, compared with 36,159,978 in the preceding 12 months. In the first year of operations under the plan, 29,975,000 interline transfers were issued.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by HOMER J. NEISZ

Ailing Steers Recovering.

Sept. 23, 1940.

THE feeder steers on pasture at the Du Page county farm apparently are recovering from a series of digestive disturbances that have plagued the herd for more than a month. Three of the animals died. More than a dozen others have been sick.

Some of the steers were affected by bloat. This caused the death of one. It has not been determined what was wrong with the others. Similar trouble has been reported on several other farms in the neighborhood, both in beef and dairy herds. As a precaution against further trouble from bloat the steers have been taken out of a combination clover, alfalfa, and soy bean pasture and put in one where the grazing is chiefly timothy and bluegrass. There has been no further evidence of bloat since the steers were removed to the new pasture.

Treatment for Bloat.

Altho bloat is fairly common among cattle and sheep grazing on legume pastures, its exact cause is not well understood and there is much disagreement as to how best to prevent it. Here is a plan that is said to have been used successfully on some Illinois farms for many years:

1. Accustom the live stock to grass pasture.

2. Allow the animals to fill up with grass before turning them onto the legume pasture.

3. Once the animals are put on the legume pasture, leave them there continuously to avoid danger of their overeating when returned to the pasture.

4. Have plenty of water and salt convenient in the pasture at all times.

Grass in a pasture mixture, or dry roughage, such as hay or a straw stack in the field, is considered an aid in preventing bloat.

Stubble Fields Clipped.

Most of the stubble fields at the farm have been clipped with mowers to prevent weeds from going to seed. The others are to be clipped soon. There was a fairly heavy crop of ragweeds in the wheat stubble, but only a few in the oat stubble fields. Apparently the rank growth of volunteer oats that came up after harvest choked out the ragweeds.

Workers fear the oats also may crowd out the young clover and alfalfa plants growing in the stubble. They recall, however, that alfalfa seedings survived in the fall of 1936 when a heavy growth of volunteer oats came up in the stubble fields. Some of the oats headed out that fall before frost.

Volunteer wheat also came up after the August rains and many fields of wheat stubble in Illinois are said to be infested with Hessian fly. W. P. Flint, state entomologist, says the infestation is mostly light but is spread over most of the state. He offers this suggestion to farmers: "To avoid Hessian fly damage this fall sow your wheat one or two days later than the normal date for the highest yield in your county." This date varies with the different counties between Sept. 17 and Oct. 12.

PREDICT SKILLED LABOR SHORTAGE FOR FURNITURE

Chicago Factories Going Near Capacity.

Chicago's many furniture factories are operating at a high rate of production, some at capacity, the Chicago Furniture Manufacturers association reported yesterday. Many have augmented their staff of workers, and the demand for skilled labor in the furniture field is likely to exceed the supply, the report said.

Furniture executives have announced substantial increases in business since the July market compared with the corresponding 1939 period, the association said. Some companies recorded gains of as much as 50 per cent. The average increase was estimated at 20 per cent.

Outlook for Winter Good.

Several companies said that initial orders have been shipped promptly this fall, so that repeat business began coming in within a short time, earlier than usual.

The majority of manufacturers reported an encouraging outlook for the rest of the year, according to the association, and commitments for raw materials accordingly have been large.

The association interpreted this pickup in sales experienced by the Chicago manufacturers as a reflection of intensified retail activity on a nation-wide scale because reorders are being received from stores in all parts of the country.

Deliveries Become Problem.

With many plants taxed to capacity, deliveries appear to be raising a problem. A few novelty furniture makers have piled up sizeable inventories in anticipation of heavy fall buying so that present deliveries are proceeding on schedule. When this merchandise is gone, however, difficulty is expected in keeping up with incoming orders. The limited supply of skilled labor also adds to the problem, according to the association.

As a result of these complications, slight rise in furniture prices is anticipated in the near future, probably materializing in the November market, the statement said. A rise in raw materials costs to a point where Chicago manufacturers will be unable to prevent it from being reflected in their prices is also a possibility, the association said.

UNIFIED TRANSIT LAW DRAFT SENT TO COMMITTEE

But 2 Major Issues Are Still Unsettled.

A draft in legal language of the city's proposed unified traction ordinance was sent yesterday to Ald. James R. Quinn, chairman of the local transportation committee, by attorneys for the city and the transit lines. The lawyers have been six weeks preparing the draft.

Philip Harrington, traction commissioner, who worked with the attorneys, said that the ordinance is complete except for two important points to be settled by the lines and half a dozen points of minor policy or legal phraseology that the lawyers are refering back to the transportation committee. More than 90 per cent of the 103 page draft has been jointly agreed to by attorneys for the city and the lines, he said.

Pension, Bus Issues Remain.

The two major problems remaining are agreement on a pension plan for the transit lines' 21,000 employés and arrangement by the lines to buy or lease the Chicago Motor Coach [bus] company as part of the unified traction system.

Ald. Quinn said that the transportation committee will meet Thursday with representatives of the companies to try to iron out the minor points.

Questions involving employés' pensions and the bus company must be taken up by the lines directly with employés and the bus company, Ald. Quinn said. He added that he expects to place the traction ordinance as drawn before the city council Oct. 2.

Tunnel Claims Unsettled.

Altho yesterday's draft is subject to approval by the transportation committee and the lines' representatives, virtually all of the sections agreed to by attorneys are expected to be left intact.

Minor points still unsettled include disposition of the Market street elevated stub, which runs for three blocks between Madison and Lake streets, and the surface lines' claim to street car tunnels under the Chicago river.

Two sections drafted jointly by the lawyers, but open to previous objections by some aldermen on the transportation committee, concern division of revenues from advertising and concessions in the city owned subway and operation in the subway of trains of the North Shore suburban electric line, 12 months after subway operation begins.

'400' OBSERVES FIRST BIRTHDAY AS STREAMLINER

The "400," Chicago and North Western railway's high speed Chicago-Twin Cities train, today will celebrate its first anniversary as a streamliner. A huge "birthday" cake will be on exhibition at the North Western station in Chicago.

Officials of the road said the "400" has traveled more than 300,000 miles in the last year without interruption. Available figures on passenger traffic cover only the first eleven months of the streamliner's first year. They show 203,385 passengers were carried, an increase of 46 per cent over the number for the corresponding period of the preceding year, when the train was of standard type.

Woodrow Wilson stated it, "the highest and best form of efficiency is the spontaneous coöperation of a free people."

Policies Hamper Program.

Burgess asserted that the defense operations are being hampered by existing government policies.

"The program is laggard, held back by red tape, technicalities, and a failure to put first things first," he declared. It is essential, he said, that the national administration abandon certain attitudes and policies that threaten the program.

The first essential, he declared, is that the whole nation be put back to work and that government policy be shaped to encourage private enterprise. If this course is adopted, he said, the danger of inflation resulting from the added stimulus of the defense spending will be materially reduced.

Specifically, he mentioned the need for a revision of the national labor relations act, and modification of the stringent controls and technical regulations which, he said, are stifling the security markets.

Urges Wage-Hour Law Study.

He also urged that serious consideration be given to economic effects of the mandatory provisions of the wage-hours law. The reduction in working hours and the overtime compensation provided by the law tend, he said, to raise costs and prices both to the government and the general public, and thus create an inflationary influence.

Smith, Hemingway Candidates.

One is Russel G. Smith of San Francisco, executive vice president of the Bank of America, the Giannini bank. The other is W. L. Hemingway, president of the Mercantile-Commerce Bank and Trust Company of St. Louis.

It again appeared possible that the convention would divide between those who champion the cause of branch banking and those favoring independent unit banks. Because the unit bankers represent a majority of the membership, it was considered that the candidacy of Smith would not get far. Hemingway, on the other hand, is regarded a stout champion of unit banking.

Under the association rule of succession, the man chosen this year as second vice president will be president of the group two years hence.

Roy R. Marquardt.

Marquardt has been a prominent figure in the association for several years. He succeeds A. George Gilman of Malden, Mass.

Harry A. Bryan of Parsons, Kas., was elected president of the state bank division, and Armitt H. Coate, secretary of the New Jersey Bankers association, was chosen to head the state secretaries section for the next year.

ASKS U. S. COURT TO VACATE ORDER ON GAS RATE CUT

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals was asked yesterday to vacate a recent temporary injunction by which it restrained the federal power commission from putting into effect a wholesale gas rate reduction involving Natural Gas Pipe Line Company of America. The power commission and John E. Cassidy, Illinois attorney general, filed petitions asking that the injunction be side aside.

The attorney general's brief, prepared by Harry R. Booth, assistant attorney general, asserted that the court was without jurisdiction.

The rate cut would amount to about $3,500,000 a year. Natural Gas Pipe Line pipes Texas natural gas to Joliet, Ill., where it is sold to another company. Most of the gas eventually reaches Chicago and is mixed with artificial gas for sale to consumers.

Rock Island Equipment Trust Issue Authorized

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23 (AP).—The Interstate Commerce commission authorized the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railway today to issue $2,460,000 of equipment trust certificates in connection with the purchase of equipment.

TIN FROM BOLIVIA.

In an article about American sources of tin I ran across mention of Patino Mines. I understand that this is a South American outfit, but perhaps you have some data on it.—H. L.

Answer: Owning one of the world's richest tin deposits, Patino Mines and Enterprises Consolidated, Inc., is the world's largest producer of tin. Altho capable of an annual output of 20,000 long tons [2,240 pounds each], the company limits its production and exports to the quota set by the international tin cartel, of which it is a member.

The Patino Mines are located in Uncia-Llallagua, Bustillo province, Bolivia. The tin normally is exported in concentrates to England for smelting. The company does not operate its own smelters. Executive offices of the enterprise are in New York City.

The company has outstanding 1,350,000 shares of $10 par capital stock. American certificates are listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Earnings are reported separately in English and Bolivian currencies, depending on the monetary source of the revenues, and are not converted into one currency. Dividends on the stock have been paid irregularly since 1929.

COVERED EMPLOYMENT.

Answer: Persons employed in factories, mines, mills, shops, stores, offices, on American ships, banks, and other places of business come under the old age and survivors provisions of the act. Those working on farms, in domestic service, in government service, for nonprofit organizations, in the fishing industry, and on railroads [already covered by the railroad retirement system] are not eligible for social security benefits.

ENGLISH PLANTS.

Does Procter & Gamble have any plants in England? If it does, do you know whether they were damaged in German raids?—R. C.

Answer—The English subsidiary of Procter & Gamble company has two plants—one at Newcastle upon Tyne, and another at Manchester, England. Neither has been damaged in air raids, according to recent reports.

HOLC LOANS.

Is it still possible to obtain a loan on my home from the HOLC?—B. W.

Answer: No. The Home Owners Loan corporation ceased its lending operations June 12, 1936, and now is merely collecting payments on outstanding loans.

Salesmen.

Y-O-U-R O-W-N
B-U-S-I-N-E-S-S

Would you be interested in starting a business for yourself without 1 cent of investment on your part?

Well, that is exactly what we have done for many men in this territory.

These men are previous storekeepers, doctors, lawyers, shopworkers, mechanics, etc., and are now earning and receiving in percentage as much as $50 in a single day.

We are an old line, nationally known manufacturer of electrical units that defy competition and for which there is a constantly increasing demand.

Now, here are the arrangements: You must be between 24 and 54, preferably married, honest, reliable, possess a neat appearance and possess at least a grammar school education.

At this time we will only interview men living on the South Side and southern Cook county.

Every man answering this advertisement will be given a confidential interview and if selected will be trained at our expense in our methods, which are successful.

There are no strings attached to the offer, as we even can pay rent, light, heat, telephone, girl hire, consign your merchandise and finance your account.

Apply Tuesday, at 11 a. m. sharp. Ask for Mr. Eckman, 2d flr., Standard National Bank Building, 7919 S. Ashland-av.

We don't care what your past work or earnings have been. I am not worried about your education, your religion or your nationality.

I am interested in how ambitious you are and how willing you are to work to qualify for the kind of weekly and monthly earnings being made by men already connected with our organization.

You may be employed now but starving for lack of opportunity. You may be out of work and in need of employment. However, if you have been out of a job for more than six months I doubt if you are the kind of man who can hold down the position I have to offer.

It will cost you nothing to investigate this ad and I cannot tell whether you could qualify in our line, an electrical unit, which is outstanding in its field, unless I can talk with you. Come in for a preliminary interview TUESDAY OR WEDNESDAY, between 9 a. m. and 4 p. m.

SEE EMPLOYMENT MANAGER.
ROOM 618.

DIRECT SALESMAN OR CREW MANAGER. Sensational brand new cosmetic sundry. One of the outstanding inventions of the age in this field. Nothing like it. Fills enormous need. Monthly repeater. Nearly every woman would readily pay two to four times our prices. Extra special sales plan makes direct sales in units of one dozen to six dozen. Direct sales are made in offices or business places, or through contacts, and not door to door. Big margin profit. Commission possibility $18.00 to $50.00 per day. Exclusive territory to satisfactory producers. Call or write Sales Manager, 2d floor, 412 N. Orleans-st.

will interview salesmen, inexperienced in our line, for placement in our approved dealer sales organizations; men selected must be South side resident, own an automobile, and be able to furnish good references. Salary during training period. Apply between 9:30 to 1 p. m. Room 7-130 Merchandise Mart.

COLORED men earn $3 per day comm. and bonus. Take orders for Cosmetics and incense. 2241 Indiana-av., 4th floor.

Personal Loans

On Your Own Signature

Here salaried men and women [single or married] can get $25 to $250 or more entirely on earning capacity and personal responsibility. We prefer to make these loans the way most people like—without security—without endorsers.

NO WAGE ASSIGNMENTS

Simply do this:
1. Make application. [Can be in person or by phone.]
2. Come in, sign and get the cash.

Pick Your Own Payments

Take a year, or more, to repay. You know best how much you can afford each month—you name the payment which best fits your income.

PRIVACY

We keep the entire transaction strictly between us. Your employer, friends or relatives are not notified.

SIMPLE TO GET

Our loans are made on the simple basis of your ability to make small, regular payments, and if you can, you should not hesitate to see us for a loan, at once. Come in or telephone.

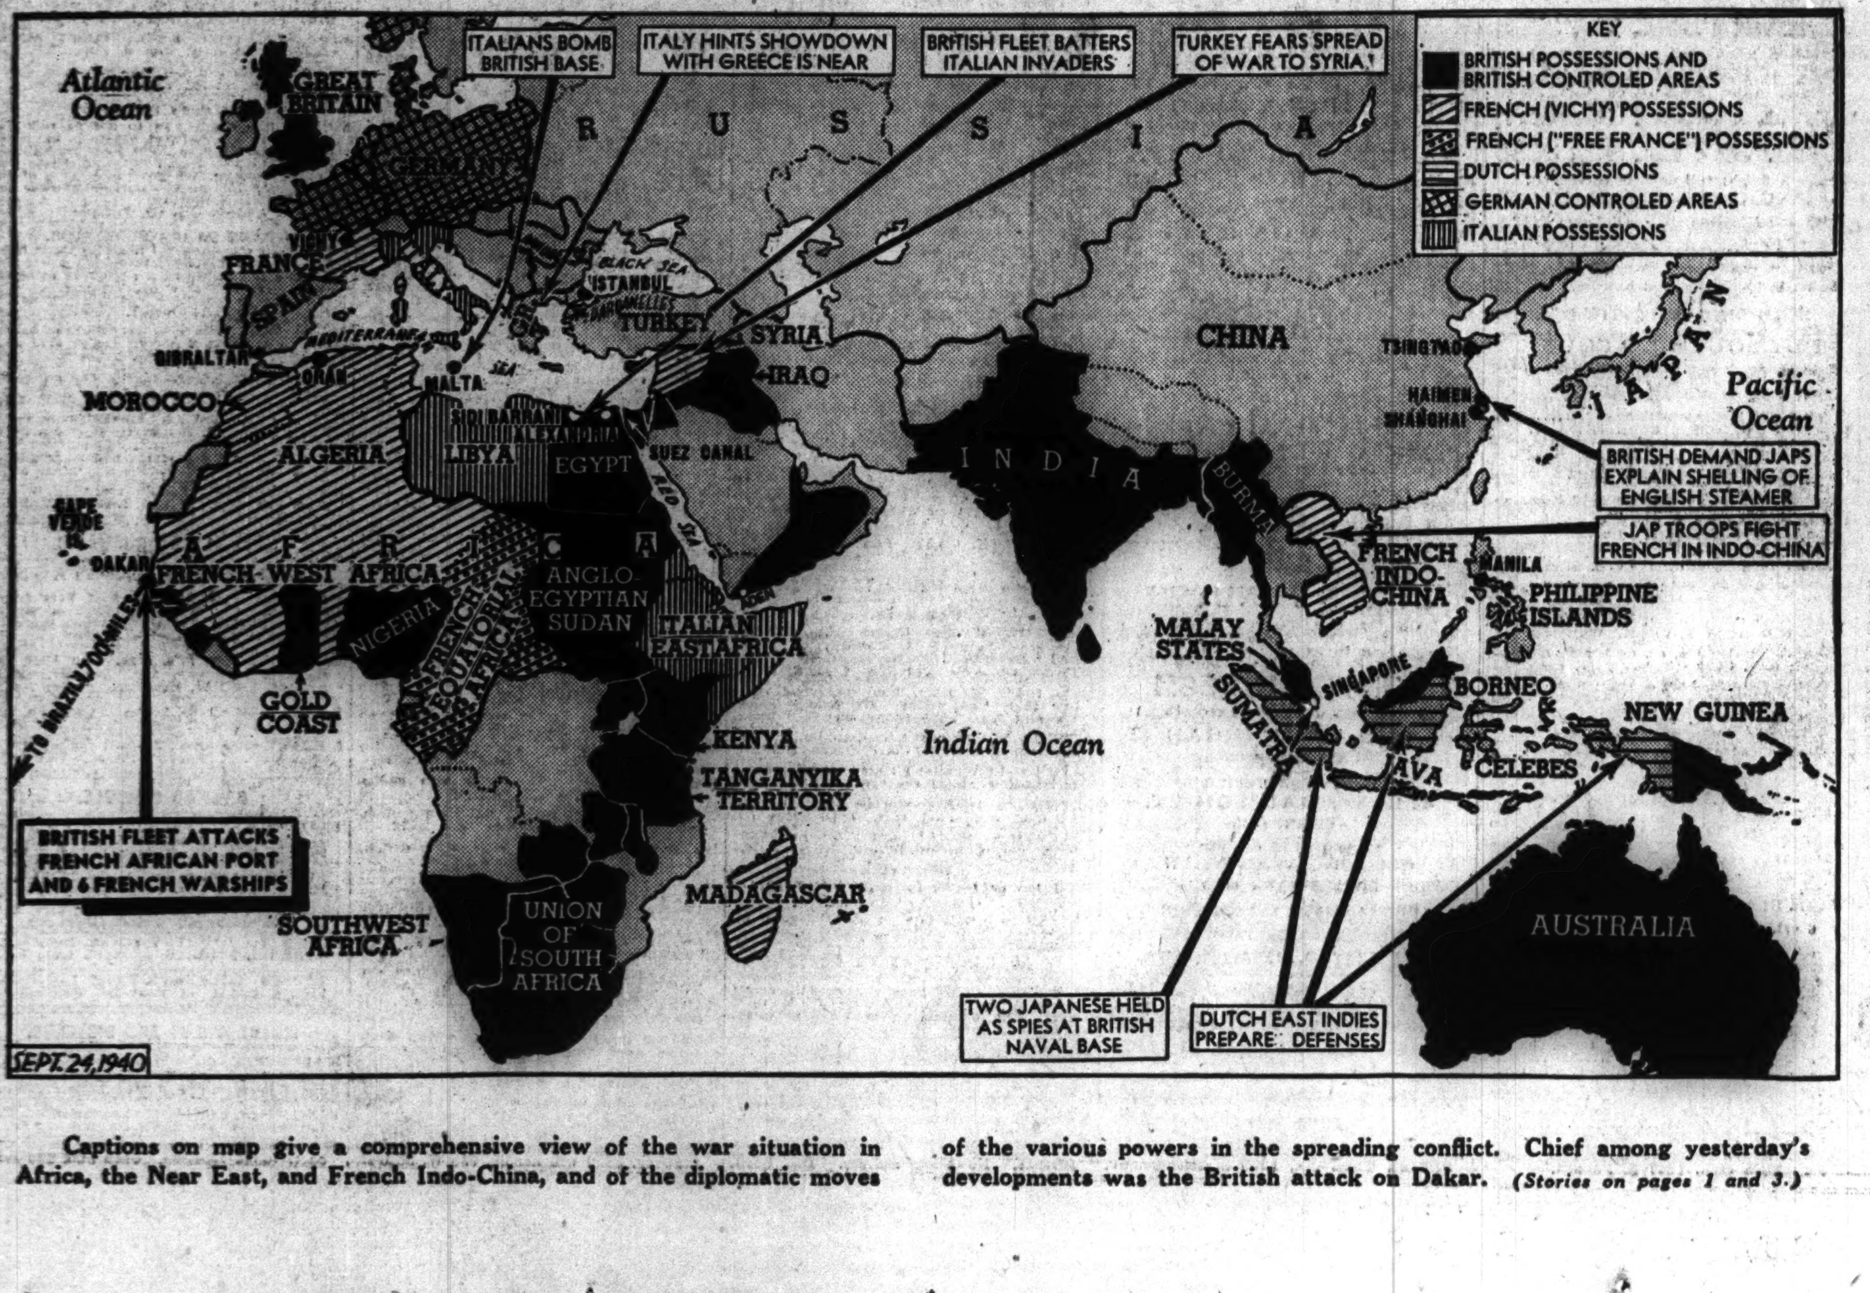
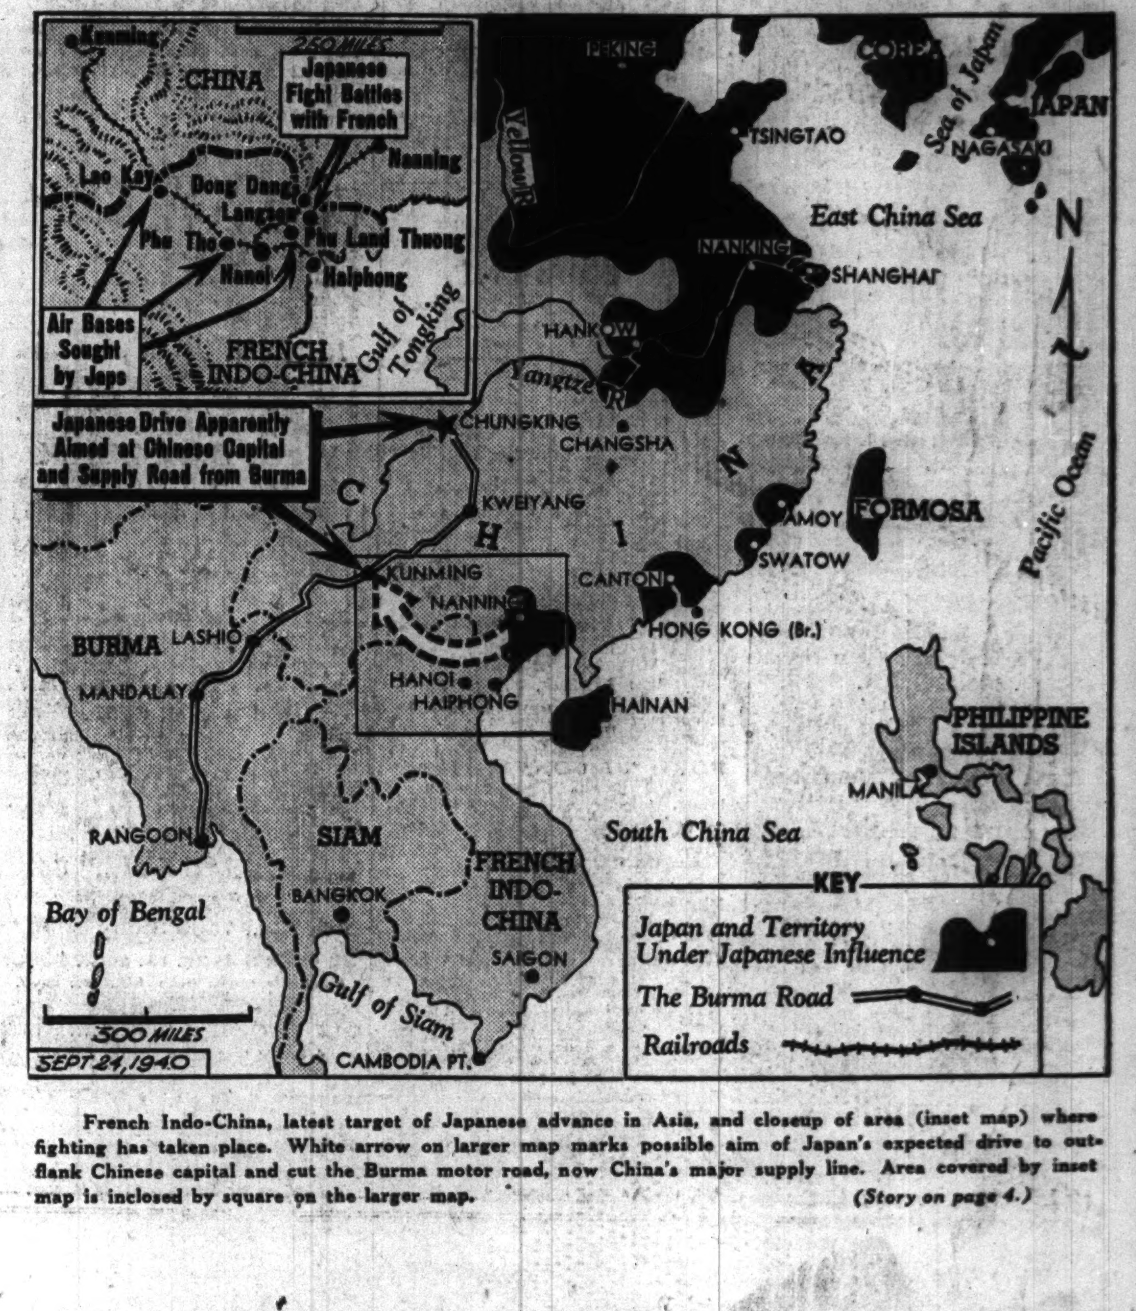
Antiaircraft guns defending London flash in the dark night, throwing shells, according to British caption, at raiding planes. Concussion of guns causes shells to leap from stacked rows.



Captions on map give a comprehensive view of the war situation in Africa, the Near East, and French Indo-China, and of the diplomatic moves of the various powers in the spreading conflict. Chief among yesterday's developments was the British attack on Dakar. (Stories on pages 1 and 3.)



French Indo-China, latest target of Japanese advance in Asia, and closeup of area (inset map) where fighting has taken place. White arrow on larger map marks possible aim of Japan's expected drive to outflank Chinese capital and cut the Burma motor road, now China's major supply line. Area covered by inset map is inclosed by square on the larger map. (Story on page 4.)
